INTRODUCTION.

WHY write a history of the Talley family? Who were they and what have they accomplished? Those who ask these questions need have the means of answering themselves. This reason is a sufficient justification for the issue of this book.

No claim will we make that all of the Talleys were great and noble. Where will you find a crop of fruit or grain entirely free from blight or chaff? In searching out this record many extensive fields have been gleaned; and in the subsequent processes of threshing and winnowing, we have secured an abundant yield of well-formed, full-weight, golden grain.

Why should I assume the task and the responsibility of gathering up and preserving this record? The answer may be found in the fact that it has never heretofore been done, though highly important that it should have been.

When I began this work, I, like many others, simply knew my ancestry back to my grandfather. I knew that Thomas Talley was my grandfather, merely because I had in childhood played around his knees, in front of the blazing hearth.

We were then too young to further scan the past. Youth lives only for the future, and in hope of the coming manhood. After maturity our minds are more given to retrospection, and Inquiry will then often ask, "Who were our ancestors?" Alas, how often no response is heard! Many times have we asked this question without receiving a satisfying answer.

Through perseverance, however, the question has been solved so far as it relates to America. These revealed matters must not be kept a secret for one alone, but must be for all. By this publication it is brought within the reach of every one.

That I have been able to devote the time necessary to accomplish this task, arises from the fact that my health gave way, at three different times, under too intense application to my profession—the law—in the active, bustling city of Chicago. On this account, alone, I was forced to leave the city, and to seek retirement and rest in the country, amidst green fields and shady trees.

While thus resting, the Talley genealogy has been gradually unfolded, and made ready for publication. The earnest desire and hope is, that it may prove satisfactory to the most critical, and of lasting benefit to this numerous family.

Mr. O. B. Talley, of Sioux City, Iowa, has been most active, earnest, and successful in gathering up matters connected with the family genealogy, and has most generously given his services in aid of the work. We take pleasure in introducing this distant Talley to the consideration of his many relatives in other parts of our country. He is entitled to sit around the family board without other credentials than the record just made. He is a worshiper of our ancestral name, and delights to honor it.

William A. Talley, of Brandywine Hundred, has firmly and heroically stood by me in this work. He has labored most effectively in the matter of procuring subscribers and thereby producing the motive power, which is, after all, the one thing necessary to start the wheels of any large enterprise. May he always remember with pleasure our many consultations about this work, at his home on the Naaman's Creek Road. We must feel under great obligations to Mrs. Elizabeth A. Talley, widow of Samuel Talley, Mrs. Mary Johnson, Curtis M. Talley, Isaac N. Grubb, J. Henderson Talley, Amos C. Brinton, Lewis F. Talley, Henry I. Talley of Philadelphia, and a host of others, who kindly gave time, furnished papers, and records of many kinds, all of which aided in solving the difficult problem.

When judging of the merits of our work, kind reader, view it not in the light of its present development, but consider the conditions existing a year ago, when all were content with tracing back only to the grandparents. Standing now at the close of the book, with its leaves thrown open, you may conclude that the task had been easy. Perhaps, your opinion may be modified by viewing the book from the front, with its leaves securely sealed against you.

A certain family record was thirty years in preparation. If this work had required so long a time for its completion, some one other than a Talley must have done it. No one of our name could have patience to engage in so long a term of service. The material for this book has been procured in a comparatively short time, although attended with most trying difficulties.

Many times in our searching did the way grow dark with discouragements. Occasionally would we catch the faintest glimmer of the guiding Star of Hope ; then would it fade and disappear ; again would it return more bright than before ; until at last it shone forth as the perpetual Polar Star, which most kindly led us into the great highway of certainty and success. May you all share with us the pleasures of our fortunate discoveries.

In the future let us not sit quietly down, but let us note all matters relating to our genealogy, whether in America or in Europe. This being done, may we not hope that our history in the "old country" shall yet be unfolded?

Bright Star of Hope ! still lead us on.

CHAPTER I.

OUR NAME—ITS ORIGIN.

That every person should have a name appears to be an indispensable requisite. The reason for the adoption of a personal name is, that one person may be distinguished from all others, and thereby become identified.

Some bear long and illustrious ancestral names, won by noble deeds on the field of battle, or in halls of state. Such a name should be prized by all and disparaged by none. However, the blind worship of a noble name, which causes one to live in listless idleness, and to feed himself upon the glory of a renowned ancestry, is anything but commendable. Every one should strive to add new lustre to his family name ; for it is aptly said :

“ By birth the name alone descends,
Your honor on yourself depends.”

Family names often originate from some office, occupation or color ; as, Smith, Miller, King, Black, Brown, etc. Our name is most positively “ Talley,” and not “ Tally.” It is spelled “ Talley ” the first place we find it written in this country. It is spelled the same in England to-day, and was thus written on the Swedish list of 1693. This very old name in Virginia is also spelled “ Talley.” Throughout the early deed of Mary Campbell to William Talley, it is written “ Talley.” Let us not deviate from the old, well-beaten path, but always write it “ Talley.”

The name is of very ancient origin. From the Latin adjective talis, meaning like or similar, we get the genitive case tale, pronounced “ Talley.” From this Latin word comes the French infinitive tailler, to cut, or to make like by cutting, also comes the participle taille, a cutting. These words are pronounced as if spelled tahl-yai, with the "l" almost silent.

All the Latin countries, as Italy, Spain, Portugal, and France, have a similar word ; but it is not found in Germany, Holland or Sweden, because their language comes almost wholly from the old German or Teutonic. There is still another Latin word that may have much to do with our name. Talea means a shoot, sprig, scion or stock. Thus the stock or stump of a tree. The French have formed from this word their word talle, pronounced exactly as if spelled "Talley." The meaning is, the stump or trunk after cutting away the branches ; hence throwing out shoots or new branches.

Either of the words tailleur or talle may have been the origin of the name Talley, or perhaps both combined may have been. In either case the name would be of Latin-French origin.

The word stille, from which the name Stilley came, is of old German origin, and is found almost wholly with the nations which sprang from the Teutonic race. It is thus shown that certain names are local to a class of nations, and not general among all.

Some persons suppose that the word tally is used only to express the number five. A tally in counting does express five, but this is only one of several ways of using the word. This meaning grew up from the custom of counting by cutting notches on a stick, or making strokes with a pencil ; thus four notches or strokes and one for tally. Counting by this method was not by units, but by fives or tallies, and was both speedy and accurate.

In France a sort of tax was levied, called the taille tax. A tax cut out or taken on a like ratio from all persons of a certain class. It was levied upon land, and arbitrarily, whenever it might be needed by the government. Here again is our name found in the language of France. (See Victor Duruy's History of France.)

In England, when two things were cut to match, they were said to tally. In this way the English words, tally, tally-man and tally-shop, originated. A tally-man was the keeper of a tally-shop. A tally-shop was a place where goods were sold on credit, and the accounts were kept by notches cut on sticks, each party holding one of the sticks, which were carefully compared on final settlement.

It is stated by Wagner in his book entitled, "Names and Their Meaning," printed in London in 1891, that prior to 1782, when the British Government accepted money upon loan, the acknowledgment was written on both sides of a broad, flat stick, which was cut into two parts; one piece, called the stock, was given to the lender, and the other piece, called the counter-stock, was deposited in a government room called the tally-office. This instrument of reckoning was called the tally, from the French verb tailler, to cut. When the stock and the counter-stock matched, they were said to tally, and settlements were made accordingly.

There are other ways in which our name may have originated, but they all run back in the direction of France. There was born in England, in 1515, a certain Thomas Tallis, who was justly styled the father of English Cathedral music. This name is of French construction, but Tallis wrote his name simply "Thomas Tallys." He was the author of such high-class music as the Te Deum, Nicene Creed, Gloria in Excelsis, Nunc Demitis, and many others.

Tallis and his pupil, William Byrd, obtained from Queen Elizabeth a royal grant for the exclusive right to print music in England for twenty-five years. Tallis died in 1585, and was buried in the church at Greenwich. We have not had the means to follow this family farther, but if Tallis left descendants, they may have come down the long centuries since his death as the modernized Talley.

There was in Wales as far back as the eighth or ninth century a renowned bard named Taliesen—one who thrilled the patriotic hearts of ancient Wales by his poetry and national song, and caused these hardy western mountaineers to gain the mastery over all eastern England. We are told that this illustrious songster was so much revered by the Welsh people that to this day many youths are given the Christian name of Taliesen; also in southern Wales there are people surnamed Talley, whose names may have originated from Taliesen, they being called Talley for short. As an illustration, we state the fact that a noted singer attended the Ocean Grove Camp Meeting this year (1899) whose name is Taliesen Morgan. Those who knew him, simply called him Talley Morgan.

Then, again, we have the name of Talleyrand, illustrious in France centuries before the birth of the brilliant diplomat of the Napoleonic regime.

Hence we have here clustered together many sign-boards pointing to the probable origin of our name. Perhaps, were we to follow all of the windings of these devious paths, we might converge at last in that land of the vine, and of beautiful flowers, and of national greatness, just across the English Channel.

CHAPTER II.

OUR NATIONALITY.

Perhaps one of the most interesting questions to us, and the one most difficult of absolute and correct solution, is, What is our nationality? Or from what country did our ancestors emigrate, when they sailed for America?

The search on this line has been both prolonged and earnest. Old and new books have been bought, borrowed and hired, with the hope of finding a faint trace of how our common ancestors first landed on the shores of the Delaware. All known Swedish and Dutch histories of our early colonies have been ransacked from preface to index, with the view of finding, if possible, somewhere hidden away among the Petersons, Stidhams, Neilsons, Springers, Jaquettes, Alrichs, and Vandevereers, one stray name of Talley.

He does not materialize either as Governor, Legislator, Surveyor, Tax-Collector, Land-owner, Wolf-catcher, or even as Dust-sweeper in the church.

If we search all of the petitions, presented in the early days on many different occasions (and their number was legion), we may not find the name of Talley thereon.

We have been unable to find a single deed with the name Talley therein, prior to the first coming of William Penn. Even in the "Long Finn's Rebellion" in 1669, in which nearly all of the Swedes on the Delaware were implicated, we do not find the name Talley among them, nor in any manner connected with the trial.

The Talleys have in most things been considered modest, but not in the matter of acquiring and holding lands. They have been accredited with knowing a good thing at sight. Had they been here with the early Swedes, they, without doubt, would have owned some of the fine lands that lay adjacent to the Delaware River, when they could have procured them almost for the asking.

The spirit which induced people to emigrate to this new country was that of liberty and acquisition. What was there here to acquire but lands and Indian scalps? Our family were never known to glory in the latter, and where was the land that they acquired in the Swedish days?

It not appearing definitely what our nationality is we must claim our birthright with some of the nations which have treasured our name and preserved it in history. We find no trace of our name in either the Swedish or the German language; but, finding it in France, England and Wales, we are forced to the conclusion, that some one of these is the place of our origin.

In Southwestern France, near the ocean, we find the town of Taillebourg, where the British were defeated in battle about 1242. Somewhat to the southeast of this city is the province of Perigord, a district centuries ago conferred upon the Talleyrand family for meritorious services.

In the list of eminent names of the Talleyrand family we find—Elie Talleyrand, an eminent cardinal, born at Perigord, 1301 and died 1364; Henri Talleyrand, Comte de Chalois, a courtier to the king, born 1599; Gabriel Marie Talleyrand, Comte de Perigord, a French general, born 1726, uncle to the great diplomat, fought at Hastenbeck and Crefeld, and died 1795; Louis Augusti Talleyrand, a diplomat, was born in 1770; and Charles Maurice Talleyrand de Perigord, born at Paris, February 2d, 1754.

The last named, the meteoric diplomat of Europe, eclipsed all his compeers, and for his brilliancy procured the denunciation of the bookmakers of the age in which he lived. If he was devoid of honor, it may have resulted from the teachings and examples set him, in the days of intrigue in which he lived. Napoleon conceived that he was most valuable to him, or he (Talleyrand) would not have filled the offices that he did. Poor Talleyrand could practice artifice on other nations for the benefit of his master, but not upon Napoleon. Not living in that day, we can only hope that Talleyrand was not so black as he has been painted.

The last Talleyrand lived up to the year 1838, and died at the age of eighty-four. It is not claimed that we are descended from this Talleyrand. It is, however, interesting to search out the origin of the early Talleyrand name. The name undoubtedly was Talley before it became Talleyrand. Rand means an edge or a border. May not the word have been formed by bringing into one word the phrase talle y rand? Talle is a perfect French word, as shown in Chapter I.

We wish to record some facts here that may or may not in the future aid in solving the nationality problem. James Le Fevre came to America in the early Swedish days and settled about New Castle. He had two brothers, John and Hypolite; all were French Huguenots. John and Hypolite settled in England. We find that in 1698 a Hypolitus Le Fevre made a deed as the husband of Katharine Johnson, daughter of John Johnson, who lived just north of Marcus Hook. William Talley also joined in the same deed as the husband of Elinor, the late widow Johnson and mother of Katharine Le Fevre. William Talley may have also been a Huguenot, and came from England with Hypolitus Le Fevre. This is only the merest supposition, however.

We now turn in our search to the British Isles, and here we find Tallis (Thomas Tallys) the great composer of church melody. Tallis is in form French, but as spelled by himself "Tallys," using a "y," would indicate a Welsh derivation. However, there was about ten years ago a lawyer in England named William Talley.

In the rugged and romantic hills of Wales, in Carmarthenshire, we discover the full-fledged town of "Talley;" and down the highway, about five miles southward, we find at the Railroad Crossing the "Talley road-station." For a moment's delight procure a large Atlas and view for the first time your own name written on the map of Europe.

After months of research, it was as refreshing as a spring in a desert to find what might tend to cast some light upon the subject so earnestly sought and longingly desired.

Another adventure, almost as thrilling, was the finding of the name of William Talley on the records of Probate at Philadelphia as early as February 17th, 1686. On this date he was appointed joint administrator with Elinor, widow of Jan Jansen. He afterwards married the widow.

He is shown on a tax list in 1693, on the Swedish church list of 1693, and joins in a deed of the Jansen land in 1698. The Talley has at last crawled from his hiding-place. It is no longer a matter of conjecture.

A list of Swedes, and those affiliating with the Swedish churches here, was sent to the mother country in 1693. On this list William Talley was placed as the head of a family of seven. The purpose of this list was to induce the sending of ministers and some religious books to the colony. Now, it cannot be claimed that all on the list were Swedes, as several thereon were known to be of different nationalities. Elias Toy and Thomas Dennis were surely from the Emerald Isle; Cornelius, Jacob and William Vandeverer were well-known Hollanders; Isaac Savoy may have been French; Robert Longhorn and William Talley were from England or Wales, no doubt. The reliability of this list, being wholly Swedish, is thus completely destroyed. William Talley's name is on the list because he had become the husband of the widow Jansen, who perhaps was a Swede or a Hollander; although she may have been French.

This family of seven was no doubt composed largely of the minor children of the late Jan Jansen, who were known to have been in existence at that time, and who no doubt gathered around the family board, after William came to preside as the adopted father.

The tax list of Chichester, then of Chester County, Pennsylvania, for 1693 shows the name of "William Talle" among many other old and familiar names. As the Jansen name does not appear on the list, it may be that Talley was assessed as representing the Jansen land, or he may have been assessed for his own land in the upper part of Rockland Manor.

William Talley was contemporary with such men as William Clayton, William Cloud, John Grubb, Philip Roman and Francis Chadsey. Some of the important names on this tax list were—

Jeremiah Collet,	Phillip Rumen,
John Kingsman,	Richd. Buffinton,
Wm. Clayton,	Wm. Talle,
Jas. Browne,	Rogger Smith,
Wm. Flower,	Henery Hasteings,
Jos. Chandler,	Wm. Thomas,
Jas. Whitaker,	Chas. Rawson,
Francis Chadsey,	Wm. Hues.

There is some bad spelling in making up this list. An assessor's orthography is not always to be followed. The following names are misspelled on this list, viz : Roman, Buffington, Talley, Henry Hastings, Hewes and Roger Smith.

These men were assessed, several at 8s. 4d. ; others at 6s. od. ; and some at 2s. 6d. William Talley is assessed 6s. od. He was not the highest nor the lowest on the list. This list shows that nearly all on it were of British descent.

Now, in closing this chapter, we may safely claim, until the contrary is shown, that we belong to the Gaelic or French race, which inhabited ancient France or Gaul, and centuries ago, perhaps, passed over into England or Wales, and from there found our way to America, about the time of William Penn.

It has been stated in a humorous though truthful way, that the Talleys, although of Gaelic origin, have in changing from France into the British Isles, and from Britain to the Rocky Hills of Brandywine Hundred, lost probably from association some of their "Gaul," and have become modest and unostentatious Americans.

A quiet vote was taken on the question of our nationality, as the canvass was being made for the information necessary for this book. The majority was overwhelming in favor of England being the place from which our ancestors migrated to America. This will we ever claim until some sure foundation is laid for a different local habitation for our emigrant ancestors.

Without question there has been an intermixture by marriage with other nations since coming to America ; but this cannot change the nationality of the first Talley who landed here. This man's nationality must ever be considered as determining that of the Talley family in America.

We find not the usual German and Swedish Christian names among the Talleys of the early day. We find only such English names as Thomas, John, William, Samuel, David, Mary, Charity, Hannah, Sarah, and Rachel. Even the name on the Swedish list of 1693 is written in clear English, "William Talley."

Historians out of the family may without much thought class us with other nations, but we of the family know some things by intuition and instinct, as well as by tradition. These constrain us to believe that the Talleys are British, except so far as intermarriage may have wrought changes.

No matter what the nationality of our mothers may have been, we are Talleys, all of one family and bound together by the strong ties of flesh and blood. We are without doubt all good and true American citizens, and proud of our country. May nothing ever arise to destroy our patriotism, or to estrange us from one another !

CHAPTER III.

THE LANDING IN AMERICA—THE PROCURING OF THE FIRST TRACT OF LAND.

Certain it is that some one by the name of Talley landed in America from some European port, but the time and place of landing is involved in much doubt. The date has been placed by some as early as 1648, by some as 1664, and by others as 1668. Dr. Reuben Allmond, of Illinois, who made quite a study of the matter, places the date at 1675.

There is nothing of record to show the exact date, so far as has yet been discovered. We can neither find the vessel which carried this precious freight to the shores of America, nor the foreign port of embarkation. If they came in 1648, they must have landed at Christiana, now Wilmington, and should have been found in the territory either north or south of the Christiana Creek. We find no mention of the Talleys in or about this region in the early Swedish or Dutch times. They held no land there, nor did they hold any office, or take any part in the affairs of the Swedish churches at Cranehook, Tinicum, Wicacoe, or Christiana.

We frequently find lists of church officers, pew-holders, and donors to the church fund, as well as names of soldiers about the forts; even laborers are often mentioned. Among all of these we find no name of Talley, until after the first arrival of William Penn. After this date it is not difficult to find the name, if we make the proper research, and have the endurance to continue to the end.

The needle may be known to be in the haystack, and still may not be found. It is not known that the man Talley was in these vast colonial forests prior to the time of Penn. If it is difficult to find the needle, how much more so to find the man in the woods, when perhaps he never was there. Chasing myths through the jungle may be very amusing, but otherwise not a very profitable occupation.

We have but one tradition as to the place of landing in America. Mr. J. Henderson Talley, son of John Talley, the Methodist minister, informs us that he has often heard his father, and a very old man who lived in their family named James Zebley, speak of the Talley landing-place, and that it was at Upland, now Chester. Later revelations have tended to confirm this tradition.

William Talley, our common ancestor, was here in 1686, and was on February 17th, 1686, at Philadelphia, appointed joint administrator with Elinor Jansen, of the estate of Jan Jansen, her deceased husband. Jan Jansen at the time of his death resided on the east side of Chichester Creek. William Talley is also named on the Swedish Church list of 1693. The same year he is placed on the tax list of Chichester Township, then of Chester County, Pennsylvania. He married widow Jansen sometime between 1686 and 1693. Jan Jansen was an extensive land-owner along the river, east of the location of the Trainor Cotton Mills.

William Talley about this time purchased a tract of land down in Rockland Manor. There he made his abode, among rocks, swamps, large trees, wolves and Indians, and was the first settler at Foulk's Corner. Thus was founded the first Talley settlement in Brandywine Hundred. From this wilderness home, whether it was the open woods, a cave, or a log hut, sprang the great Talley family, which afterwards swept over the whole north and northwestern portions of Rockland Manor, from Naaman's Creek to the Brandywine.

We find that Isaac Warner, of Philadelphia, procured a warrant on the 2d mo., 12th day, 1682, from William Penn, for a tract of land called the "Partner's Adventure," situate on the west branch of Naaman's Creek and extending for nearly a mile on each side of the creek. The tract contained four hundred acres, and was thus bounded: "Beginning at a corner marked poplar standing by the south side of said branch and running by a line of marked trees northeast 267 perches to a corner marked white oak standing by the head of a small run ; thence by a line of marked trees northwest 120 per. to a black oak ; thence by a line of marked trees southwest 534 per. to a corner white oak standing by a swamp ; thence along a line of marked trees southeast 170 per. to a corner poplar ; thence by a line of marked trees northeast 267 per., crossing to the first named poplar."

It may be that William Talley was the silent partner in this "adventure." It will be noticed that although this land extended from near the Siloam Church to the Thomas Vance place on the Foulk Road, not a road, house, or other artificial structure, is mentioned, nor does it appear that any neighbor's land bounded this tract. Neighbors were scarce, no doubt, in that day and territory. All of the boundary lines ran along by "marked trees," thus proving that the whole tract was carved out of a dense woods.

Think of living and feeding a family in such a place, and possibly without funds, horses, cattle, or implements of agriculture. It was truly hewing out a home in the wilds of America. No doubt the old "flint lock" was the means of procuring meat for the family, which, with johnny cake, was the staple diet.

On the 16th day of March, 1695, William Talley procured from Isaac Warner a deed for all of said tract of land lying on the westerly side of the creek, which deed was on March 17th thereafter acknowledged in open court at New Castle. This deed conveyed the legal title to the first tract of land owned by the Talleys in Rockland Manor.

William Talley did not survive long to enjoy the liberties acquired in his new domain, for he died some time between 1698 and 1702. He joined with his wife and the heirs of Jan Jansen, in 1698, in conveying one tract of the Chichester lands to Robert Laugham. In 1702, when the remaining tract was sold to Philip Roman, Mrs. Elinor Talley made the deed as the widow of William Talley.

In the interim between these two deeds, William Talley passed away, and no stone or monument marks the place of his interment. He, like many of the early settlers, sleeps in an unknown grave, "unwept, unhonored and unsung."

CHAPTER IV.

DEATH OF THE FIRST WILLIAM TALLEY—HIS CHILDREN—DESCENT OF HIS LANDS.

William Talley the first died about 1700, the exact date not being known. It is supposed that his two children, Thomas and Mary, were born of the marriage with Elinor Jansen. These children may have been born not later than 1690. They would be old enough to marry by 1711. It is known that Thomas had a son William, born in 1714. This would indicate that Thomas married some time between 1711 and 1713.

As William had only two children, and he and Elinor were married sufficiently long before his death to allow of the birth of these, we may well conclude, in the absence of other proof, that Elinor was the mother of these children. Still it may have been that William had a prior wife, and that the two children were born of such marriage, and that no children were born of the last marriage.

Let this be as it may, it is clear that Thomas and Mary were the children and only heirs-at-law of William Talley the first, and inherited the land, consisting of two hundred acres, which William purchased from Isaac Warner in 1695. William, it seems, added nothing more to his land holdings, as he lived only about five years after receiving the Warner deed.

Thomas Talley married, but no record has been found of the marriage, nor has the name of his wife been discovered. Her name has not been mentioned in any deed, family Bible, or other found record. Thomas was not an extensive land-owner, or his wife's name would have been shown in some deed of conveyance.

Thomas lived to a great age. He, from all accounts, may have been the oldest Talley known to have lived on this continent, and may be entitled to be styled the Patriarch. His death occurred in 1781, as is recited in a deed by and between his three sons, William, Samuel and David, which is recorded at Wilmington in Deed Record E, vol. 2, pg. 426.

The son William being born in 1714, the father must have been born as early as 1690. This would make him 91 years old in 1781. If his mother was not Elinor, then he was born of a prior marriage, and may have been more than 100 years old at his death in 1781. A tradition is recorded by John Foulk Talley, of Ohio (son of Harmon), that an ancestor, Thomas, lived to be 115 years old, and that he was a great violinist and played all night for a party when he was 111 years old. The number of years mentioned here may be a little excessive.

Thomas was the man who erected the first saw-mill on Naaman's Creek, at Foulk's Corner. It was in operation long prior to 1771. As the mill sawed slowly at the early day, Thomas had abundant time to tune the violin, and amuse himself and his helpers, as the huge logs jogged their weary way through the mill. We may in our fancy imagine the beautiful harmony in the lonely woods of the jog ! jog ! jog ! of the mill, keeping time to the sweet strains of the violin.

This life in the woods was wild, romantic and musical, if not entirely one of ease and comfort. Thomas Talley was, in life, full of music, at his death full of years, and in early manhood he was the pioneer manufacturer on the headwaters of Naaman's Creek. This was perhaps honor enough for the day in which he lived.

The deed mentioned herein shows that Thomas had six children, named as follows : William, David, Samuel, Mary, Susanna, and Hannah. The parents who gave names to these children were surely descended from the English race, and must have been people of strong character ; for several of the children became able men and women, and a power in the community.

Mary, the only sister of Thomas, married Peter Campbell, of Salem County, New Jersey. Peter and Mary, on September 28th, 1738, by deed conveyed their share of their father's land to William (son of Thomas), who was their nephew. William then became tenant in common with his father in the original Talley tract of two hundred acres. This deed from Campbell is the earliest deed known to be in existence, to-day, which conveyed land to the Talleys in Brandywine Hundred. The deed from Warner to William Talley is of earlier date; but who now has it in keeping? We know nothing farther of the Campbell family. May some enthusiastic Talley youth take up this thread and follow it to the end.

The original Campbell deed is in the possession of John Booth's family. It is written on paper, not on parchment, and is well preserved. Its preservation is surely a wonder. The deed is here given in full, as copied from the original :

TO ALL PEOPLE TO WHOM these presents shall come greeting; Know ye, That we Mary Talley alias Mary Campbell and Peter Campbell of Salem County in the West Jersey. Given under my hand and seal this third day of September, 1760.

R. W. WILLIAMS, Recorder of Deeds.

NOTE.—By the statute of Charles II, (1683) governing Delaware, the eldest son inherited a double share. Hence Thomas owned $\frac{2}{3}$ and Mary $\frac{1}{3}$. William by this deed only acquired $\frac{1}{3}$ of the original tract.

CHAPTER V.

THE FIRST TRACT OF LAND—ITS CORRECT LOCATION—
ITS USE—THE TALLEY SAW-MILL.

The tract of land conveyed by Isaac Warner in 1695 to William Talley contained much more than two hundred acres. The surveys made by these early surveyors were scarcely more than walks through the woods.

This tract of Talley land, whatever it contained, was bounded to the northeast by the branch of Naaman's Creek, and extended westerly on both sides of what is now the Foulk Road, and beyond Lonkum Run, just west of the present house of Thomas Vance. The tract included all of the Foulk farm, those of Adam Pierce and James Wilkinson, and the farm now occupied by Wesley Beeson, the Foulk Road frontage of the farms of Uriel Pierce and Robert Casey, nearly all of the Vance farm on both sides of the road, and the tract southeast of Edmund Mousley's house. The creek boundary on the northeast is a crooked line, but the side lines are practically parallel, and the west end line is straight and nearly right angle to the sides. The north-westerly abuttal is a part of a straight line which extends from near Zebley's corner almost to Shellpot Creek. A part of the southeasterly boundary is the line between the Adam Pierce and Casey farms. The entire southeasterly line is made by protracting this Pierce-Casey line easterly to Naaman's Creek and westerly across the Casey and Uriel Pierce farms, and across the Grubb Road, through the Vance farm and across Lonkum Run. The strip on the southeasterly side of the Foulk Road is about 22 rods deep. It is about $37\frac{1}{2}$ rods from Foulk's Cross-Roads to the Pierce-Casey line. See map on another page.

What was the inducement to take up this home in the wilderness? It was not to hunt wolves nor to catch fish. The overtowering timber, the "forest primeval," was the magnet which drew the Talley family to this tract of land. Historians tell us that the hunting of timber in the back country, miles from the river, indicated the nationality of the settler there; it being as natural for the British settler to go to the timber as it is for the proverbial duck to seek the water. The Dutch and Swedish settlers remained close to the rivers and the rich pasture lands.

By a search among some ancient deeds we soon find where the Talley saw-mill was located, and what kind of crops were harvested from this tract. The exact date of the starting of this mill is not known. It was, however, in operation on the creek, just above the residence of the late John Foulk, prior to 1771. By a recital in a deed made by Samuel Talley (son of Thomas) to John Foulk, dated in 1787, it appears that "Thomas Talley, Sr., deceased, father of Samuel, did in writing, dated March 26th, 1779, convey to John Foulk a lot or tract of land on the westerly branch of Naaman's Creek, on which there was and now is a saw-mill." It thus appears that Thomas Talley, son of the first William, had a saw-mill at this place at a very early period.

The saw-mill tract can be readily found at this day by running the following lines: Beginning at a corner stone by the side of the great road leading to Wilmington, on the lower edge of the creek; thence south 55° west 6 per. to a corner stone; thence north 35° west 25 per. along a road that leads to Gibson's mill; thence north 55° east 10 per. to the creek; thence along the creek southeasterly and along Robert Cloud's land $35\frac{1}{2}$ per. to the place of beginning, containing $1\frac{1}{4}$ acres.

The great Wilmington Road was the Foulk Road, and the road to Gibson's mill was a road that ran somewhere near the present Foulk farm lane, and passed on to Beaver Valley, where the Gibson mill was located. Robert Cloud's land lay just across Naaman's Creek, and was the northeasterly portion of the Isaac Warner tract, and included more than two hundred acres. Mr. Cloud did not purchase this tract until after 1700. The saw-mill deed is recorded in Book "I," vol. 2, page 90, in the Recorder's Office at Wilmington. The saw-mill is again mentioned in a deed recorded in Book "E," vol. 2, page 426. The recital being that "Thomas Talley conveyed to John Foulk, Samuel Talley and David Talley a small tract or piece of land to build a saw-mill upon." The date is not recited, but it says it was prior to 1780.

In an old account book, belonging to William Talley, who was born in 1714, we find a charge under the date 1771 against Samuel Talley for "one day hauling logs to the saw-mill," and "to hauling one load of scantling to Marshall's house." The charge for the day's hauling was £1, and for the scantling 14 shillings. This mill was in operation, then, before 1771, and no doubt did a flourishing business, and was the first manufactory in that neighborhood. Some of the lumber run out may have been used in that vicinity, but no doubt large quantities were hauled to Marcus Hook and Grubb's Landing, and shipped to foreign parts. Fine white oak abounded in that country, and large quantities were hauled away for ship building.

The mill kept in operation until nearly all of the valuable timber was cleared away. The grubbing business then began along the Foulk Road district, and to quote the complaining farmer there, it has been grub! grub! ever since. But, then, where is the man who does not grub for what he gets in this world?

He either grubs to get it, or grubs to hold what has generously been given him by some kind ancestor. Let us, then, all take courage and heroically grub and tally!, and tally and grub! until our purpose in life has been accomplished.

CHAPTER VI.

THOMAS TALLEY—HIS FAMILY—HIS LANDS—AN ALL IMPORTANT DEED.

Thomas Talley and his son William continued to hold the Warner Tract, west of the creek, as tenants in common until May 6th, 1758. As before stated, this tract extended from Naaman's Creek to the west of Lonkum Run, beyond the house of Thomas Vance; and from the northerly line of the Wilkinson land to the Adam Pierce and Casey line.

At the date last mentioned Thomas Talley and his son William made a division of this tract, and Thomas conveyed to William the westerly end of this land, containing $96\frac{1}{4}$ acres. This deed made by Thomas to William was handed down by William, so it came to the hands of his son Elihu. Elihu passed it to Nathaniel Booth, Sr. It has been protected for years by the Booth family, and is now guarded by the family of John Booth, who is son of Nathaniel.

The preserving of this deed and its discovery were almost miraculous. This deed with other valuable historical papers had occupied a corn crib for a considerable time, and were much damaged by rain, and might have been eaten by rats. For some reason they were gathered up by Mrs. Booth and taken to the house. After this chapter had been written for this book, the author stopped at the house of John Booth, near Booth's Corner, Pa., to see if another name might not be added to the subscriber's list. While talking of this history, the question was asked if they did not have somewhere preserved a paper that might give some explanation about the log hut, at the end of Casey's lane on the Foulk Road, and how it came to be moved there.

All the old family papers were brought forth by Mrs. Booth. No one but the author understood what a world of history was that day unfolded. The discovery was rich, a veritable Klondike. The deed of Thomas Talley to William is now given in full in these words. Copied from the original :

THIS INDENTURE Made the sixth day of May in the year of Our Lord One thousand seven Hundred and fifty eight Between Thomas Tally of Brandywine Hundred in the County of New Castle on Delaware Yeoman on the one part and William Tally son of the said Thomas on the other part, Whereas Isaac Warner by virtue of a Warrent from William Penn Esq., Proprietor and Commander in Chief of the Counties on Delaware and Province of Pennsylvania bearing date the 22d 12th mo. proved the execution of this deed in open Court at the August term 1759, and it was recorded in the Rolls Office at New Castle in Book T at page 484, on the 13th day of Feb'y, 1762.

The spelling of proper names in this deed is most inaccurate. Campbell is spelled "Camble," and Talley is spelled "Tally." Thomas Talley's wife did not join in the execution of this deed; perhaps she was not then living. The discovery of the deed caused the re-writing of this chapter, which was gladly done.

This deed shows the genealogy from William, who married Mrs. Jansen, down to William his grandson, and is the connecting link between the past and the present of the Talley family. Without this deed the record of our family at the beginning would be entirely lost. It is the bridge that has carried us safely and surely over, what had appeared before to be the impassable gulf. It deserves to be printed in letters of gold. It should be carefully read and studied by every one who cares at all for the line of our family descent.

This deed had been recorded at Wilmington, but how much better to see and read the original deed, as it was written in "ye olden days." The making and recording of the deed shows the vast importance attached to the holding of lands. If we have lost trace of any of our early relatives, it has been caused by their want of prosperity, and their failure to procure land, and record the deed of the same. It cannot be too strongly urged that every one should hold a deed for some tract of land. Our children should be taught this around the fireside, and later when they have grown up. Land is a safe bank of deposit, free from the ravages of speculating officials.

As already stated, Thomas by his marriage to a yet undisclosed wife, became the father of six children, viz: William married to Hannah Grubb, Samuel married to Margaret Cloud, David married to Catharine, her maiden name not now known, Mary married to John Worrough (possibly an attempt to spell John Worrall), Hannah married to William Smith, (to find this William would be as difficult as it would be to find a particular blackbird in a flock), and Susanna married to Nathaniel Ring, brother of Benjamin who owned the house occupied by Washington as his headquarters at the battle of Brandywine.

Benjamin's house and farm lay directly in front of Chads' Ford, while his brother Nathaniel's lay adjoining, and to the southeast of Benjamin's. Susanna was a widow at the time of this battle, and resided on the farm. We have no tradition that she was molested, but no doubt she was overrun by both armies at that eventful period.

Mr. Amos C. Brinton, the octogenarian and historian of Birmingham, was reared on the farm adjoining Nathaniel's, to the southeast. He remembers having eaten fruit from "Granny Ring's Field," and in 1832, when a young man, he stuck down a buttonwood stake in a swamp in the Ring line fence, and the stake took root and grew, and now stands a huge tree, several feet in girth. He also says that Susan Ring lived nearly one hundred years, and at the age of ninety, took a sickle and reaped wheat in the field. He also states that the history of Susan (Talley) Ring and the struggles at the battle of Brandywine, were topics talked of around the fire-side, morning, noon and night, when he was a boy, and were most firmly impressed on his mind.

It is pleasant to know that Thomas Talley, while not sawing at the mill, nor tenderly trilling on the strings of the violin, was engaged in preserving family history, to be afterwards recorded in this deed to his son William, which has so fortunately become the connecting link of our genealogy. Can we ever forget Thomas Talley, his saw-mill, his violin, and this deed?

CHAPTER VII.

WILLIAM TALLEY "THE GREAT"—HIS FAMILY—HIS LANDS—HIS LIFE.

Some men are born great, others have greatness thrust upon them. William Talley, the son of Thomas the patriarchal musician, was born in 1714; and if he is compared with others of his day, he may very justly be styled William Talley "the Great." He was not great in battle, but in enterprise, character and good-citizenship.

Born in a country affording but few educational advantages, he learned to "read, write and cipher," and has handed down the only account book known to have been kept by the early Talleys. This book is 12 inches long and $1\frac{1}{4}$ inches thick, with sheepskin binding. The penmanship is fair, and all accounts therein are kept, up to the time of his death, in pounds, shillings and pence. He was exceedingly careful in business, and all matters of account were accurately recorded.

This book shows how luxuriously the laborer kept the Christmas festival in the early day. We find a charge against John Stilley and James Wood, each dated December 23d, 1767, of "three shillings" for "Syder and a goose."

William Talley had in his library such books as "a large Bible," "Ambrose Looking," "Self Denial," "Prayer Book," "Young Man's Companion" and a "Horse Farrier's Book". His desk was appraised at £3. We find the following on the appraisement list: Saddle-bags, case and bottles, mortar and pestle, tea table, walnut table, coffee mill and toaster, two large pewter dishes, delft bowl and six wine glasses, brass kettle, churn, wool, new spinning wheel, side saddle, check reel and candlestick, feather beds, nine head of cows, unrotted flax in the old barn, still and worm, seventeen hogs, cross-cut saw, cobbling tools, blacksmith tools, carpenter's tools, horses and colts, sheep, cider-mill, old corn, rotted flax, hay in the barns and in stacks, hay in the swamp meadow, wheat and rye, cutting box, six hives of bees, flax brake, and lastly, negroes, "Nan" and "Baltis," each appraised at £30.

This appraisement shows that William was a veterinarian, as well as a farmer, and that his home on the Foulk Road was a veritable hive of manufacturing industry. There was spinning of flax and of wool, blacksmithing, shoemaking, and carpentry, all, at times, going on at this home. William also kept nearly all kinds of domestic animals, even down to the "busy little bee." There can be no doubt but that everybody about this William was busy, even to "Nan" and "Baltis." Perhaps they were most busy.

The extent of William's business can be judged of by examining the long list of creditors whose claims were paid by the administrators, Thomas and William Talley, in course of settlement. These claims number sixty-eight, and the list now in the hands of Lewis F. Talley is almost a complete directory of the people of Brandywine Hundred for the year 1790.

William was 76 years old when he died, and must have been active in business until his death, as is proven by this list. The creditors were as follows, to wit :

Parker Askew,	Ziba Ferris,
Garrett Lawrence,	Peter Bryanburg,
Bryanburg & Andrews,	Wm. Sharpley,
George Righter,	Francis Day,
Thos. Newlin,	John Stapler,
John Huron,	Henry Webster,

Wm. Talley,	Elihu Talley.

The personal property of this estate sold for £273. The cash demands due the estate raised the total receipts of the personal estate to £322, which balanced the list of small debts above, and discharged the administrators' commissions. The large landed estate was left to be divided among the heirs-at-law.

William probably built and occupied the commodious log house (being two and a half stories high) which stood along the Foulk Road, east of Lonkum Run, and was taken down by Thomas Vance. This was a house and not a hut, and was finely paneled inside. William married about 1735, and probably built the house about 1738, the date he obtained a deed for this tract.

Perhaps, the most valuable papers in this estate are the guardianship papers relating to the estates of William, Thomas, Sarah and Charity, the children of William and his deceased wife, Hannah (Grubb) Talley. Hannah died before her father, Joseph Grubb. Her share of her father's estate then descended to her four children. They being under age at the date of their grandfather's death, it became necessary for the father to become guardian. He was appointed such on April 17th, 1753, at New Castle, and then received the estate coming to the four children from their grandfather, Joseph Grubb.

As William was a stirring man and a great land-buyer, he invested the guardianship funds by common consent, and the money was left in his hands at six per cent. interest for about forty years, or until the settlement of his estate in 1793. Upon settlement with the wards, after William's death, interest was computed for thirty years, only. The receipts given by the wards stated on their face that ten years' interest was abated on account of the hardships produced by the War for Independence.

Several matters of doubt are removed by the fortunate discovery of these guardianship papers. It is proven that Hannah Talley, wife of William, died prior to 1753. It removes a doubt, heretofore raised, as to whether William, Thomas, Charity and Sarah were brothers and sisters or not. It proves that William and Hannah (Grubb) Talley were the parents of the last named children. It is firmly established also that Hannah Grubb was the daughter of Joseph, the son of the first John Grubb. It seems that William, like his patriarchal father, Thomas Talley, has also made a "golden record" for us.

These papers, and others most valuable, were carefully preserved and handed down from Adam—that is, Adam Talley—to Lewis, and from Lewis to Lewis F. Talley, his son. Up to this date we were compelled in searching our ancestry to grope our way through what appeared at one time as midnight darkness and uncertainty. The flood light at last has been thrown in, and we walk no more by faith, but by fact and by well established landmarks.

That which caused William Talley to become "Great," more than any other one thing, was his insatiable desire to acquire and hold lands. His first tract he purchased from his aunt, Mary Campbell, of Salem, N. J., in 1738. He was then only twenty-four years old. No aid from his father in this boy's start in life! Upon the death of Thomas (his father), William even consented that his share of his father's land might pass to his (William's) son Edward.

He fortunately inherited from some remote ancestor, across the Atlantic, the genius of carrying on large undertakings, and of pushing on far in advance of those who started in life's race with him. The spirit of acquisition was so marvelously developed in him that it can truly be said that it was born in him.

“Time, place and action may with pains be wrought,
But genius must be born and never can be taught.”

William received no parental aid, and held at one time about six hundred acres of land. As stated, his first purchase was the ninety-six acres from his Aunt Mary. This tract began somewhere near the house of Uriel Pierce, and extended westward beyond Lonkum Run. From this time on, William advanced by regular strides until he owned all of the lands on both sides of the Foulk Road, westward to Talley's corner, and on the northerly side of the said road to the line of Isaac Webster's land.

Still these did not satisfy his ambition. He purchased other tracts in the swamp meadow adjoining him on the northwest, and also owned a tract near where the Valentine Forwood farm is located. For a little diversion in 1758, he cast his eyes towards Cherry Island Marsh, and then became the first Talley owner there. We find him there in 1762, taking active part in erecting the first permanent embankment, which enclosed the whole of the one thousand acre tract.

We identify him in the marsh by an account in his book, where Isaac Grubb is charged for “cow paster in the mash,” as well as by his signature on the old marsh book which is now in existence. This being identical with known signatures on deeds, and his signature on the church records of St. Martin's Episcopal Church, at Marcus Hook.

He was no one-sided man ; he seemed to be every place, where a good work was going on. In 1745, when the first brick church was erected upon the grounds of St. Martin's Church, we find William Talley a substantial donor to the building fund. He about this time became an official member, and remained such until his death in 1790. His pew rent for 1790 was paid by his administrators in due course, as shown by the receipt among the papers in Lewis F. Talley's hands. Richard Hanby was the Collector.

This little church society was composed almost entirely of the yeomanry of Brandywine Hundred. The descendants of these people have in recent years nearly all allied themselves with the Methodist Church. Some of the Talleys also attended at an early day the St. John's Church at Concord.

William not only attended church himself, but also took his children with him. Thomas and William (his sons) were on the official board for a number of years at St. Martin's. They all withdrew from this church in 1793, the date of the settlement of their father's estate. William's brother Samuel was a warden in this church in 1758, but afterwards held his connection with St. John's.

William was great in matrimony, as in all other undertakings. He was married three times. Hannah Grubb became his first wife prior to 1736, as Sarah, the first child, was born that year. Hannah died between 1747, the date of her son William's birth, and 1753, the date of the guardian's appointment.

William married his second wife, whose name was Rebecca, prior to 1754, as Elihu, a son, was born in that year. The record in the Swedes Church at Wilmington shows the birth of Elihu, a son of William and Rebecca Talley, March 25th, 1754. Rebecca probably died about 1766, as we find an entry in 1766 on the old account book of William in favor of William H. Askew, an undertaker, "By wife's coffin, £3."

William married his third wife (Magdalena) prior to 1768, as we find her joining in a deed, recorded in Book "Y," page 658 (1768), of a marsh lot to Joseph Cloud, and in another deed, recorded in Book "I," vol. 2, page 158 (1774), to William, son of William Talley. We find by some recently discovered deeds that Magdalena survived her husband.

William and Hannah had the four children mentioned herein. William and Rebecca had also four children, viz: Elihu, Edward, Rebecca, wife of Thomas Smith, and Esther, wife of James Council. William conveyed to his sons at different times large tracts of his lands, but still had at his death 253 acres. This tract of 253 acres was on October 11th, 1790, conveyed by seven of William's heirs to the other heir, Elihu, for the purpose of making a division thereof. This original deed is on parchment, being $2\frac{1}{2}$ feet long and 2 feet wide; not much left of the sheep's hide that made this deed. The deed is in the possession of John Booth's family, and as good as new, notwithstanding its term in the corn crib. This deed is most carefully drawn, and shows the whole genealogy of William Talley's family. It sets at rest many questions which were debatable before its discovery. It is recorded in Book "H," vol. 3, page 97, at Wilmington.

No children were born of the third marriage. The last deed mentioned states that Magdalena survived her husband. William died in August, 1790, after a most remarkable career, and without a stain upon his character. It is a fact to be noted that his grave in St. Martin's Church-yard is the first American Talley grave to be marked with a marble slab, or to have an engraved or written record of identification over it. There is quite a space to the right of his grave, and who knows but that here he and his three wives are quietly resting, unmindful of the heat of summer, or winter's withering blasts.

CHAPTER VIII.

SAMUEL TALLEY—HIS LAND—HIS FAMILY.

Samuel Talley, son of Thomas the first and brother of William and David, was born in 1726, and was twelve years younger than William. He married in 1758 Margaretta Cloud, and in 1760 purchased from the Pennsylvania Land Company a large tract of land in Rockland Manor, containing 175 acres. This land was located near the circular line and became at that time, the frontier Talley settlement.

This tract comprised the present home of Zach. Ebright and the farm of Wm. Wier, also about 84 acres of the farm now owned by W. W. Talley, late the home of Thos. Lea Talley, Sr. It seems that 50 acres, of this 84-acre tract, were purchased from Samuel by Eli Baldwin, the grandfather of Eli Baldwin Talley.

Samuel at a very early day owned a share in the Talley saw-mill at Foulk's Creek. He also acquired at his father's death a share in the original Talley land, and upon a division procured about 48 acres across the northwesterly side, extending from Naaman's Creek almost to the Grubb Road. This tract was 33 rods wide and of about the same width as the present Wilkinson farm, and included most of it. It included also a part of the Foulk farm, extending from the creek to the Naaman's Creek Road. The deed to Samuel for this tract was dated about 1789. He later sold this land to John Foulk.

Samuel died in 1802, and was buried in the Talley-Foulk burying ground on the original Talley land. His grave is marked with a marble slab. He made a will, and devised his lands to his four sons, Thomas, Joseph, Jehu and Samuel, they to pay certain legacies to his daughters, or their representatives. His daughters were : Phebe, married to John Zebley ; Susanna, married to Jeffrey Frame ; Hannah, wife of James Smith ; Margaret Fields ; and Elizabeth, who had died leaving six children. Elizabeth may have been the wife of Edward Talley, although this is only conjecture, from the fact that her father did not mention her husband's name in the will ; and from the further fact that Edward Talley's wife had died prior to Samuel's death, leaving about the corresponding number of children.

The reason that we are not able to give more of the history of Samuel, is because very few records have been found with his descendants. Once more the record of deeds and of wills comes to our rescue and furnishes what little we are able to give concerning Samuel and his family. It is an interesting fact to state that of this large family of Samuel and Margaretta Talley, only a few remain in Brandywine Hundred. They have mostly gone to seek their fortunes in other territory, and have become very respectable citizens. We know but little about the qualifications, character and wealth of Samuel. He was first a warden at St. Martin's Church in 1758, and after, held his relationship with St. John's Church at Concord.

We find his descendants to be able, just and prosperous. As the stream has been found to be good, the fountain must of necessity have been pure. It is a coincidence that he and his brother William each died at the age of 76 years.

CHAPTER IX.

DAVID TALLEY.

David Talley, the son of Thomas and brother of Samuel and William, has unfortunately left no record or paper to show the day of his birth, marriage, or death, or the place of his burial. We find that his wife was Catharine, because she joined in some deeds with her husband, David Talley, about 1790 to 1792.

He purchased thirty-four acres of the Pennsylvania Land Company in 1760. This land lay to the southeast of the farm buildings on the Uriel Pierce farm, and extended to the Samuel Grubb line, and back to the line of the Casey land. David, on May 5th, 1788, conveyed this tract to his brother William. David also held quite a tract in the original Talley land, which was inherited from his father, Thomas. He also at one time held an interest in the Talley saw-mill. David may have emigrated to some other State upon the sale of his lands here, and may have died there. His known children were, Susanna, wife of (tall) Thomas Cartmell; Martha, wife of John Marshall; and Priscilla, wife of Thomas Thompson. Mrs. Mary Ann Burke, grand-daughter of David Talley, says that he may have had a son George, and one David. She has a slight remembrance of these names in the family.

There is in this branch an almost total loss of records, if indeed any ever existed. We can find no will of David, nor any settlement of his estate. The few deeds made by and to him are the Alpha and the Omega of his history. Even the family of John and Martha Marshall are not known to the other descendants of David Talley. The known representatives of David Talley are confined to the heirs of Susanna Cartmell and Priscilla Thompson. How fortunate to secure the testimony of Mrs. Burke and her brother, Stephen H. Thompson, as to who was their grandfather, and thus preserve some record of David Talley's family!

There may be others living to-day who are of this family and bearing the name of Talley, having come down by the paternal line, but who, where, or what, we are not able to conjecture. Sad, is it not, for a Talley to lose himself in the midst of a forest of Talleys? Talleys to the right of him, Talleys to the left, and Talleys all around him, and still he is lost. May he yet discover himself, and then assume his proper place in the ranks of the great Talley army!

CHAPTER X.

THOMAS TALLEY.

Thomas Talley, son of William Talley the "Great," was born sometime about 1744, and died in 1818. The place of his burial is not known. He married Hannah Grubb November 4th, 1766. Hannah Grubb was the daughter of Richard Grubb, Richard was the son of John Grubb, and John was the second son of John Grubb, the emigrant who settled first at Upland, and later at Grubb's Landing. The mother of Thomas was also Hannah Grubb the daughter of Joseph, a brother of John second. Thomas Talley and his wife Hannah were second cousins.

Thomas Talley acquired from his father a deed of one hundred acres of land in 1775. This extended from Isaac Webster's land on the Foulk Road eastward to the cross-roads at Talley's Corner, and was later owned by Penrose R. Talley, and on which he made his home. Thomas filed for record the deed so obtained from his father, William. The deed and the record were carried away or destroyed by the British army after the battle of Brandywine, in September, 1777.

William Talley, on March 6th, 1786, made a confirmatory deed to Thomas for the same land, the deed reciting on its face that it was made to replace a deed made in 1775 and which was carried away by the British army in 1777. This historic deed is now in the possession of Penrose Talley, son of Charles Talley. It was signed by William Talley, and witnessed by Emanuel Grubb and John Stapler.

On October 12th, 1790, Thomas Talley purchased of Elihu Talley, his half-brother, a tract of land consisting of 88½ acres, bounded on the southwest by the Kellam Road, on the southeast by land then of Isaac Grubb, and on the northwest partly by the Foulk Road and partly by a narrow strip lying southeast of the Foulk Road and twenty rods deep, which narrow strip extended from the Norris Talley line easterly to the Grubb Road; and on the northeast by the Grubb Road. This 88-acre tract comprised nearly the whole of the Lewis Talley farm, and all of the Norris Talley farm. Thomas and Hannah Talley, on January 25th, 1794, conveyed this last named tract to their sons William and Adam.

Thomas Talley died in February, 1818, leaving a will and appointing therein his sons Adam and Thomas Talley his executors. His personal estate amounted to £272, and the probated claims amounted to a few dollars more. Thomas was a member and a pew-holder at St. Martin's Episcopal Church at Marcus Hook. He was a vestryman as early as 1783. He continued to attend this church until 1793. He then gave up his pew. No records other than the deeds and will made by Thomas Talley have been found; hence nothing further can be given of his history.

Charity, the daughter of Thomas, has left a record of the births of the children of Thomas and Hannah; not written with pen and ink, however, but worked with silk and needle, upon and in what was named in olden times a "Sampler." It is given thus on the Sampler: "W. Talley born May 13, 1768. A. Talley born Feby. 7, 1770. T. Talley born May 5, 1772. R. Talley born July 12, 1780. C. Talley born Feby. 19, 1784." This is a record of the children William, Thomas, Adam, Richard, and Charity. The last named never married, but died about 1819. This "Sampler" was worked about 1793 by Charity, she then being nine years old.

It is fortunate that this record has been made in silk, as no Bible entry has been found showing the births of these children. The "Sampler" was handed down by Charity Talley to her niece, Charity Booth, and is now in the possession of Mrs. Margaret Booth. She has also in her possession, having come down the line, from Charity Talley, a corset more than a hundred years old, and which is almost identical in shape with those of the present day, but resembles more an iron casement. This is a genuine curiosity and was surprising, as it was not believed that the ancestors could endure such torturing. She has also a lady's ancient hat, made of fine felt, almost as strong as buckskin, and of dove-gray color. This hat has an immense brim and a crown not over a half-inch in height. The hat measures in diameter about 18½ inches. Surely an umbrella would be useless to a lady who might walk under this hat.

Thomas and Hannah are the ancestors of the Talleys who resided in the Foulk Road district. This branch is quite able and numerous, and many of them to-day are residing in the far West, and are men of action and influence. Thomas Talley was a greater man than we are able to describe him. We know from circumstances that he was the equal of any who lived in his vicinity. He was the ancestor of a very thrifty and religious line of descendants. They have to a large extent comprised the congregation of the Bethel M. E. Church, and have large political influence in the northern part of Brandywine Hundred. The absence of records prevents us from saying more of this noble man. We know this, however, that he was a credit to the family. What more need we know?

CHAPTER XI.

WILLIAM TALLEY ON THE BRANDYWINE.

This William Talley was the son of William and Hannah (Grubb) Talley. He was born in 1747, died May 9th, 1812, and was buried at the Foulk burying ground on the original Talley tract. A marble slab has been erected to his memory. He married, November 5th, 1768, Dinah Stilley, the daughter of Jonathan and Magdalena (Vandever) Stilley. Dinah was born February 27th, 1751, and was baptized March 31st, of the same year, at the Swedes Church at Wilmington.

William Talley attended the St. Martin's P. E. Church at Marcus Hook until 1793. He then joined the Swedes

Church at Wilmington. He and his sons, Amor and Elihu, were pew-holders there in 1806. This is shown by the records of that church. The English had almost sole control of the Church at that date. Among the pew-holders for 1806 we find the following names: Talley, Allmond, Bayard, Weldin, Perkins, Cartmell, Stidham, Derrickson, Elliott, Smith, Vandever, Stilley and many others.

It is supposed that William and Dinah lived on the farm once owned by Lewis Zebbley, at Talley's Corner on the Foulk Road. He procured a deed from his father for this land, about the date of his marriage. He sold it to Capt. William Glover about 1794. Captain Glover was the father-in-law of George Clark; and Mr. Clark was father-in-law of preacher John Talley, Lewis S. Talley and John Clayton of Delaware County, Pa.

William Talley purchased land of Thos. McKim's estate, along the Brandywine, in 1792. This tract contained 300 acres, and extended from a point east of the present site of the "Eight Square" school house to the Brandywine. It was bounded on the northwest by a tract of 196 acres, which William, in 1807, purchased of John Wall, et al. William, after this last purchase, owned 500 acres of land in one tract. The 196-acre tract (except 50 acres which were sold by William in his lifetime) is now the homestead of William T. Talley. It is said that William owned other tracts in addition to the 500 acres. He and his wife moved to the great historic Brandywine, shortly after this purchase from McKim.

William Talley was a remarkable man in business affairs; and had push, energy and good judgment. He was much like his father, "William Talley the Great." He lived through the whole period of the Revolutionary struggle. It is traditionally told that he took some part in the war, but precisely what, cannot now be stated. He was about thirty years old at the time of the Battle of Brandywine. The history of these times, as they affected Brandywine Hundred, has been almost entirely lost.

William and Dinah left to survive them a family of ten children, who, from what we can learn, were remarkable for their ability, influence and intelligence. Two sons, John and Lewis, became quite able ministers in the Methodist Church. It is stated that Harmon was a member of the Delaware Legislature in 1828. A great-grandson of this William is the head of a family of twenty-five children. William and his family were of a religious turn of mind. The first Methodist Camp Meeting ever held around or about Wilmington was held in the woods of William Talley near the Brandywine.

No doubt but that many incidents of great interest were connected with William Talley's career. Unfortunately very little has been disclosed to us. Would it not be well to search the many bundles of old and yellow papers lying time worn in garrets of members of this important branch of our family? Do not let the history of this able man fade and vanish. May a wholesome spirit of rivalry be engendered within the families who have descended by this line, to the end that this history may yet be revealed and perpetuated!

CHAPTER XII.

ELIHU TALLEY OF THE FOULK ROAD.

Elihu Talley was the first son of William Talley and his wife Rebecca, and was half-brother to Sarah, Charity, Thomas and William. Elihu resided on the farm afterward owned by Robert Miller, on Lonkum Run. He was born March 25th, 1754, and died January 22d, 1833, at the age of 79 years. He married Lydia, daughter of William Forwood the second. She was aunt of Jehu Forwood of later years, and died in 1795. Elihu married for his second wife, Rachel Robinson, daughter of Charles Robinson, who lived on the Robert Casey farm along the Foulk Road.

Elihu was a man of affairs, and upon his father's death in 1790, the other joint heirs made a conveyance to him of the lands owned by William, the father, at his death. This deed was made for the purpose of making a convenient division of the property. Elihu may have purchased the shares of some of the other heirs, as, in later years, we find him owning a large part of the lands so conveyed to him.

It is stated by those who knew him that he was quite stylish in his early life. When in full dress he was seen with sparrow-tail coat, knee breeches and low shoes with silver buckles. He, like many of his neighbors, wore a cue. He was the head of a large family. Among them were Capt. Amor Talley ; John Forwood Talley, who became wealthy and prominent in Cleremont County, Ohio ; Sarah Talley, who married Major Joseph Grubb ; Mary, who married Harmon Talley, and who married second Thomas Smith ; and Charles Talley, the small but dressy man who "went to war," possibly the Mexican War, and was never heard of again by his relatives.

There is a sword in existence somewhere which was worn by Capt. Amor Talley, who may have been captain of Militia in the 1812 war. In later years he moved to Cleremont County, Ohio, where he resided for a number of years ; and there he died. He lived to a very great age. As an illustration of his courage and endurance it is stated that he accompanied his nephew, John William Talley, from Cleremont County to John's home in Vigo County, Indiana. They arrived at Terre Haute sometime after dark. As John's home was twelve miles in the country, he told his uncle to stay at a hotel over night, and he would call for him in the morning with his team. He was astonished to hear his uncle of eighty years respond : "Guy, John, if you walk it, I guess I can, too," and walk he did ; and arrived at the country home at the same time as did his young nephew.

Elihu Talley's family was known for the number of its handsome women. Mary and Rachel were fine looking ; but it is said of Sarah that she was the "belle of Delaware." If any doubt the truth of the statement let them examine the fine old silhouette now in the possession of Mrs. William Goodley, of Bethel Township, Delaware County, Pa. Sarah was the grandmother of Mrs. Goodley. The pictures preserved of these people, of nearly a century ago, demonstrate that they were no "backwoods people," but possessed of taste and refinement. We should feel grateful to Elihu and his family for transmitting to us some facts demonstrating the character and appearance of our people of the olden day.

CHAPTER XIII.

EDWARD TALLEY.

Edward Talley was son of William and Rebecca Talley ; and was brother of Elihu, mentioned in the last chapter. We know not the day of Edward's birth, but find that he died about 1800. His first wife was Elizabeth. She may have been the daughter of his uncle Samuel, who lived close against the circular line, dividing Pennsylvania and Delaware. Some circumstances indicate that Elizabeth was both the wife of Edward and the daughter of Samuel.

His second wife was a widow named Christianna Dick. Edward was the owner of a considerable amount of land. He must have parted with the greater portion of it in his lifetime, as we find very little owned by him at his decease. He seems to have had seven children born of the marriage with his first wife, Elizabeth ; and possibly none by his last marriage. The Lloyds who lived near the Delaware River are descended from Susanna (Talley) Lloyd, daughter of Edward Talley.

He had some land dealings with William Cloud, in later life. He was half-uncle to William Cloud, being a half-brother to William Cloud's mother, Charity (Talley) Cloud. The descendants of Edward Talley are somewhat scattered ; but several may be located in Philadelphia, or in its suburbs. James Talley, the carpenter, known a few years ago in Brandywine Hundred, was a grandson of Edward Talley.

In the old family Bible of Jeremiah and Susanna (Talley) Lloyd is found a full register of the children of Edward Talley and his wife Elizabeth. The finding of this record opened up for investigation a new field. We find in this Bible, for the first time, such names as : Cyrus, Oliver, Enoch and Orpah Talley.

Should we fail in fully tracing the descendants of these people to the present date, enough is here given to assist in locating the missing ones at some later period. Edward passed away about 1800, as William Cloud was appointed administrator of Edward's estate about this last date. The place of his burial is not known.

CHAPTER XIV.

REV. JOHN TALLEY.

John Talley, the seventh son of "William on the Brandywine," was born on his father's farm on the Brandywine. He married Letitia Clark, July 26th, 1812. She died October 2d, 1820. He married for his second wife Ann W. Henderson, of Milford, Delaware, October 7th, 1823. She died December 21st, 1827. Lastly, he married Ann H. Hollingsworth, of Elkton, Maryland, October 11th, 1832. She died March 1st, 1850.

John Talley's Methodism dates back to the time of holding the first Camp Meeting along the Brandywine, in his father's woods. From this time on, until he was received into the Conference as a full-licensed minister, he taught school and preached occasionally to his neighbors. He was thus fitting himself for the more important duties awaiting him.

John Talley has the distinction of being the first Talley who entered the ministry in America. It was so remarkable that, ever afterwards, he was styled, "Preacher John Talley." He was small of stature, clean-shaven and very neat in appearance. His style of oratory was smooth, pathetic and convincing. He, as a minister, took rank with the able ministers of that day. All of the older members of the Methodist Church well remember the preaching of John Talley. He has always been the pride of the Methodist Talleys.

We kindly give below the Memoir prepared under the direction of the Philadelphia M. E. Conference, upon his death in 1861 :

Memoir.

Rev. John Talley was born in Brandywine Hundred, New Castle County, Delaware, September 25th, 1791. He was converted to God when about eighteen years of age (the first of his family except his mother), on his way home from a Camp Meeting. He then joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, of which he was a member and minister for over fifty-two years. Immediately after his conversion he began to labor for the salvation of his neighbors, and held meetings in the school houses 'round about, where many of them were converted. After serving the Church as a Local Preacher for several years, he joined the Philadelphia Annual Conference in 1819, being then a married man, and was Ordained a Deacon in 1821, and an Elder in 1823. He traveled the following Circuits, viz : Lancaster in 1819 ; Annapolis in 1820 ; Cambridge in 1821 ; Chester in 1822 ; Milford in 1823 ; Caroline in 1824 ; Cecil in 1825. In 1825 he was made Supernumerary, and continued in that relation until 1861, when he was made Superannuated.

He served the Church with great efficiency after he ceased to travel, and until about three years before his death he preached much in the neighborhood of his birthplace. He was then attacked with paralysis, which enfeebled his mind and greatly impaired his memory. He finally sank under this disease, and died at the residence of his son, J. Henderson Talley, Esq., in East Goshen Township, Chester County, Pa., on Saturday, July 6th, 1861. He was buried at Mt. Lebanon Church, near his birthplace ; and his funeral sermon was preached by Rev. Samuel Hance (whom he had previously selected for that purpose), from Tim., iv., 7, 8.

As a man, Brother Talley was cheerful and amiable in his disposition ; mild and kind in his deportment ; had many friends, but few enemies. As a minister, he was simple, practical, powerful, and many souls were saved through his ministry. Four days before his death another stroke of paralysis deprived him of both speech and reason ; but as he lived right, so he died right, and now sleeps in Jesus to be like Him in the morning of the resurrection.

CHAPTER XV.

LEWIS TALLEY, THE SWEET SINGER.

Lewis Talley, the son of Adam and Rebecca (Day) Talley, was born on his father's farm in 1810, and died in 1890. The children of his parents numbered ten. Lewis had no advantages in early life, except what were common to his brothers and sisters, and perhaps to the other children in the neighborhood. He attended the Forwood District School, this being the beginning and the finishing of his school education.

Lewis, when grown to manhood and installed as the head of a family, followed farming on one of his father's farms. He was quite successful in this line of business, and, at the same time, reared a prosperous and musical family of nine children.

We wish more particularly to record here, what, in Lewis Talley's life, caused him to become famous. He was musical almost from the time of his birth. Music was a passion in him. Genius is always a passion, and is born with its possessor. Lewis Talley could no more resist the passion of music than the "old toper could his cup."

It is said of him that, when a mere lad, he was not charmed so much by farm work as he was by music. He could, without apparent effort, stop his ordinary labors and begin singing and beating time. Even while riding the horses to the run for water, he would forget to hasten back, and would often be found, down by the run, on the horse's back, beating time to the trees, as if they were persons. Lewis should not be censured for this, as he could not help it. Music and farming were to this lad absolutely incompatible.

We are told that Lewis could readily see a scrap of printed music even when it might be blowing around in the highway. It was caught on sight, and speedily sung by him. Anything in the shape of a musical staff with notes printed on it was music to him. He was the first one in the upper part of Brandywine Hundred to master the blind or round note system of music. It is not known that any of his family, from his father down, aided or encouraged him in his singing. Can it be that the musical talent of Thomas Talley, the ancient violinist, has descended in a dormant state, through many generations, and at last burst forth with all its melodious energy and brilliancy in Lewis Talley of 1810?

All persons making any pretensions to music, from the Brandywine Creek to Chelsea, in Delaware County, Pa., and from Elam to the Delaware River (in the days of sixty years ago), received the start under the teaching of Lewis Talley. He was the singing teacher until the growing up of a younger generation. The credit belongs to him of being the musical developer who first kindled the musical fires all along the Foulk Road District, even into Delaware County, Pa. The light of these fires has not grown dim, but is increasing in brightness, as the younger generations take up the work where it was laid down by this great musical pioneer.

His teaching was methodical, clear and thorough. He, at this early stage of teaching, used a blackboard in demonstrating the rudiments of music to his classes. Lewis found that it required persistent practice to become perfect in singing. He never grew tired in practicing so long as improvement was being made. He was not only a theoretical singer, but his voice was most clear, sweet and effective. He was known throughout his neighborhood as "Singing Lewis Talley;" and to-day, all will agree that this was not a misnomer. His entire family of nine children were musical, also many of his grandchildren.

Lewis Talley was a man of influence, a kind neighbor and a good citizen, as well as a great musician. His name should be cherished and revered, and ever kept green in memory.

"Music resembles poetry; in each
Are numerous graces which no methods teach,
And which a master-hand alone can reach."
Pope.

CHAPTER XVI.

A PLACE OF SACRED MEMORY.

“The breezy call of incense-breathing morn,
The swallows twittering from the straw-built shed ;
The cock’s shrill clarion, or the echoing horn,
No more shall rouse them from their lowly bed.”

Gray.

On the original Talley tract in Brandywine Hundred, at Foulk’s Corner, is located the Talley-Foulk burying ground. It occupies a small square about 66 by 66 feet. It is a most excellent site for a rural burying ground, being elevated and gently sloping towards the southeast. We have not searched to ascertain the exact date of the dedication of this tract to this most sacred and holy use. It is probable that it was dedicated by the Talleys before the conveyance of the title to the Foulks.

The great majority buried there bear the name of Talley. The early ones have no slab to record their birth and death. The first known grave is that of Priscilla (Foulk) Talley, wife of Harmon Talley. She died March 3d, 1802, as shown by the tombstone. Then comes the grave of Samuel Talley, brother of William and David Talley, who died December 30th, 1802. Then follow William Talley on the Brandywine, 1812 ; Joseph Talley, son of Samuel, 1815 ; Sarah (Talley) Foulk, daughter of William Talley the Great, and the maternal ancestor of all, who came by the line of John Foulk, 1822 ; Rebecca (Lloyd) Talley, wife of Thomas, 1829 ; Thomas Talley, son of Samuel, 1836 ; Samuel Talley, son of Samuel, 1837 ; Jehu Talley, son of Samuel, 1848 ; Mary (Russell) Talley, wife of Samuel the second, 1847; Aaron Smith, husband of Margaret (Talley) Smith, 1855; and several others of the younger generation. It is reported that John Foulk the first, who died in 1820; Richard Talley, father of Penrose; and George Talley, son of Richard, are also interred there.

Some years ago the relatives of those resting in this sacred spot, assisted the owner of the farm in placing around the burying ground a rough stone wall, which has since inclosed it; but to-day this wall is in a tumble-down state. Let it be the duty of those who reside adjacent to this ground to care for its preservation. Let this "home of the dead" become the "Mecca" of all who are related to those within the inclosure; and may regular visits be made there, that it may be kept in live, active remembrance, and that its history may never be forgotten. The right to maintain this as a permanent place of holy sepulture is based upon a sure foundation.

1st. It was most solemnly dedicated, more than one hundred years ago, by the legal owner of the farm on which it is located. This dedication was not for a term of years, but was forever. The interment of a body is not, as a general thing, for a short space of time, but the intention is that the body shall remain where it has been placed, forever, or until the Morning of the Resurrection. The body, and the relatives interested therein, are in possession of the tract of ground, which is full notice of all rights therein to any purchaser who may succeed to the property. The remains have possession below the surface, while the tombstones occupy the surface. It is not a hardship to the owner of the farm, for he purchases subject to this right in others, and thereby consents to it.

2d. By the will of John Foulk the first, probated November 14th, 1820, it is provided in words as follow: "And further it is my will that the grave-yard fence be kept in good repair by my said wife and grandson his heirs and assigns forever; also that all my family connections have the privilege of burying their dead in said family burying ground on said dwelling plantation and do hereby declare "the same to be devised as aforesaid subject thereto." It thus appears that the farm was by this will devised to the grandson, John Foulk. It was subject to the burden of maintaining the fence around the grave-yard in good repair forever. This was a charge upon the farm, and bound the lands into whose hands it might pass from grantee to grantee forever. It is thus shown by the will that this ground had been set apart from the farm as a grave-yard and fenced, long prior to the making of the will in 1820. The clause just quoted from the will expressly provides that the devise of the farm is "subject" to the burden of fencing, and to the right of burial therein of all "family connections." The will expressly recognizes the grave-yard as an established and fixed fact. The decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in Beatty vs. Kurtz, 2 Peters, 566, sets at rest all such questions.

John Foulk, the son of John Foulk, possibly died in 1797, as one John Foulk is buried at Newark Union Cemetery in 1797. As John Foulk the first did not die until 1820, he left the land to the son of John, who died in 1797; that is, to the grandson of the devisor.

The right to the permanent maintaining of this grave-yard being undoubted, may it be carefully protected from ruin and dilapidation, and may it be cherished and guarded as a tender ward all along down the coming ages!

"Yet e'en these bones from insult to protect,
Some frail memorial still erected nigh,
With uncouth rhymes and shapeless sculpture deck'd,
Implores the passing tribute of a sigh."

Gray.

CHAPTER XVII.

THE HISTORIC LOG HUT.

We should all desire to learn something of how our forefathers sheltered themselves and their families while subduing the wilderness, and introducing civilization among the savages about the headwaters of Naaman's Creek, in Rockland Manor. The first Talley home in this section may have been a cave, but this is not authenticated. The log house known as the Gorby-Booth house, along the Foulk Road, may have been the early Talley home. It sheltered the important deeds of Campbell to William Talley, and Thomas Talley to William Talley, for many years, while Charity (Talley) Booth resided there. This house was years ago taken down, and moved stick by stick to its present location ; but from where, opinions differ. Some say that it once stood along the Naaman's Creek Road ; others state that it once was located on the easterly side of the Foulk farm lane, in front of the present Foulk farm residence. The best opinion is that it came from the Foulk farm.

GORBY-BOOTH HOUSE.

Photographed by W. Arthur Green.

Very many years ago two Talley houses were erected on the original tract, near the intersection of the creek and the Foulk Road. One was more modern than the other ; it was of frame, and stood west of the lane. The other was of logs, and was more ancient, and was located to the east of the lane. The Log house was identical with the Gorby-Booth house, in shape, size and appearance, each being a fair representation of the other. By viewing this Gorby-Booth house, we in our imagination can see the early Talley home, in all its primitive grandeur and cheerfulness. A cave could not compare with this cozy home as a place of permanent residence. This was a palace by the side of the neighboring wigwams.

No one doubts but what the fires burned as brightly and as fiercely in this "old cabin home" as they do now in the home of the nineteenth century millionaire. Love and happiness, without doubt, abounded there. Can gilded halls, with "modern conveniences," yield a more genuine article or in larger quantity? There is a sacredness about the ancient home of the brave pioneer of two hundred years ago. Let us always respect and cherish the "old cabin home."

GENEALOGICAL REGISTER.

It is the purpose in this department of our book to register the names of the Talleys, descending from William Talley, who landed at Upland (now Chester), Pa., just before the coming of William Penn, so far as they have been discovered and disclosed. It cannot be expected that we shall do the impossible thing—i. e., print the names of those who decline to give any information about themselves. Nor will we attempt to print the names of those who have requested to be left out of the book.

We began the work with the intention of making the book as complete as possible, considering the amount of funds in hand and in sight. We hoped and believed that practically all would, gladly, give the needed information to make a complete family register. A few letters sent out soon demonstrated how false the hope, and how ill-founded our opinion. As we progressed, letter after letter was sent, and but few responses came in return. The circular was then resorted to, and a few more responded; then another circular; and lastly, a third was issued. Notwithstanding this most importuning method, a number who reside at distant points (and we are sorry to say some who are not so distant), are not recorded in this list.

If the names of yourself and your relatives are not found herein, it is not because an effort was not made to that end. All must know that the larger the book the greater the benefit to the family, and the more credit to the author. We have left out none from choice, nor through the lack of solicitation. Our whole duty in this line has been fully discharged. When we scan this list of names, we wonder how they were all collected in so short a space of time.

There was some hope that we might engage the Southern Talleys in this work, and, especially, those in Virginia. Nothing whatever could be procured by correspondence, although we have been assured that the Delaware and Virginia branches were, in the beginning, as near to each other as "brother to brother." Had there been a fund at hand, some one would have visited the "Old Dominion," and possibly worked out the problem.

We believe that the genealogy of the Talley family on the Delaware is shown in this Register almost to mathematical correctness and certainty. The work has been done in a way that leaves little for conjecture, and that overthrows many former traditions in the family. Our work is almost wholly based upon official records, deeds, etc. The proof of the early genealogy is shown in the deeds and matter set out in the historical part of our work. We now prove the correctness of our former work by resorting to a List of Taxables in Brandywine Hundred for 1787, and to a Voters' List of the same hundred for 1812. On this Tax List we find no Talley names but David, Edward, Elihu, Joseph, Samuel, Thomas, Thomas Jr., William Sr. and William Jr. Every one of these names is fully accounted for in the line of descent from William Talley the first. The Voters' List, made as late as 1812, contains sixteen Talley names, every one of whom is as familiar as the Alphabet to us. We are immovably founded on the bed rock, when we find that the Talleys on these two lists all belong to our line, and that no others are found therein. If William the first had a brother Thomas or a brother John, as tradition claims, why were their descendants all excluded from the Tax List, or prevented from appearing on the Voters' List of 1812? If Thomas and John were emigrants, we must look for them in Virginia, or perhaps in South Carolina. They and their descendants did not remain here. All Delaware Talleys owe their allegiance to the standard of William Talley, who landed at Upland, married Elinor Jansen, and dashed through the bramble and settled at Foulk's Corner. "That is certain which has been proved to be such" is a maxim of universal law.

Dates of births and deaths as recorded in this Register were obtained from tombstones, family Bibles, records, and many times by word of mouth. Much data had to come by mail; this of course we had no opportunity to verify. We have observed the greatest care to have the dates correct, but in many cases dates on tombstones were different from what were shown in family Bibles. In some cases Bibles belonging to different members of a family were at variance. We found some persons who did not even know the date of their birth. We have attempted to give a correct record, but if you find the register of yourself or relatives incorrect, we advise an immediate correction with pen and ink, as it will not be well to perpetuate an error.

FIRST GENERATION.

1. WILLIAM TALLEY came to this country prior to 1686, for in this year he was appointed, in Probate at Philadelphia, Pa., joint administrator with the widow Elinor Johnson, of the estate of Jan Jansen (Johnson) deceased. William must have been here before this date, as the Court would not be likely to appoint a raw emigrant to fill a position of such responsibility. William married Elinor sometime between 1686 and 1693. He died between 1698 and 1702.

SECOND GENERATION.

WILLIAM TALLEY, (1) married Elinor Jansen, a widow.

Children of William Talley the first.

2. Thomas—birth not known.
3. Mary—birth not known.

The mother of these children is not now certainly known. Elinor may have been the mother.

THIRD GENERATION.

THOMAS TALLEY (2) married ————

Children.

4. William, b. 1714, d. Aug. 1, 1790.
5. David—birth and death unknown.

6. Mary, m. John Worrough, (Worrall.)
7. Hannah, m. William Smith.
8. Susanna, m. Nathaniel Ring.
9. Samuel, b. April 26, 1726, d. Dec. 30, 1802.

MARY TALLEY (3) married Peter Campbell, of Salem County, N. J. Their children are not known.

FOURTH GENERATION.

WILLIAM TALLEY (4) married about 1735 Hannah Grubb, daughter of Joseph Grubb, and grandchild of John Grubb the emigrant. Hannah died about 1749. William married second, Rebecca ——— prior to 1754. Rebecca died about 1766. He married third, Magdalena ——— about 1768. She survived him.

Children of first marriage.

10. Sarah, b. Feb'y, 1736, d. Sept. 6, 1822.
11. Charity, b. ——— d. ———
12. Thomas, b. ——— d. Feb'y 26, 1818.
13. William, b. Jan'y, 1747, d. May 9, 1812.

Children of second marriage.

14. Elihu, b. March 25, 1754, d. Jan'y 22, 1833.
15. Edward, b. ——— d. about 1800.
16. Esther, m. James Council.
17. Rebecca, m. Thomas Smith, Elam, Pa.

No issue of third marriage.

DAVID TALLEY (5) married Catharine ———. His wife joined in making several deeds, and in this way her Christian name has been ascertained.

Children.

18. Susanna—birth not known.
19. Martha—birth not known.
20. Priscilla—birth not known.
21. Elizabeth—unmarried.
22. George, (?)
23. David, (?)

SAMUEL TALLEY (9) married Margaretta Cloud, April 1, 1758, as shown on Swedes' Church Records, Wilmington, Del. (See sketch.)

Children.

24. Thomas, b. 1759, d. Aug. 19, 1836.
25. Joseph, b. June 4, 1764, d. Sept. 7, 1815.
26. Jehu, b. 1765, d. May 7, 1848.
27. Samuel, b. 1777, d. July 8, 1837.
28. Phebe, m. John Zebley.
29. Susanna, m. Jeffrey Frame.
30. Hannah, m. James Smith.
31. Elizabeth, m. possibly Edward Talley.
32. Margaret, m. ——— Fields.

FIFTH GENERATION.

SARAH TALLEY (10) married John Foulk the first. He was the ancestor of all the Foulks who lived about Foulk's Corner, Brandywine Hundred, Del. He was born April 22, 1735, and died November 8, 1820. She died 1822. Both were buried in the Talley-Foulk burying ground. John and Sarah were married October 12, 1756.

Children.

33. John, b. July 14, 1765, d. Feb'y 12, 1797.
34. Esther, b. Dec. 23, 1769, d. Oct. 27, 1855.
35. Hannah, b. Oct. 21, 1761.
36. Priscilla, b. March 3, 1775, d. March 3, 1802.
37. Sarah, b. Oct. 24, 1763.
38. William, b. Sept. 15, 1757.
- Elizabeth, b. July 26, 1759.
- Stephen, b. Dec. 28, 1767.

The old Foulk Bible was found in the possession of Mrs. Susanna Pierce, at Wilmington, Del. Numbers could not be given to the last two names without renumbering the whole genealogy through, numbers having been given to the other names before the Foulk Bible was discovered.

CHARITY TALLEY (11) married Joseph Cloud, May 9, 1760. He may have been a grandson of Wm. Cloud, the emigrant.

Children.

39. William.
40. Charity.

THOMAS TALLEY (12) married Hannah Grubb, daughter of Richard, November 4, 1766. Richard was the son of John and Rachel (Buckley) Grubb. John was the son of John the first.

Children.

41. Willam, b. May 13, 1768, d. 1839.
42. Adam, b. Feb'y 7, 1770, d. July 28, 1844.
43. Thomas, b. May 5, 1772, d. Jan'y 9, 1859.
44. Richard, b. July 12, 1780, d. about 1826.
45. Charity, b. Feb'y 19, 1784, d. about 1819.

These births were taken from a sampler worked by the hands of Charity, No. 45, about 1793. This sampler is now in possession of John Booth's family. It was handed down by Charity (Talley) Booth.

WILLIAM TALLEY (13) married Dinah (Diana) Stilley, November 5, 1768. (See sketch of "William on the Brandywine.") They lived at Talley's Corner when first married. This place derived its name from the fact, that William lived on one corner, his brother Thomas on another, and William the father owned the land on another corner.

Children.

46. Curtis, b. Aug. 20, 1769, d. 1859.
47. Amor, b. 1771, d. Dec. 10, 1820.
48. Harmon, b. April 28, 1775, d. Aug. 24, 1858.
49. Elihu, b. Nov. 24, 1777, d. June 18, 1860.
50. Peter, b. ——— d. in Illinois.
51. Caleb, b. ——— d. in Delaware.
52. Sarah, b. ——— d. in Delaware.
53. John, b. Sept. 25, 1791, d. July 6, 1861.
54. Lewis S., b. June 8, 1794, d. Sept. 3, 1847.
55. Keziah, b. ——— d. in Delaware.
56. Eli, d. in infancy.

ELIHU TALLEY (14) married Lydia Forwood, daughter of Wm. and Sarah (Clark) Forwood. (See sketch.)

Children.

57. Amor, b. Jan'y 9, 1780, d. in Ohio.
58. Sarah, b. Dec. 18, 1781, d. in Delaware.
59. John Forwood, b. April 1, 1784, d. Dec. 11, 1851.
60. Mary, b. Nov. 10, 1787, d. Feb'y 16, 1869.
61. George, b. Jan'y 2, 1793.
62. Lydia, b. Aug. 14, 1795.
63. Elihu, b. Aug. 16, 1795, d. in infancy.

The wife Lydia died August 16, 1795, when the last twin was born. Elihu married second Rachel Robinson, daughter of Charles Robinson, who lived on the Robt. Casey farm.

Children of second marriage.

64. Charles—went to the Mexican War.
65. Hannah R., b. Aug. 10, 1801, d. April 8, 1879.
66. Gideon G., b. 1806, d. Nov. 30, 1842.
67. Hiram, d. unmarried.
68. Rachel A., b. ——— d. May 20, 1855.

EDWARD TALLEY (15) married Elizabeth ——— probably a Talley. (See his sketch.)

Children.

69. Cyrus, b. March 7, 1781.
70. Harlin, b. Sept. 13, 1782—nothing known.
71. Orpah, b. March 22, 1784—nothing known.
72. Susanna, b. Nov. 25, 1785.
73. Enoch, b. May 16, 1787—nothing known.
74. Samuel, b. March 8, 1790.
75. Oliver, b. Oct. 23, 1791—nothing known.

These names were found in the Bible of Joseph Lloyd. Edward Talley married second, Christiann Dick, a widow. No children of this last marriage.

ESTHER TALLEY, (16) married James Council. They moved to Ohio.

REBECCA TALLEY (17) married Thomas Smith, of Birmingham. He was the son of Wm. Smith, of Elam, Delaware County, Pa.

These last two marriages are proved by a deed made by the heirs-at-law of Wm. Talley, deceased, dated 1790, and Recorded in Book "H," vol. 3, pg. 97, at Wilmington, Del.

SUSANNA TALLEY (18) married (tall) Thomas Cartmell, of Quarryville, Del. She was his second wife; his first wife having been Hannah Foulk (35). All of the children of Thomas Cartmell were in the Talley line of descent.

Children of second marriage.

76. Jemima, b. Sept. 1, 1793, d. Aug. 31, 1846.
77. Elizabeth, d. unmarried.
78. Susanna.
79. William, m. Jane Pennington.
80. George, a cooper at Brandywine.

MARTHA TALLEY (19) married John Marshall. Nothing is known of them.

PRISCILLA TALLEY (20) married Thomas Thompson, an Englishman. Priscilla is buried at St. Martin's Church at Marcus Hook. Thomas is buried at Swedes Church, Wilmington. Priscilla survived her husband a number of years.

Children.

81. Catharine, b. Sept. 10, 1806, d. 1844.
82. John, b. July 30, 1809, d. Aug. 19, 1888.
83. Sallie, b. Nov. 2, 1811.
84. George, b. Oct. 1, 1814, d. 1898.
85. Elizabeth, b. 1817, d. ———.
86. Stephen H., b. Dec. 20, 1823.
87. Edward T., b. Sept. 17, 1825.
88. Mary Ann, b. Sept. 17, 1825.

THOMAS TALLEY (24), son of Samuel, married Rebecca Lloyd, sister of Jeremiah Lloyd, Feb'y 19, 1784. (See Swedes' Church Record.)

Children.

89. Amor, m. Lydia Talley.

- 90. Margaret, m. Aaron Smith.
- 91. Hannah, m. Samuel Hanby.
- 92. Rebecca, m. Robinson Beeson.

JOSEPH TALLEY (25), son of Samuel, married Susanna Smith June 8, 1798. Susanna died Feb'y 20, 1858.

Children.

- 93. Jehu (dark hair), b. Sept. 5, 1799, d. July 29, 1882.
- 94. Susanna, b. Sept. 22, 1801, d. Nov. 17, 1881.
- 95. Thomas, b. Nov. 30, 1803, d. Nov. 31, 1824.
- 96. Margaret, b. April 12, 1806, d. young.
- 97. Margaret, b. June 30, 1809, d. Oct. 29, 1824.

JEHU TALLEY (26), son of Samuel, married Jemima Kellam. He lived to the west of, and adjoining, the Ebright farm, near the State line.

Children.

- 98. Jehu (Blonde), b. June 11, 1802, d. July 22, 1869.
- 99. Joseph B.
- 100. Benjamin, d. in Philadelphia, Pa.
- 101. Jemima.
- 102. Parthena, m. Robert McClure.
- 103. Susan.
- 104. Mary, m. Benjamin Pierce.

SAMUEL TALLEY (27), son of Samuel, married Mary Russell Sept. 21, 1796. He resided on the farm now the home of Zach. Ebright. It was sold by Bayard Talley, executor, to Ebright.

Children.

- 105. Bayard, b. July 25, 1806, d. Aug. 12, 1891.
- 106. Nelson R., moved to Delaware, Ohio.
- 107. Alban, d. unmarried.
- 108. Isabella.
- 109. Jane, m. John Wilson.
- 110. Margaret, m. ——— Little.
- 111. Maria, m. John Cochran.
- 112. Ann.
- 113. Martha, b. June 23, 1810, d. April 11, 1861.

SIXTH GENERATION.

JOHN FOULK (33) married Jemima Sharpley, Feb'y 27, 1787. He is buried at the Newark Union burying ground. The date of birth on his tombstone agrees with the date in the Foulk Bible. We do not know the names of all his children, but he evidently had a son John, who was John the third. This last John married Ann Grubb, sister of Joseph Grubb. They had a son John, who married Susanna Dutton. The latter had a son John the fifth.

ESTHER FOULK (34) married Moses Bullock, Feb'y 7, 1787. They resided near Elam, Pa., and were the ancestors of many of this name in and about Concord Township, Delaware County, Pa.

HANNAH FOULK (35) married (tall) Thomas Cartmell. They resided at Quarryville, Del., on the farm of the late Joseph B. Guest.

PRISCILLA FOULK (36) married Harmon Talley (48). (See the issue under No. 48.)

SARAH FOULK (37) possibly married Powell Clayton, of Delaware County, Pa. It is not certain whether it was Sarah No. 37, or a sister Sarah, born February 7, 1772, that married Mr. Clayton. The old Foulk Bible indicates that Sarah, born 1763, may have died an infant, and that a second child was named Sarah, and was born in 1772. We did not discover this Bible until this genealogy was nearly ready for the printer. John Clayton was the son of Powell and Sarah (Foulk) Clayton. Sarah, then, was the grandmother of Hon. Powell Clayton, Minister to Mexico; Judge Thomas J. Clayton, of the Delaware County, Pa., Courts; and Judge Wm. H. Clayton, of Arkansas.

WILLIAM FOULK (38) married —— Sharpley. They moved to Mill Creek Hundred, Del., and were the ancestors of the Foulks there.

WILLIAM CLOUD (39) married Ann Davis, Nov. 2, 1796.

Children.

- 114. Abner, m. Elizabeth McKay.
- 115. Ann, m. George Lodge.
- 116. Charity, did not marry.
- 117. Maria, did not marry.
- 118. Lot, m. Rebecca Talley.
- 119. Joel.

CHARITY CLOUD (40) married Valentine Robinson, who lived on the Naaman's Creek Road, Brandywine Hundred. The names of their children are taken from the Sterne Record.

Children.

- 120. Jemima, b. 1790.
- 121. Lydia, b. 1792.
- 122. Keziah, b. 1796.
- 123. Kerenhappuck, b. 1799.
- 124. Charles, b. 1801.
- 125. Charity, b. 1807.

WILLIAM TALLEY (41) married Ann Day, sister of Benjamin Day, who lived on the Shellpot Creek. Francis Day was the father. William Talley purchased of William McClure's Estate 100 acres of land on the "New Road" to the south-east of Perry's Hotel, and made his home there until his death, in 1839.

Children.

- 126. Joseph, b. May 15, 1799, d. in Illinois.
- 127. Thomas, b. June 9, 1801, d. young.
- 128. Harmon, b. March 31, 1803, d. 1867.
- 129. Hezekiah, b. Jan'y 12, 1806, d. Nov. 3, 1862.
- 130. Mary Ann, b. Nov. 8, 1808, d. April 4, 1885.
- 131. William Grubb, b. May 22, 1813, d. 1898.
- 132. Samuel M., b. Dec. 27, 1815, d. Aug. 23, 1896.

ADAM TALLEY (42) married Rebecca Day, July 15, 1795. She was a sister of Ann and Benjamin Day, and was born March 26, 1774. Adam Talley was an extensive land-owner at Talley's Corner. He devised a farm each to his sons William D., Thomas Miller and Lewis, subject to legacies to his daughters; and a "new house," with a small tract, to Priscilla Hanby (wife of William Hanby) for life, with remainder to her son, Adam Talley Hanby, in fee. His desk and arm-chair were devised to Lewis. Lewis was appointed executor of the will, and letters were granted to him August 1, 1844. The witnesses to the will were Isaac Grubb and Lewis S. Talley (the preacher). Adam died July 28, 1844. His will bears date May 7, 1842. His wife died April 8, 1838. Adam was a very thrifty and honorable man. Camp-meeting was held in his woods adjoining the Grubb Road for several seasons.

Children.

133. Mary, b. Oct. 10, 1795.
134. Ann, b. June 1, 1797.
135. Hannah, b. Jan'y 16, 1800, d. 1890.
136. Adam G., b. April 3, 1802, d. May 14, 1868.
137. Priscilla, b. Feb'y 20, 1805, d. Jan'y 7, 1869.
138. William D., b. Oct. 6, 1806, d. Nov. 21, 1882.
139. Thomas Miller, b. Aug. 28, 1808, d. March 1, 1873.
140. Lewis, b. Nov. 4, 1810, d. Oct. 9, 1890.
141. Elizabeth, b. Feb. 12, 1812.
142. Rebecca, b. Feb'y 12, 1813, d. July 26, 1893.

THOMAS TALLEY (43) was born May 5, 1772, and died at the extreme age of 87 years. He was born on the farm late of Penrose R. Talley, on the Foulk Road. He was a small boy at the date of the Battle of Brandywine, yet he recollected distinctly having seen a part of the American army retreating past his home, going to Chester on the evening of the battle. A portion may have gone by the Foulk Road. Thomas married Mary Weldin, daughter of George and Elizabeth (Allmond) Weldin, who lived on Penny Hill, on the Philadelphia Turnpike. George Weldin was a brother to Jacob Weldin, who married Mary Allmond, sister to Elizabeth. George and Jacob were sons of Isaac, who was a son of the first Jacob. Thomas and Mary, shortly after their marriage, purchased a farm on the lower Shellpot, above

Webster's mill, and moved to it soon after 1800. They spent the remainder of their life on this farm. Thomas was a very neat and intelligent man. He was a stone mason by trade, and helped to erect the immense stone arch which forms the Naaman's Creek Bridge at Claymont, Del. Thomas was a patriot and shouldered his musket in the War of 1812.

Children.

143. Eliza A., b. March 8, 1806, d. Nov. 7, 1891.
144. George W., b. Feb'y 8, 1808, d. March 3, 1888.
145. Alban, b. March 15, 1811, d. Oct. 16, 1821.
146. John, b. Nov. 15, 1813.
147. Hannah, b. July 25, 1816, d. Jan'y 5, 1892.

RICHARD TALLEY (44) married Sarah Cartmell, daughter of (tall) Thomas Cartmell and Hannah (Foulk) Cartmell. Richard and his wife lived and died on the Penrose Talley farm, at Talley's Corner. Richard may have died about the date of his will, in 1826. He was buried at the Talley-Foulk burying ground. His wife died about 1833.

Children.

148. Hannah C., b. Oct. 1, 1803.
149. Penrose R., b. May 19, 1805, d. Nov. 27, 1879.
150. Charity, b. 1807.
151. Sarah, b. Jan'y, 27, 1809, d. Aug. 12, 1879.
152. Thomas, b. Nov. 11, 1810, d. Aug. 13, 1899.
153. John R., b. Nov. 7, 1812, d. Feb'y 6, 1890.
154. Peter, b. March 16, 1816, d. Oct. 19, 1884.

HARMON TALLEY (48) married first, Priscilla Foulk, (36.) They were first cousins to each other. He married after the death of Priscilla, Rebecca Grubb, a sister of his son-in-law, Adam Grubb. Priscilla died in 1802, and is buried in the Foulk burying ground. Rebecca, the second wife, died in 1836, and is buried in the Grubb family burying ground on the Grubb Road. Harmon was quite an able man, was a member of the Delaware Legislature in 1828. After the death of his last wife, in 1836, he moved to Ohio, taking almost his entire family with him. He moved from Ohio to Illinois, and died, in 1858, at Piasa, Macoupin County. He was interred in the Mt. Pleasant M. E. Cemetery at that place. He lost his eyesight some years before he died.

CALEB TALLEY (51) married Sarah Brown. He died on the banks of the Brandywine, December 31, 1820. His wife died July 22, 1818, leaving their children quite young, Hannah being but five months old when her mother died. Hannah Talley, it appears, was a daughter of Caleb the first. Her children state it most clearly that their mother was born towards the Brandywine, and that her father was Caleb Talley; that the mother died when Hannah was only a few months old, and that Hannah was reared partly by Caleb Perkins, who married Hannah Brown, aunt to Hannah the infant. Hannah also, in her lifetime, stated that she was entitled to some land near the Brandywine. Most positive proof has been found in the family Bible of Hannah (Talley) Everson, now in the hands of her daughter at Marcus Hook. It gives the death of Caleb and his wife, Sarah Talley. If Caleb married Elizabeth Jones, as has been stated, she was a first wife, for he surely had a wife Sarah, the mother of Hannah. Those interested in this matter can follow it up to a definite conclusion.

REV. LEWIS S. TALLEY (54) married Priscilla Clark, a sister of Letitia, the wife of his brother John Talley. He traveled for a time as a Methodist minister, but receiving an injury from a fall, he ceased to travel, and afterwards preached as a local minister, at the same time conducting his farm at Talley's Corner, on the Foulk Road. He is well remembered by the older residents of Brandywine Hundred. He was quite an able man and a forcible preacher. He was above the average in intellect, and a man of influence among his neighbors. He died September 3, 1847, and was interred at the Bethel Cemetery in Brandywine Hundred. He was the father of a large family, among whom was General William Cooper Talley, now of Washington, D. C.

JOHN FORWOOD TALLEY (59) married Sarah Newcomer, February 26, 1818, in Maryland. He was in the War of 1812. After this he worked at his trade erecting mills. When engaged in erecting a mill in Maryland for Henry Newcomer, he became acquainted with the daughter Sarah. This resulted in a marriage. The newly wedded couple resided in Virginia for a time, later they settled in Cleremont County, Ohio, where they spent the remainder of their very successful life. Cleremont County was, when John moved there, well on the frontier. He has told, that in the early day he was offered the best lot in Cincinnati for a load of lumber. Thus showing how new Cincinnati was at that day. John Forwood Talley, by his push and energy, acquired a vast amount of lands in Ohio; and when he died he was the wealthiest man in Cleremont County. His wife died July 8, 1851. He turned from her death-bed saying, "I have nothing to live for now." From that time he declined, and passed away December 11, 1851. He was particular in his dress, kept good horses, and enjoyed a dashing drive. He was tall and muscular, and was possessed of an iron will. He, though a very silent man, would not stand an insult, and would resent the same even if it led to a personal encounter. He left to survive him five children, who became men and women of great ability and of influence in the State of Ohio.

BIOGRAPHY.

In this department is given a short sketch of the Grubb Ancestry, as well as a few sketches of persons now living and of some who have, in recent years, passed away. This field was not intended for a selected class, but was open to all. Many cared not for mention in this way. Modern thought would indicate that in this course they erred, and thereby detracted much from the value of the book. Matter of this kind must be invaluable after the lapse of a few years. If every one decided not to permit his biography to appear, how could a satisfactory book be issued? Individual wishes must oftentimes yield to that which may result in good to others.

The sketches following were mostly prepared by the author, voluntarily, as a small tribute to those who took active part in working for the book, and to those who donated funds to aid in the printing when it was clearly discernible, that unless aid were given the undertaking must result in failure. This movement added many pages to the book, and many more could have been added had the funds been donated for the printing of the same. All within reach were given an opportunity to join in the donations; in fact, the circular issued August 28, 1899, strongly pleaded for donations and financial aid. We hope there will be no criticism of this course, nor fault found on this account, but rather let all rejoice that a plan was devised which brought success, and rendered the book a possibility. It would be most ungenerous and unmanly not to feel grateful to all who have aided the work by donating funds and subscribing for books.

A SKETCH OF THE GRUBB ANCESTRY.

As we are not able, at this writing, to set forth the chivalry of the ancient European Talley family, on account of the lack of research among the archives and historical records across the Atlantic, we here give a resume of the Grubb ancestry ; so that, those of us who have descended on the maternal side from this illustrious family may draw inspiration and profit therefrom, while we await the unearthing of the emblems armorial of the Talley family, or the discovery of the true current of their royal blood in distant lands.

It appears that the Grubb ancestry dates back to 1127, in Denmark. Those of that name then held high positions in the government of that nation ; and were the possessors of coats-of-arms and other insignia of nobility. They were very near to the throne in ancient Denmark, being related to King Christian IV by a collateral marriage. Some of the Grubbs passed, at an early day, from Denmark over to England, and from them have descended the Grubb family of England, and later of America.

The American Grubbs trace their recent ancestry back to Henry Grubbe, Esq., of Wiltshire, England. He died in 1581. Some of his descendants have held high positions in the Army and Navy of England, as well as in Parliament, Henry Grubbe being himself a member in that body, representing Devizes, Wiltshire, 14 Elizabeth, in 1571. Thomas, the son of Henry, died February 2, 1617. Thomas M. A., of Oxford University, and rector of Cranfield, was the second son of Thomas, Esq., and was born 1581, at Potterne, Wiltshire. John, Esq., of Bedfordshire, second son of Rev. Thomas, was born 1610, and died in 1667. He being an adherent of the Church of England in Cromwell's time, removed for safety to a remote corner of Cornwall, and there he married Helen Vivian.

The emigrant, John Grubb, who came to America just before the landing of Penn, was a son of John and Helen (Vivian) Grubb, of Cornwall, England. He was born in 1652, and came to America in 1677. He married Frances Vane. She was of English descent. He died in 1708 and is buried at St. Martin's P. E. Church at Marcus Hook, Pa. The children of the marriage of John and Frances Grubb were, 1. Emanuel, 2. John, 3. Charity, 4. Phebe, 5. Joseph, 6. Henry, 7. Samuel, 8. Nathaniel, and 9. Peter.

The Talleys have intermarried with descendants of John, Emanuel and Joseph, and perhaps with descendants of other children of John the emigrant. Joseph was the father of Hannah Grubb, who intermarried with William Talley about 1735. From this marriage have descended possibly two-thirds of the Talleys named in our Genealogical Register. Thomas, the son of William and Hannah (Grubb) Talley, married Hannah Grubb, a supposed descendant of John Grubb, second.

For a more extended and complete history of the ancient Grubb family in Europe, we refer to the sketch of Judge Ignatius C. Grubb's life in the "Biographical and Genealogical History of Delaware," vol. 1, pg. 231. The Talleys who have descended from the Grubb line are of noble birth, and should feel under lasting obligations to Judge Grubb for his most thorough work in tracing the ancestry back to so remote a period; and in permitting the same to be recorded for the benefit of ALL who may take interest therein.

GENERAL WILLIAM COOPER TALLEY.

WILLIAM COOPER TALLEY, son of Rev. Lewis S. and Priscilla (Clark) Talley, was born December 11, 1831, on his father's farm (later the home of Lewis Zebley), at Talley's Corner, Brandywine Hundred, Del. His father died in 1847, and his mother in 1850, as shown by their tombstones at Bethel Cemetery. He attended the Forwood School when a boy, it being close to his home. The Forwood School House was memorable for one thing at least. A debating society was organized there many years ago. Among the active debaters were William Cooper Talley and Powell Clayton, now Ambassador to Mexico, each of whom in the Civil War rose to the rank of Brigadier General. These brigadiers were related by John Clayton and Rev. Lewis S. Talley each marrying a daughter of George Clark. There was also a slight relationship by Sarah (Foulk) Clayton, the grandmother of Powell Clayton, being the daughter of Sarah (Talley) Foulk. Cooper Talley and Powell Clayton were of necessity on opposite sides in the debates, but during the Civil War they were on the same side, battling for their country, one in the far West and the other in the East. They each succeeded well in shedding new lustre on their family names.

William Cooper Talley graduated in 1853 at Professor Sudler's Academy at Wilmington, Del. The professor was a graduate at West Point and a fine military tactician. Under his teaching young Talley perhaps received the military impulse which later developed into the brave soldier of the Civil War.

After his graduation he took a prospecting trip through the West, but finally decided to locate at Media, Pa. Here he began the reading of law, and at the same time, with other parties, published the Upland Union, a Democratic newspaper issued at Media. Talley was a strong Douglas man, and his associates were equally as strong for Breckenridge. The want of harmony caused Mr. Talley to withdraw from the paper. Being solicited by a committee from Norristown, Pa., he purchased the National Democrat of that city, and advocated the election of Douglas.

Lincoln being elected, the war followed. The brave young man from Brandywine Hundred, with the military spirit already kindled at the Wilmington Academy, could not resist the call to arms. He raised a company, unsheathed his sword, and gallantly fought for his country and his convictions.

Upon his return home, at the expiration of his three years, he became Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue for the Seventh District of Pennsylvania, and later received the appointment of Collector. When his office expired he again took up journalism, and published the Delaware County Democrat, at Chester, Pa. While editing this paper, in 1874, he was elected on the Democratic ticket to the Pennsylvania Legislature, and served until the close of the session in 1876. During two sessions of this term he was Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, and a member of the Centennial Committee. He assisted in arranging for the Centennial grounds, and for a State Building. Meeting with financial reverses, he retired from politics and disposed of his paper; and in 1877 took a position in the Printing Department at Washington, D. C., in the proof room of the Congressional Record. He now leads a quiet and honorable life in that city.

We extract the following from a sketch of General Talley's military life, furnished by O. B. Talley, of Sioux City, Iowa :

'When the first shot was fired on Fort Sumter he sold his newspaper at a sacrifice and organized a company at his home in Delaware County, Pa. The company became Co. F of the 1st Regiment of the Pennsylvania Reserve Corps. In 1861 the company was mustered in, subject to the call of the President. The call came during the first Bull Run fight, and he soon joined the Army of the Potomac. At the Battle of Antietam he was given the command of his regiment by General Warren, the Corps Commander. He received his Colonel's Commission Nov. 2, 1862. At the Battle of Spottsylvania C. H. he commanded the 1st Brigade of the 5th Corps, Crawford commanding the division. He was, upon recommendation of General Crawford, Brevetted Brigadier General for gallant and meritorious action at Antietam, Fredericksburg, Gettysburg, the Wilderness, Spottsylvania and other engagements. He was mustered out with his brigade at Philadelphia, June 13, 1864.'

‘Steine in his History of the Army of the Potomac in substance says of him : ‘Col. William Cooper Talley, in command of the 1st Regiment of the Reserves at the Battle of Fredericksburg, was on the right. In this charge, which was longer and equally as brilliant and daring as the famous Pickett’s charge at Gettysburg, or MacDonald’s at Wagram, the command was exposed to a heavy artillery fire from the front and the flanks. Colonel Talley was a young officer of unpretending manner and not ambitious for promotion. C. H. Ingram, of Talley’s regiment, said that he looked at the Colonel as his regiment reached the slope to make the charge on the works ; that Colonel Talley was one of the coolest men that he ever saw in action. He guarded his right against surprise while he led the charge in front.’

‘Bates in his History of the Pennsylvania Volunteers in substance says : ‘In the Battle of Fredericksburg the 1st Regiment of Pennsylvania Reserves, under command of Colonel Talley, moved in a steady line across an open plain under a heavy enfilading artillery fire, and charged with resistless energy, crossing the railroad and ditches, and driving the enemy two hundred yards beyond the entrenchment. He was compelled to retire for want of reinforcements, after having opened the way to victory. He led his regiment with great gallantry and aided in gaining the signal advantage of the battle. If this successful assault had been followed up, a victory would have been gained instead of a defeat which filled the land with gloom.’

O. B. Talley, in closing his sketch, says :

“It has been my good fortune to know General Talley in his home life in Washington. During three years of my service as clerk to a committee of the lower branch of the National Legislature, I spent many pleasant evenings with the General. He is a grand old man, full of years and of glory, unassuming and generous. Those of his family whom I have met are fit descendants of such a sire. Our family has reason to be proud of him, and the coming generations may well emulate the example he has set before them.”

ELIZA A. TALLEY, GEORGE W. TALLEY,
JOHN TALLEY, HANNAH (TALLEY) WELDIN.

These four persons were the children of Thomas and Mary (Weldin) Talley. Thomas was a man mentally and physically strong, and joined his lot in life with Mary Weldin, a woman remarkable for her fine physical endowments and strength of character. They were perfect strangers in blood to each other. From these conditions we have presented the four children named above, remarkable for their size, strength, longevity and mental development. It is rare to find a family of four, and all worthy of the historian's pen. Here are suggested questions for our earnest consideration.

The subjects of this sketch received the ordinary District School education of the day, which was limited often on account of the lack of ability in the teacher, and the lack of funds to continue the school. These children easily digested whatever in an educational way was presented to them, whether at school or out rubbing against the activities of the world. The lack of book learning was supplemented with natural endowments, which carried them through life successfully, even in the day of the "higher education."

ELIZA A. TALLEY was born March 8, 1806. She never married, not, however, on account of the want of opportunity, for it is well known that many sought her hand in marriage. She was the idol of her parents; this, no doubt, was the cause of her remaining single.

She spun the wool as long as spinning was in vogue, and knit the stockings that warmed the feet of many of her relatives, and of many outside of her family. This was rarely done for hire, but out of the purest kindness and charity. She was of a remarkably cheerful and hopeful disposition, yet did she live only in the real substantial atmosphere of life, caring not for its lighter pleasures. With her, "life was real, life was earnest." She was tall and slender, and a remarkable walker. Many times did she walk to the night meetings at Bethel Church, a distance, from her home, of six miles. In her younger days a horse was rarely used by her.

Having no family, she was often found among her relatives and neighbors, a true and faithful Samaritan, giving aid and consolation, and wise counsel, when and where it was needed. Although a ready adviser, she was no intermeddler in the affairs of others. She rarely saw anything but good in the people she knew and discussed. This virtue was remarkably developed in her. Only a few have an "aunt Eliza." This one was known far and near in her neighborhood.

She strove to live up to her Christian teachings. Her loyalty and devotion to the Methodist Church were really remarkable. Her religious zeal was not of the spasmodic order, but born of the intellect. Hence, day by day always the same. Aunt Eliza passed away at the ripe age of 85 years, mourned by all, leaving a void difficult to fill.

George W. Talley
GEORGE W. TALLEY was born February 8, 1808. As soon as he was competent he began business on his own account, although he still resided under the parental roof. He did not marry until 30 years of age. In the year 1838, he married Lavinia Beeson, a pretty girl of 18 years of age. She was small of stature, and of rare good judgment. She was of English descent, and of the colonial family of Beesons, who lived south of the Philadelphia Turnpike, near the Wilmington City line. She was a model wife, and a solicitous and ever watchful mother.

Soon after their marriage they took up their abode on that portion of his father's farm which lay adjacent to the mill property of Henry Webster. While carrying on a general farming business, he engaged especially in buying, selling and fattening cattle. This naturally led him in the direction of the Cherry Island Marsh, for his good judgment soon told him that bushes and rolling stones did not produce fat cattle, while the fine white clover of the marshes did.

He began to buy marsh land shortly after his marriage, and was, in 1840, taxed on the marsh books as the owner of 8 acres. From this time the acreage increased almost annually until in after life he owned about 225 acres of these marsh lands. This included the historic old Cherry Island or Cooper's Island, of the days of the Dutch and Swedes. This property is still in the Talley family, and it is said that it was the site of the first ship-building plant along the Delaware. On these marshes before and during the Civil War, George W. Talley fed more than one hundred head of fine steers at one time.

Haying was a vast industry on the marsh, and with this Talley family it began in June, and lasted until the ground was white with autumn's frost. There was hay in barns, hay in stacks almost everywhere, and too often loads of hay and the oxen all in the ditch at sun down, and four miles from home. It took a little of everything to make up a full round season of haying on the "old Island." One term of this kind of schooling oftentimes would equal one year at the boarding school. It was practical education, with much stress on the word "practical." These were days when oxen were more plentiful than horses, and doubly as trying on one's temper.

Still, 'midst it all, the Talley world moved slowly on. George W. Talley added to his lands, farms and tracts on the highlands of Brandywine Hundred, and finished by building a row of brick houses at the corner of La Mott Street and Vandiver Avenue in Wilmington, Del. He owned at one time about 325 acres, all of which either lay within the city's limits or not far from it. One peculiar circumstance connected with his land dealings was that, although a great land-buyer, he scarcely ever sold, except to a railroad company, or to be used for some public purpose.

He, with such able men as Jacob S. Weldin, Lewis Weldin, William Todd and many others, organized the Mt. Pleasant M. E. Church Society, at the old school house of the same name, and assisted in the building of the present church near Quarryville. He continued to be a leading member here until his decease. He held the office of Church Trustee for years, was a Director of the Cherry Island Marsh Company, and a School Director. These were the only offices held by him. He had no taste for politics, although he was a true patriot, and a lover of his country. He kept well posted on public affairs, being a great newspaper reader, and had excellent judgment on National matters. When the call of his country seemed to demand it, he consented that his two older sons might join the great Union Army of 1861 to 1865.

He was a man of powerful build, and never used stimulants nor tobacco. He demonstrated his ability to carry on large undertakings, as did William Talley of old. He prized money only for the good he could do with it. He was economical, yet had the idea of public improvement so firmly implanted in him that large sums were given to bridges, railroads, and other public improvements. He, although a member of Mt. Pleasant Church, was at the same time one of the Board of Trustees that erected the Brandywine M. E. Church, and gave more to the building fund of the latter than he could well afford.

When the National Dredging Company, some years ago, filled with dredged mud a large tract in Cherry Island, George W. Talley and his life-long friend, Isaac S. Elliott, donated to the city of Wilmington a strip of ground one hundred feet wide, extending from Brandywine Creek to the Delaware River, for the bed of Fourth Street. He fostered all public improvements, and opposed none. It afforded him pleasure to see the building of railroads, even when they came through his own land. His exterior might at times to some appear rugged and unpolished, yet beneath this exterior was a fully developed manhood, and a heart as tender as a child's. He reared and educated a family of ten children, and left at his decease lands that at public executors' sale brought a very handsome sum of money. One tract, consisting of but eleven acres and a large mansion, located on the Philadelphia Turnpike, east of the Riverview Cemetery, was laid out into building lots by the executors and called "Maplewood." This alone brought the sum of $20,000.

George W. Talley acquired substantially all of his property by his own energy, industry and indomitable will. Truly is "a workman known by his chips." Here again have we the proof of the adage, that greatness is inherited and not acquired in the schools. In the spring of 1888, the subject of our sketch made a visit of pleasure to Florida, and shortly after his arrival there, was stricken with pneumonia, and to quote his language, he was "a thousand miles from home, and sick." He was brought home, but survived but a few days, and passed away in his 81st year, at his home on the Shellpot. In life he was strong in body, strong in character, and strong in his attachment to his family.

"Lives of great men all remind us,
We can make our lives sublime,
And departing leave behind us,
Footprints on the sands of time."

JOHN TALLEY was born November 15, 1813. He married Sarah A. Stidham in the early part of 1853, she having descended on the paternal side from one of the early Swedish families that settled at Christiana, about 1638. He did not marry until nearly 40 years of age, and never left the home of his birth, but when he married he took his wife to reside with his parents, who were quite in years, and needed his help in managing the farm, which was located near the Shellpot,

Soon after coming of age, or a little before, he, like most of the energetic young men who resided close to the Delaware River, provided himself with net and boat, and in early springtime engaged in shad fishing on the river. This business gave both enjoyment and excitement, while it at the same time very signally increased the account at bank, for shad fresh from the Delaware commanded no small price. Many a farm in the vicinity of the river was paid for by this lucrative business of fishing.

As John Talley resided at home while fishing, his outlay was small, and the profits of the season were loaned at interest, and became the foundation of his present fortune, which to-day amounts to no meagre sum. He is considered by his neighbors to be a man of "full and plenty." He is the owner of many mortgages, and his income from interest is much more than the profits from the farm.

He has had large experience in loaning money, and knows a good thing at sight. He is remarkably keen in a business transaction, and his judgment is quick and reliable.

Even now, at the age of 86 years, he attends to his many financial transactions. He is quite a temperate man, caring nothing for intoxicants.

At his father's death he purchased the home farm of 60 acres from the other heirs. This farm, although not extensive, has been conducted in a most neat and careful manner. Thus demonstrating that, had his living depended on agriculture, he would have been not only an extensive but an exceedingly prosperous farmer. He chose a more profitable business for his main occupation. Being a Talley, he also drifted into Cherry Island, and owns several acres there.

He, like his brother, George W. Talley, inherited a strong muscular system, it having been said of him in his youth that he scarcely knew his strength. Born and reared as he was without the proper advantages of schools, his career has been one of wonderful success. He is fond of amusement, and is quite companionable. He has a keen sense of humor, and enjoys a joke, even when about himself.

He keeps in close touch with all public questions, and is rarely found on the wrong side. He is firm in his convictions, and is not easily swayed from his opinions. He usually casts his vote at important elections, yet has never sought office or dallied with politics.

Rigidly honest himself, he despises dishonesty in every form. He will long be remembered for his strength, courage, endurance and material prosperity.

HANNAH TALLEY was born July 25, 1816. She married, in 1845, Jacob R. Weldin, who was born June 12, 1821. He was the son of Isaac and Hannah (Tussey) Weldin. Isaac was the son of Jacob, Jacob was the son of Isaac, and Isaac was the son of Jacob Weldin, who came to America about 1700.

Jacob, upon the death of his father, purchased the homestead from the other heirs, and he and his wife Hannah (Talley) Weldin began farming on the 40-acre place, adding to the small profits of the farm many dollars made annually by shad fishing on the Delaware River. The services of his wife now became very important in the matter of finding a good market for the catch of fish. Jacob R. Weldin was always fond of the sea, having sailed in his youth in the coasting trade from Boston to Southern ports. He was accidentally thrown overboard several times into the ocean, but was always rescued by others of his crew. In after life he never lost his attachment for the ocean, but made annual visits to the shore to enjoy the old sights, and to take a dip into the briny waves.

Hannah (Talley) Weldin was the youngest child of her parents, and was of a very jovial disposition, and quite a favorite with the young people of her day. Jacob and Hannah after marriage were very hospitable, and enjoyed the company of their friends and neighbors. They were both of exceeding good temper, and all business about the farm and home moved along smoothly and in perfect unison. It was not long before the profits from fishing and from the little farm began to accumulate, and money was on hand to loan.

Jacob soon began to long for larger fields to conquer. The opportunity came about 1861. The very large but impoverished farm of Albanus C. Logan, consisting of 220 acres, one mile from Wilmington, and called "Chestnut Hill," located near the Blue Ball estate, was offered for sale, at about $75.00 per acre. The price named seemed small, but the farm looked large and dilapidated. Mr. Weldin being cautious, and as a wise man, he advised with his friends, and finally made the purchase, and settled down to business, as an active, thrifty farmer. As he looked back in after years, he said that he had nothing to regret on account of the purchase. He lived to see this extensive level tract of land, under his good management, produce abundance of hay, grain and other products usual to a large farm. It was later turned into a dairy farm, and the milk product was retailed in Wilmington. He, too, found out that high lands needed the succor of the marsh lands. He gradually acquired land in Cherry Island, until at his death he owned 50 acres there. He was a man much interested in public improvement, and was glad to see the coming of railroads, and the building of good highways, bridges and similar improvements.

He was for many years a Director in the Cherry Island

Marsh Company, and gave much of his time to the affairs of the company. He was for over twenty years Treasurer of Mt. Pleasant M. E. Church. He and his wife could be seen almost every Sunday driving a distance of three miles behind a well fed, active horse, to the church of their choice. They were consistent and generous in their church work. Many times did Jacob R. Weldin advance the minister's salary, and run the chance as to being repaid. Jacob and Hannah lived an honorable and harmonious life, and from this came a full measure of prosperity and happiness. The combining by marriage of two such minds as those of Jacob and Hannah Weldin, could not result otherwise than in the greatest of success. They both were stout and of full stature. They were robust in body, and noble in character, and consequently were fitted for large undertakings. Being very plain people, they naturally detested all shams and false pretenses.

Jacob R. Weldin died after a short illness, on December 24, 1891, and his wife, in a very short time, on January 5, 1892, followed him. They rest peacefully at Newark Union Cemetery, kindly remembered by the whole community.

J. HENDERSON TALLEY is the son of Rev. John Talley and his second wife, Ann (Henderson) Talley. He descended by his maternal line from Col. Major Henderson, of Revolutionary fame, who resided at Dividing Creek, Cumberland County, N. J. Henderson Talley is a person of learning and of considerable research. He has been associated with educational matters the greater part of his active life. He taught school for a number of years in Brandywine Hundred, and in this way became widely known among the people of the hundred. Later he was engaged in farming, but now, at the age of 75 years, leads a retired life at West Chester, Pa. He and his wife on December 30, 1896, celebrated their "golden wedding," many relatives and friends being present. He has always taken great interest in the family history, and has collected much valuable data.

His mother having died, leaving him a child, he was largely reared by his stepmother, Ann (Hollingsworth) Talley.

Fortunately she was a woman of rare attainments and of wealth. She was the daughter of Col. Henry Hollingsworth, of Maryland, who led his regiment in a skirmish with the British in Maryland during the War with that nation. Ann H. Talley was prominent in business affairs, and conducted a plantation of 500 acres in Cecil County, Md., at the same time she resided in Delaware, as the wife of Rev. John Talley. She was a strong advocate of temperance, and a great religious worker. It is said that she was one of the most able women that ever resided in the "Old Hundred." She was a powerful platform speaker, and possibly excelled her very able husband in this line of work. She was the owner of slaves by inheritance, but upon her marriage with John Talley she set them all free. J. Henderson Talley says of her, that "she was a good woman, and to her I owe in a great measure what I have been and what I am."

There is considerable talent in the descendants of J. Henderson Talley. A grandson, Rev. Francis M. Dowlin, graduated at the High School at West Chester, and was awarded a gold medal for oratory. He is now passing through his graduating year at Dickinson College, Pa., and has an appointment under the Philadelphia Conference at Washington Borough, Lancaster County, Pa.

WILLIAM D. TALLEY (138), the son of Adam Talley, resided when first married on the westerly corner of the Kellam and Foulk Roads, at Talley's Corner. He was then engaged in the blacksmith and wheelwright business. His eyesight becoming impaired, he went into farming, at first on the farm devised to him by his father at Talley's Corner. Later he removed to Maryland, and there conducted the farming business. He afterwards removed to Delaware County, Pa., and resided for years at the village of Trainor. He and his wife, Elizabeth (Bullock) Talley, reared a large family. William D. Talley was a man of fine intellect and of fine character, and was devoted to the Methodist Church, and lived and died within its fold. He was a class leader for a number of years. He was buried at Bethel Cemetery, in Brandywine Hundred, November, 1882. He was one of the descendants of Thomas Talley (who died in 1818); and was in his early life a part of the congregation of the old Bethel Church; and was highly respected by those who came in contact with him.

THOMAS G. RAWSON (282) is the son of Warren and Jemima (Cartmell) Rawson, who were married at Brandywine Village, Del., in 1810. There were six children from this marriage. Three died in youth, and three survived, viz: Regina, born August 26, 1815; Thomas G., born January 9, 1823; and William, born April 1, 1825. The husband, Warren Rawson, died suddenly in Wilmington, June 25, 1825, at the age of 40 years. Mrs. Rawson was left with one son scarcely two and a half years old and a baby less than two months old, and with little means at hand. Warren was buried at the Baptist Church Cemetery on King Street, Wilmington. Jemima died August 31, 1846, and was buried at the Newark Union Cemetery, Brandywine Hundred. The son Thomas was then left in poverty, with nothing but pluck and energy as his fortune.

Captain William Rawson, a mariner and an Englishman, married, April 14, 1781, Lydia, the widow of Peter Woolbough; her maiden name was Morton. This marriage is recorded at the Swedes' Church, Wilmington, Del. Warren Rawson was a son of William and Lydia Rawson, and was a ship carpenter at Wilmington. He became acquainted with his future wife by being a boarder at the house of her mother, Susanna Cartmell, widow of tall Thomas Cartmell, who resided before his death above Quarryville, Del. Susanna was a daughter of David and Catharine Talley, of one of the older generations of Brandywine Hundred Talleys. Thomas and Susanna Cartmell had four children. Thomas Cartmell died in 1804 at his home at Quarryville.

In 1846 Thomas G. Rawson began work at the Baldwin Locomotive Works at Philadelphia, and later became very successful in fitting up the "connecting rods" of engines. In 1859 the work was "farmed out," and Mr. Rawson took charge of the "connecting rod" branch of the business, with men and apprentices under him. Through skillful management he made money rapidly for himself and also for the firm.

He remained with this firm twenty-three years, and when he retired, in 1869, he had become one of their most valuable men. He retired with a competency, which has been very largely increased by fortunate investments. He has always led a most abstemious life, using neither stimulants nor tobacco. He has been for fifty years a member of the Tenth Baptist Church at Philadelphia, also has been a member of Penn Lodge, I. O. O. F., of the same city, for fifty-five years.

We are pleased to record Thomas G. Rawson as one of the honest, able and wealthy members of the David Talley branch of our family.

THOMAS W. JOHNSON (613) was born at Johnson's Corner, Delaware County, Pa., January 7, 1833, being the son of Eliza Ann and William Johnson. The Johnson ancestry, so far as it is known, dates back to a time previous to the Revolutionary contest, when one emigrated from Scotland to America, married here, and having a family of small children, enlisted in the Continental army and fell at the battle of White Plains.

Robert, his youngest son, was "bound" in Christiana Hundred, Del., to a man named Brown. What became of the other children is, as yet, a profound mystery. Robert married, in 1794, Margaret Webster, sister of Clark Webster. The names of their children and their marriages were as follows, viz: William to Eliza A. Talley; Robert to Mary Talley; John to Brandling Clark; David to Sarah Barnet; Harriett to Harman Talley; Anna to James Grubb Hanby; Margaret to Samuel Hance; and Mary to Anthony Bigger Carey, first, and David Gilbert, second. One son (Thomas) never married.

William Johnson in 1832 came into possession of the farm of 190 acres at Johnson's Corner. The farm is now owned by Thomas W. Johnson, the only son of William and Eliza A. Johnson. Felspar was accidentally found on this farm as early as 1848. This was the earliest discovery of felspar on the east side of the Brandywine.

Samuel Stockton was the first manufacturer of artificial teeth in America. He was succeeded in this business by S. S. White, of Philadelphia. About 1848 Mr. White, who had been on a visit to the Dixon Quarries in Christiana Hundred, stopped, on his homeward trip, at the house of his relative, William Johnson, of Concord Township, Pa. He told Mr. Johnson of the purpose of his visit to the Dixon Quarries, and showed him a sample of felspar. Mr. Johnson said, "Why, there is plenty of that kind of rock down along my run." He took a grubbing hoe and went to the run, and was soon back with a basketful of the white rock. Mr. White soon thereafter contracted with Mr. Johnson for all the felspar then known to be on the farm.

Thus began the felspar business of the great Brandywine Summit Quarries. The beginning was made near the spring in the easterly part of the "Camp Meeting Woods." Teeth made from this rock were exhibited at the great Expositions in London and in Paris, at each of which they were awarded the premium. Thousands of tons of this rock, since 1850, have been shipped to Trenton, N. J., and to East Liverpool, Ohio, for pottery uses. The finer portion is selected at the quarry for the manufacture of teeth. This higher grade is sold at $30 per ton in Philadelphia and in other places.

It is scarcely necessary to say that the famous "Brandywine Summit Camp Meeting Grounds" are a part of this farm. The Camp Meeting began here about 1866, and increased in size and in importance year by year, until a few years ago the association became incorporated, and many permanent wooden cottages are to be found here. These cottages are occupied weeks before the Camp Meeting proper begins, by families from Wilmington and elsewhere. Year after year many find recreation, rest and comfort in this beautiful grove.

Thomas W. Johnson attended the Union School of Concord Township until he was seventeen years old. He next spent one term at Pine Grove Select School, near West Chester; then a term at Norristown. He closed his school days at the Charlotteville (New York) Methodist Seminary.

At the age of twenty he began teaching school at Mt.

Pleasant, in Brandywine Hundred. He next taught one year at Brandywine Village. Then came the very successful term of three years at the Shellpot School. He was especially proud of his record at this last school, and was much interested in his geometry class. He introduced many studies here that belonged to the boarding rather than to the district school. He was very earnest in whatever he undertook, even in playing ball at the noon hour.

He married Sarah Poole, in March, 1857, taught about one year longer, then, at the earnest solicitation of his father, moved to the home farm. This moving business brought health and wealth; but some profession, possibly the law, was deprived of what might have been a very able member. His mental and physical energy equipped him for almost any position in life.

In his youth he was a school boy, in early manhood a school teacher, and in after years a school trustee, having served on the official board of his township for thirty years. What is still more remarkable, seven of his nine children became, for a time, school teachers.

Mr. Johnson is very strongly in favor of the temperance cause, and is an advocate of the higher order of politics. He is also quite public spirited, and fondly cherishes the hope that he may see a trolley line running between Wilmington and West Chester, along the Wilmington and Great Valley Turnpike.

Mr. Johnson and his very genial companion have reared a large and interesting family, six of whom are married and occupy prominent positions in life. Truly may it be said, that the fine old mansion at Johnson's Corner has shed a healthful influence over the affairs of Concord Township.

ELIZA J. TALLEY (500) married, February 22, 1866, George W. Weldin, who was born November 7, 1840. George was the son of George and Beulah Weldin; George, the father, was the son of Jacob, Jacob was the son of Isaac, and Isaac was the son of Jacob Weldin the first. The last named Jacob landed in this country about 1700.

George W. Weldin's career has been so interwoven with the Talley family that it is not out of place to mention him in this book. Being a staunch Methodist from boyhood, he was, of necessity, thrown much in the society of the Talleys, and finally married a Talley. Mr. Weldin, although a most successful farmer, is best known by his temperance and religious work. Temperance and religion are "hand and hand" with each other, hence George W. Weldin, being a consistent churchman, could not be other than a great temperance worker.

He has always been passionately fond of music, and he and his very interesting family, when in good tune, are able alone to give a very entertaining concert. He is also a local preacher in the church, and fills many appointments in the absence of the minister in charge. He is earnest, conscientious and faithful in all church labor, and is not a dry-weather Christian, but equally energetic in sunshine or in storm.

He was a patriot in the dark days of 1861. Having a widowed mother to support, he could not join the three-years' men, but joined the nine-months' regiment, and drilled at nights and worked at home during the day. They were "minute men"—men ready to go on a minute's warning. The momentous time came in the midst of the cherry season. George W. Weldin was over at neighbor Miller's, assisting in cherry picking, and well up towards the top of a huge tree, with a basket partly filled with cherries, when suddenly a member of his regiment was seen coming up from Wilmington at a full "double quick," calling out as he ran, "Come on, George—come on! We are ordered out!"

The patriotic George slid, jumped or fell down the tree—no one at this day seems to know definitely which. Over across fields he ran, with his neighbor's cherries in his hand. These he unconsciously threw down somewhere about his mother's house; and in less than one hour had joined his regiment in Wilmington, three miles from his home. Putnam left his plow in the middle of the field, and has been immortalized in history ever since. George took his neighbor's cherries to his own home, and no one, not even Mr. Miller, has given him praise for it.

Cherries or no cherries, he went to do his duty at Fort Delaware, and assisted in guarding ten thousand Confederate prisoners; and stood ready to perform any service that his country might place upon him. George W. Weldin never knew anything else than to do his duty, and to go wherever it called him.

JOHN SMITH TALLEY (468), is the first son of George W. and Lavinia (Beeson) Talley. He was born in Brandywine Hundred, Del., near what is now known as Shellpot Park, on May 23, 1840. He married Mary E. Beeson, January 17, 1867. She was reared near his early home, and was the daughter of Edward and Leah (Weldin) Beeson. His father being a man of great energy and activity, and John being the eldest son, he was thrown, at an early age, into the work about the farm, often filling a man's place.

His early education was obtained at the Shellpot District School, but mostly during the winter months. At the age of seventeen he passed a four-months' term at Barton's School, at Village Green, Delaware County, Pa. The next two winters he spent at the Upland Normal School, at Upland, Pa. The following winter he took a six-months' term at the Fort Edward Institute, on the Upper Hudson. He was accompanied here by William A. Talley, Daniel S. Ferguson and George L. Cloud, from Delaware. He returned from school in the spring of 1861, and finished Thomas W. Johnson's last term of teaching at the Shellpot School. He taught the same school for one year longer, and a spring term at Mt. Pleasant School in 1862.

In July, 1862, he made due preparation for another term at Fort Edward, with a view of entering Yale College possibly a little later on. In the early part of August he was arranging his trunk preparatory to his departure for the school on the Hudson. The war then assuming such vast proportions, he concluded that it would be better to assist in settling the war, and to get his education afterwards. He, with many other young men of his hundred, joined the First Delaware Battery, a select company of 150 men, under the command of Captain Benjamin Nields, of Wilmington. He remained in the army until the close of the war, and was discharged in Arkansas, and formally mustered out early in July, 1865, at Wilmington.

He entered the battery as a private, was made Sergeant, and soon was promoted to Orderly Sergeant. During the last year of the war he was commissioned Second Lieutenant. Perhaps no soldier served more faithfully than did he. An incident may be cited: During the New York riots of 1863, the battery was ordered there to assist in preserving peace. Returning to Washington by the P. W. & B. R. R., they made a short stop at the Wilmington depot, to permit relatives and friends to have a short visit with them. A great temptation was thus held out for the soldier to linger awhile with loved ones. But John Smith Talley, William A. Talley, and scarcely a dozen more, were on hand promptly when the train arrived in Washington, while many remained over until morning at Wilmington. General Barry, in command at Washington, gave immediate orders, that as soon as sufficient men arrived in camp to care for the horses and guns, that the faithful few should have a furlough for 48 hours.

After the war John Smith Talley took a prospecting trip in the West, and located at Litchfield, Ill. He engaged in the drug business, and did the largest trade in this line in the town. Being progressive he did not permit the store to absorb all his time, but in odd moments he was out among the enterprising men devising ways and means to extend the industries of the city. In this way he engaged with many others in sinking a coal shaft near the city line. As the coal business enlarged, the drug business was crowded out, and the store was sold. He was fortunate in associating with men of business foresight, for the company soon purchased mines and coal lands in the great bituminous coal region, between Terre Haute and Greencastle, Indiana.

The subject of this sketch seeing the vast prospects of the Indiana fields, decided to locate at Terre Haute, and be in the "midst of the fray." He moved there in 1877, and assisted in the organization of the Coal Bluff Mining Company of Indiana, with headquarters at Terre Haute. He soon became the leading spirit in the company, and through his energy its business has extended almost all over the Northern and Northwestern parts of the United States. He manages coal mines at Perth and Pratt, also the celebrated Block coal mines at Clay City. The bituminous mines at Fontanet, and Coal Bluff in Vigo County, are of vast magnitude. In these mines are used the great mining machines of the Jeffrey and the Whitcomb Mining Machine Companies. These machines are operated hundreds of feet under ground by power from air compressors on the surface. The annual output of coal amounts to 750,000 tons. There are employed about these mines 1000 men. The companies control about 1500 acres of land, much of which is underlaid with coal.

He owns 100 acres of building lots at Muncie, Indiana, and jointly with his brother, George A. Talley, owns two tracts in Delaware; one being 107 acres in Cherry Island Marsh, Wilmington, the other a farm on the Edgemoor Road, Brandywine Hundred.

The amount of his railroad travel is simply enormous. No distance appears too great when business or duty is at the far end. He is prompt in meeting his engagements, having acquired this faculty from army life, and from meeting trains.

He is President of the Mine Operators' Association of the State of Indiana, and always advises a conciliatory course towards the laborer. He is a Director of the Terre Haute Trust Company; a Trustee of the Young Men's Christian Association; a member of the Indiana Division of the Loyal Legion; a Master Mason; and a very active supporter of the Methodist Church. He has recently been appointed a lay delegate, from the State of Indiana, to the General Conference of his Church, which is to sit in Chicago in 1900.

His energy may be judged of when we find him President of the following named corporations: The Coal Bluff Mining Co., The Western Indiana Mining Co., The Standard Block Coal Co., The Chicago and Indiana Block Coal Co., The Surbaugh Drill and Tool Co., The Indiana Powder Co., and The Independent Powder Co. He seems to be as profuse in corporation matters as was William Talley of old, with his many farms more than a century ago, along the Foulk Road.

John Smith Talley is as generous as he has been prosperous. Thousands of dollars are donated by him to churches and other charitable uses. Whatever he is to-day he has become through his own industry, and from his progressive ideas, in spite of his education having been curtailed three years by the war. He was prompt and firm as a soldier, and since has been prompt and firm in business. He sometimes filled a man's place in boyhood, but in later years he has filled it always.

HANNAH TALLEY (454) married John M. C. Prince, October 9, 1862. She is the daughter of Lewis and Elizabeth (Zebley) Talley. Hannah was born March 12, 1841, on her father's farm along the Foulk Road. John M. C. Prince is the son of Adam and Charlotte (Hanby) Prince. Adam was the son of John and Sara Prince, and was born July 2, 1800. Adam had a brother named Isaiah, born March 12, 1797. John, the father of Adam, was the son of Adam, and was born November 5, 1760. The last named Adam was the first settler in Brandywine Hundred, of the Prince (Prentz) name. Adam, who was born in 1800, had two half-brothers, John and Abner. It is stated that they were both doctors and died in early manhood.

The Prince family is an old and respected one. They have continuously resided on the present farm of 100 acres, adjoining Carpenter's Station, on the B. and O. R. R., since 1762. At this date the greater portion of this land was purchased from Edward Cloud, the son of John Cloud, John being the son of Jeremiah Cloud. This is a fine dairy farm, but has other and greater value as sites for country homes, it being elevated and decidedly healthful.

The present Prince family have always been considered as having a large account at bank, in addition to their lands, and there is no doubt but what they realize much more income from the money at interest than they do from the farm.

Adam Prince (of later years) died on July 7, 1878, leaving his farm by will to his son John; also leaving to the Trustees of Bethel Church the sum of $500, to assist in paying off the debts of the church. His widow still survives, at the age of 87 years.

Hannah (Talley) Prince was musical in very early girlhood, being one of the "musical" Lewis Talley family. Her voice was contralto, while her sister Mary's was soprano. Lewis Talley and his family, a few years ago, were able to give a fine concert without other assistance. Hannah still aids in the choir at Bethel Church and finds great enjoyment in this work. She has been a member of this church since fourteen years of age, and her purse strings are easily untied when the church is in need of funds. She gives liberally and cheerfully, and is broad-minded and hospitable.

REV. JOHN T. SIMMONS (663) is the son of Margaret (Talley) Simmons and John Simmons. They resided in Delaware until 1836, when they moved to Ohio. John T. Simmons entered the Methodist ministry in Ohio. In 1855 he went to reside in Iowa, and then united with the Iowa Conference. He joined the 28th Iowa Regiment during the Civil War, became its Chaplain, and served with his regiment the full three-years' term. He was in the siege of Vicksburg, in the Red River campaign, and with Sheridan in the Shenandoah Valley; and was in thirteen different engagements.

In 1852 he married Martha Arganbright, of Ohio. In 1894 he married his second wife, Jennie S. Bryant, of Birmingham, Iowa. He is quite an able minister, having filled some of the best appointments in the Iowa Conference. He has served two terms as Presiding Elder, and was a delegate to the General Conference of his church, in 1872. On his paternal side he descends from the Simmons family, who lived near the Brandywine many years ago. On the maternal side he comes from the Talley and the Grubb lines. Although miles distant from the old Talley haunts, he still has a lingering affection for the sturdy pioneers who centuries ago dwelt here. He is willing to do his part in preserving his ancestry.

THOMAS LEA TALLEY (167) was the son of Curtis Talley, and also a grandson of William Talley, on the Brandywine, and was born in 1812, the year of his grandfather's death. He was remarkably strong and agile in his younger days, although not so large in stature as was his brother, Eli B. Talley. He was a man of honor and of excellent judgment, and was many times selected by the Courts to fill positions requiring both ability and clear judgment. He held many local offices, and discharged the duties thereof faithfully, and never avoided the performance of a public duty, although not in any sense an office seeker. He was Collector of Internal Revenue after the Civil War. Thomas Lea Talley was a leader in his party without being offensively such. His leaning was towards the Methodist Church. He died in May, 1882, and was interred at the Bethel M. E. Cemetery. Being exceedingly kind to his family, he was always ready to lend a helping hand. No generation is likely to be overcrowded with men of the ability of Thomas Lea Talley.

SAMUEL M. TALLEY (132) was born December 27, 1815, and married Sarah Aldred Day, the daughter of Joseph Day, in 1840. Samuel was born on his father's homestead, in Brandywine Hundred, southeast of Perry's Hotel, and was educated partly at the old "Talley School House." He was very apt at school and was prompt in everything he undertook. He studied far into the night by the glow of the "tallow dip." When his mother concluded that he needed sleep more than he did to solve a particularly difficult problem, she would take away the light. Often the boy was so intent on his study that he would linger awhile, stirring the coals on the hearth for more light.

Samuel, being a good mathematician, studied surveying with Isaac Grubb, and did some work laying out lands. He taught school three winters at Forwood's School House. He built his future home in 1841, and moved to it in the fall of that year. His father dying in 1839, the 100-acre farm was divided, 50 acres passing to each of the sons, Hezekiah and Samuel M. Samuel M. Talley held many small offices. He was a member of the Board of Trustees that erected the New Bethel M. E. Church, and gave largely to the building fund.

DR. JAMES ELY TALLEY (909) was born July 22, 1864, near Kennett Square, Chester County, Pa. He attended the public schools of Chester and Delaware counties, and spent two years at the Millersville State Normal School. In 1883 he entered the Ann Arbor, Michigan, High School, and being graduated there in 1885, he entered the University of Michigan in the fall of the same year. He pursued the studies required for the degree of Bachelor of Arts, elected biological and chemical work with the study of medicine in view, and spent the summer of 1888 in European study and travel. Receiving his A. B. in 1889, in the same fall he entered the Medical Department of the University of Pennsylvania, and was graduated with the class of 1892. After serving as resident physician for more than two years at the Presbyterian, Children's and Philadelphia Hospitals and the Infirmary for Nervous Diseases, he settled in Philadelphia, where he has been ever since in active practice of his profession.

THOMAS MILLER TALLEY (450), son of Lewis Talley the singer, was a remarkably bright lad in his youth. His eyes were weak from birth. As soon as he was of proper age he attended school, but soon his eyes began to fail, and when about fourteen years old he became entirely blind; and ever since he has gone through life in darkness. Although the world is dark to him, yet is his intellect bright and his feelings most buoyant.

He is happy, not on account of his condition, but in his good feelings for the world about him. He is most industrious, and can pick cherries from the tree, load hay in the field, and work with carpenter tools. Being decidedly musical, he can play almost all ordinary musical instruments. He goes where necessary upon the highways, not with a horse, but on foot, and mostly unattended. He has walked miles to church after night, and across railroad tracks, with nothing to assist him but his staff, and his implicit confidence that the whole world about him is his friend, and will not harm him. His memory is his daily register of events, and rarely fails him.

NELSON L. TALLEY (522), the son of John R. and Eliza Talley, was born April 7, 1852. He married Lava-nia Simons, daughter of Charles Simons, Sr., November 13, 1873. His father died in 1890, and was buried at Mt. Pleasant Cemetery. He left his farm, by will, to his son Nelson, the latter to pay certain legacies specified therein. In 1891 Nelson moved to this farm, the home of his birth, and at once began the improvement of the same. He spent about $2000 in the rebuilding of the house. He doubled the capacity of the barn and other outbuildings, and had an artesian well bored to the depth of 106 feet, which was fitted up with a windmill.

After this he began the betterment of the land, and in a short time he had 30 acres of his 56-acre farm in fine condition for the raising of garden crops. The hay-fields were not neglected, but were so fertilized that often a crop of four tons of new-made hay have been cut to the acre. Figuratively speaking, the desert was made to blossom as the rose. Five vegetables from these gardens are wholesaled at Chester and Wilmington; and retailed from his stand in the Eighth Street Market at Wilmington, which he has occupied for over twelve years, and also from his stand at Sixth and King Streets, which he has occupied for twenty years.

During the winter and spring he has in use in his hot-bed gardens about one thousand sashes. Water-pipes have been laid from the water-supply tank through these gardens, and lateral pipes have at intervals been branched off and adjusted with hydrant attachments, much the same as a water-works system in a small town. The hot-beds are thus irrigated, and early vegetables are raised according to the most modern system. About ten men and boys are engaged in these gardens through most of the year. Ten head of horses are in use on this farm. Mr. Talley, being up to date in his line of business, uses modern machinery and appliances, and his work is done by system. He is a moral as well as a working man. Six days' labor, and then one for rest and religious devotion, is his motto. This rule is religiously adhered to by him, and never violated unless on account of some overpowering necessity. He joined the Methodist Society at the Newark Union Church fourteen years ago. He is a steward as well as a local preacher in that church. His donations to the church are exceedingly liberal.

It can be truthfully said that Mr. Talley is an industrious, thrifty, religious and progressive man. This comprehends all, and constitutes complete manhood.

REV. JAMES WALTER TALLEY (1236), the son of James Wilson and Margaret E. Talley, was born August 22, 1871. He connected himself with the Methodist Church when fifteen years old, and first felt a call to the ministry the following year.

He attended the public school until seventeen years old. During the last four years of this period—having had such teachers as Harvey Whiteman, now a lawyer in Wilmington, Del., and Miss Lizzie Bigger, who afterwards taught and studied in Germany—he was kept in advance of the regular classes and pursued some studies not regularly taught in the public schools. In 1890 he attended "The Select School" in Wilmington of which Miss Rachel Bigger was principal. In the school year of 1891-1892 he was a student in the Wilmington Conference Academy, Dover, Del. Later, he spent one year in Drew Theological Seminary, Madison, N. J. After this he took up a Correspondence Course with a University in Chicago, Ill., where he received the degree of Master of Arts.

James Walter Talley was received on trial by the Wilmington Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, March, 1897, and was admitted into full membership in that body, March, 1899. He now holds an appointment under this Conference at Bozman, Maryland. He is deserving of great credit for his energy in preparing himself for his chosen work.

ELI BALDWIN TALLEY (162) was a man of magnificent presence. He was more than six feet tall, and large proportionately in breadth of shoulders. He was a man of marked natural ability and excellent judgment, and, like his body, his heart was large and generous, as is so often the case with men of generous physical attributes. Having lived among his neighbors of Brandywine Hundred all his life, he was highly respected by them, and his counsel and advice were freely sought and as freely given.

Mr. Talley was always interested in everything pertaining to his native hundred, and being a leader in his party, was ever active in local politics. He never was an office holder, in the ordinary acceptance of the term, although he held many small offices of trust within the gift of his neighbors. His domestic relations were extremely pleasant and cordial. In fact, through his whole life he was kind, generous and true.

HENRY GRUBB (777) is the fourth son of Joseph and Ann Grubb, and was born February 10, 1846. He was reared on a farm and received a limited education in the common schools of Putnam County, Ind. At the age of sixteen he enlisted in the Twenty-third Regiment Indiana Volunteers, or better known as the First Regiment Indiana Heavy Artillery. He was under the command of Generals Butler, Banks and Canby, in the Department of the Gulf. It is claimed that he was the youngest soldier who enlisted in Parke County, Ind. He served his full term of three years, and returned home in 1865.

He entered the Waveland Academy and received a fair education, and afterwards taught school for nine years in Parke County. On March 28, 1875, he married Euphony E. Harney, the daughter of John M. Harney. To this union five children were born. The eldest daughter died in infancy. The remaining children are, Miram M., Carrie, Marion H. and Clellie A.

In 1882 he was elected County Surveyor of Parke County, and has served as Deputy Surveyor for many years since. He also engaged in the lumber and stave business. In 1895 he manufactured the staves for the largest oak cask in the world. It is thirty feet long, and was manufactured in Calhoun County, Miss. This cask will be on exhibition at the World's Fair at Paris in 1900.

Mr. Grubb is also engaged in farming, and has a farm of 250 acres. He attended the Grand Army Reunion at Philadelphia, Pa., in 1899, and while visiting among his relatives on the highlands of Delaware, he accidentally came in contact with the Talley History. He at once placed himself in the way to secure a book, and in other ways demonstrated his kindness and generosity. Many ideas and principles accompany Mr. Grubb even when he is hundreds of miles from home.

ROBERT TALLEY (452) was born August 29, 1837. His parents were Lewis and Elizabeth (Zebley) Talley. Robert was deformed from birth in one limb, and although using crutches, he worked about his father's farm until he was fifteen years old. Samuel Hewes, a shoemaker of Chelsea, was coming home from Wilmington, by way of the Foulk Road, with a load of leather, and found the Lonkum Run so much swollen by freshet that there was danger in crossing it. He remained over night at the house of neighbor Lewis Talley. During the evening Lewis asked Mr. Hewes how he thought Robert would do for a shoemaker. The reply was that he could soon tell if the boy would come to his place and stay awhile. Robert went with Mr. Hewes, and ever after he has "stuck to his last." He served four years in learning his trade.

When the war broke out in 1861, Robert, being compelled to shoulder his crutches, could not shoulder the musket. He, being at this time a full-fledged "shoebuilder," served his country by making shoes. While his brother and thousands of other young men were serving the Nation in the field, Robert kept "pegging away" at home. He made shoes for Col. Henry McComb and other government contractors, and turned out more than five hundred pairs a year by hand. The government furnished the upper leather, cut out ready for use, and the sole leather was weighed out in the roll. Robert's business was to put the soles on these shoes at sixty-cents a pair. Many times were shoes condemned by the contractors, but Robert does not remember that any were turned back to him bearing the big letter "C" stamped on the sole. He continued this government work until peace was declared.

He married Emily Beeson, daughter of Robinson and Rebecca (Talley) Beeson, March 8, 1866, and ever since he has resided in the country. There he has found peace, plenty and happiness. Robert does whatever his hand findeth to do. He, in addition to his shoe business, repairs clocks, having learned this trade from Jesse Kendall. He also puts in and repairs pumps for those needing such work in his neighborhood. He, although afflicted with lameness, has "hoed his own row" in life, and "kept the wolf from the door," and has a fund "laid away for a rainy day."

He has been a member of the Bethel M. E. Church for thirty-four years, on the official board for twenty-six years, and has acted for many years as secretary to the Board of Stewards. He is musical and plays the organ at the church when needed. He has served his State in various ways in holding elections. He has been clerk and voters' assistant, and now holds an appointment as Assistant Register under the Governor's commission for two years. Robert is bright, industrious and thrifty. Although afflicted and not possessed of broad acres, it is difficult to find one with a broader smile of contentment, or one who meets the issues of life more cheerfully and philosophically than he.

JAMES WILSON TALLEY (527), son of Nelson L. and Rachel Ann (Wilson) Talley, resides in Brandywine Hundred, about one-half a mile west of the Newark Union Church. He resides on and owns a well-cultivated farm of about 50 acres. He is engaged in general farming, but prides himself in raising fine fruits and vegetables. When driving past his farm, one cannot help admiring his neat home and the well-kept grounds surrounding it. Mr. Talley is a modest man, not caring to have his many virtues brought before the public in a sketch. But his liberality in supporting our book, and his kindly and encouraging manner, entitle him to a word of commendation at our hands.

It is proper to state here that J. Wilson Talley is a prosperous man, a kind parent, and a most excellent neighbor. He has been a member of Bethel M. E. Church for years, and is Treasurer of the Board of Stewards of that church. His son, James Walter Talley, is a minister in the Wilmington M. E. Conference. Mr. Talley and his wife, Margaret (Cartmell) Talley, conduct affairs very smoothly about this model home.

LEWIS F. TALLEY (455) was born March 26,

Big Cut. - Row

1843, and married, February 15, 1870, Mary Miller, daughter of George L. and Jane Miller. He lives on the homestead, late of his father, Lewis Talley. This land was purchased by William Talley of old, in 1760, from the Pennsylvania Land Company, and was part of the great Rockland Manor owned by William Penn. This tract has never been out of the Talley name, but has been continuously occupied by the Talleys since 1760. Prior to this last date they were known as vacant lands.

Associated with the possession of these lands are the records, deeds and other valuable papers which established many important matters connected with our genealogy. These papers seem to have been transmitted from William to Thomas, and from Thomas to Adam, and from Adam to Lewis. This home must ever remain historic on account of it being the depository of these all-important papers.

Lewis F. Talley now owns this tract of 60 acres, also the house and a few acres occupied by his mother along the Grubb Road. These lands are well set with small fruits, and also with many cherry, pear and apple trees. As this fruit must be marketed, he raises fine vegetables to give variety to his salable products. He is a liberal supporter of the Bethel M. E. Church, where he and his family attend. He has served his School District in an official way for six years. The musical talent of his father has descended to the son's children. They sing and play without apparent effort, it being as natural for them to be musical as it is for the brook to babble over its pebbly bed.

Mr. Talley has the distinction of having been appointed by the Legislature of his State a Road Commissioner, by act passed March 30, 1895. This act overthrew all prior modes of caring for the roads of his hundred. He held under this appointment until 1896. In this year he was, on account of good and faithful services, elected by the people for the term ending 1900.

He is true to the interests of his hundred, and carries the respect of all about him, whether they be merely neighbors, or those interested in his official career. He was educated at the Forwood School, and has not retrograded since, but is of the kind that grows and improves as experience widens and opportunity unfolds itself. Lewis prefers to be known only as a plain American citizen. What a depth of meaning in these few simple words !

HENRY C. TALLEY (519) was born February 1, 1844, and married Anna Mary Mousley, the daughter of George K. and Ann Eliza Mousley, November 7, 1867. Henry learned the mason trade at an early age, and worked at it, by times, for several years. Before and after marriage he followed in the footsteps of his father, and fished for shad in the Delaware River. This was the real start in accumulating the funds to buy the farm. He recollects that in one year one thousand dollars was the result of three months on the river. It was not always thus, however.

He purchased of Jacob Jefferis the farm of 40 acres in Brandywine Hundred known as "The Hezekiah Talley Farm." This land was purchased many years ago by William Talley, father of Hezekiah. At the death of the latter, his brother, Samuel M. Talley, purchased this land, and afterwards sold it to Jefferis, and Jefferis sold it to Henry C. Talley. Henry moved to this farm in 1872.

In the great storm of 1878 Henry had the misfortune of having his barn partly blown down. This was discouraging to one who was struggling to pay for the recently-purchased home. His father kindly assisted him, and soon the barn was again erected. He has been able since to make many substantial improvements and to clear the land of all debt. He, like many others, raises large quantities of small fruits and fine vegetables for the Wilmington market. In this line he is greatly aided by his wife, who is a good marketer and exceedingly kind and hospitable.

He has served on the official board at the Point Breeze School for a number of years. He has been a member of the M. E. Church for thirty-five years, and has been Treasurer of the Board of Trustees of Bethel Church for about sixteen years. He most generously aids the church in a financial way, and even borrowed money at six per cent. interest a few years ago to help discharge the debt on the handsome new Bethel Church. Things have changed since, and perhaps Henry could be the lender instead of the borrower, at the present time.

He is most prompt in the payment of all bills. A second demand is never allowed to be made. He is not an office seeker, but votes when it is necessary to elect good and true men to office. He is exceedingly temperate in all things, excepting in work, and has reared a prosperous family, and possesses a fine reputation among his neighbors. Correct living and prosperity are often found hand in hand. This is abundantly shown in the life work of Henry C. Talley.

THOMAS SMITH TALLEY (495) was the son of Penrose R. and Edith (Smith) Talley, of Brandywine Hundred, Del. He was born before daylight of the morning of November 13, 1833. This was the morning of the "falling stars." A physician was procured from Wilmington to attend Mrs. Talley, and as he drove along the stars were falling in all directions. It was so alarming that the physician instructed the family to say nothing of the event to his patient, who had no knowledge of the strange phenomenon. The child and its mother passed through this phenominal period without any injurious results so far as is known. This child became a very lively lad, and a man of great activity and usefulness. He married Sarah Elizabeth Hanby, March 13, 1862, she being a daughter of William and Sarah Ann (Pierce) Hanby. William was a son of William and Sarah Elizabeth (Webster) Hanby, the last named William being a son of Richard. This family of Hanbys resided on the farm northeast of Hanby's School House in Brandywine Hundred. Camp meeting was held in the woods on this farm for three different seasons.

William Hanby, the father of Mrs. Talley, had the following brothers and sisters: John, George, Richard, Clark, Margaret, Fannie, Isabella, Sarah and Susan. The first three brothers mentioned moved to the West, possibly to Ohio. William remained on the home farm and died there, and was buried at the Siloam M. E. Cemetery, he being connected with that church.

Thomas S. Talley, upon his marriage, moved to one of his father's farms about a mile west of Booth's Corner, Delaware County, Pa. This farm consisted of 52 acres, and was purchased of Joseph Larkin. Thomas and his wife were both exceedingly industrious, and it was not long before this home became one of prosperity, as well as of happiness. They raised large quantities of fine apples and peaches, and realized handsome sums for the same in the market. The consequence was, that new outbuildings and additions to the house were erected, and money was also in bank to loan. He many times requested his father to sell him the farm, but the answer was that it was time enough for him to get it when he, the father, was done with it.

Thomas S. Talley died in 1890, and survived his father eleven years. The father died in 1879, and devised the farm mentioned to Thomas, he paying some small sums on other accounts. Thomas now became the full owner of the farm that he had been the acting owner of for years. His industry did not abate on account of the devise to him of the farm. He did his hauling usually in the winter, and it is said that for one week he never saw his home in daylight. Overwork led to consumption, which caused his death.

He was a man of strict integrity, and a member of Bethel M. E. Church for thirty-five years, also a member of the Board of Stewards. He rarely missed a Sunday at church, unless through sickness. He gave the sum of $700 towards the building of the new Bethel Church, and aided it in many other ways. Thomas was both zealous in home and in church work, and was manly in all things.

WILLIAM A. TALLEY (451) was born April 2, 1836, in Brandywine Hundred, Del. He first attended the Forwood District School in 1843, Milton S. Barlow being his teacher. He went to school here during the winter terms until he was twenty years old. His school days ended with a term at Ft. Edward, on the Hudson, in New York. On March 29, 1857, he engaged, as foreman, with Jacob Zebley, on one of the DuPont farms near the Delaware River, and remained there until August 7, 1862.

In the early part of the latter month several young men from Brandywine Hundred (including Charles W. and John Smith Talley) gave their names as members of the First Delaware Light Artillery. William A. concluded that duty called as loudly for him as it did for the others. He at once heeded the call, and joined this battery, as he says, "in our country's darkest days." The company took quarters in George W. Weldin's woods in Brandywine Hundred. William was here promoted to Corporal. The company moved to Camp Barry, at Washington, D. C., December 21, 1862. Here they drilled and made ready for service. In the spring they moved to Suffolk, Va., and while there had two engagements with General Longstreet's forces, and made a raid to the Blackwater River.

In the summer of 1863, they shipped by water from Washington to New York City, to assist in quelling the draft riots. They returned to Washington, and in mid-winter shipped from Baltimore on the "Arago" for New Orleans. They arrived there safely and camped in the Tivola Circle in the Crescent City. About March 1, 1864, they were ordered to join Franklin's Division, and prepare for Banks' Red River Campaign. The Delaware Battery was on this raid engaged in the battles of Cane River, Sabine Cross Roads, Monsuriaville, and Pleasant Hill. At the latter place the Union Army was reinforced by A. J. Smith's Corps of 10,000 men, and the enemy were driven back. The Union Army moved down to Alexandria, and remained long enough to permit Colonel Bailey to dam the river, and release the gunboats which were above the rapids. The enemy getting below our army cut off the supplies, and the men were compelled to subsist on boiled field corn for several days.

The Union Army moved on down the river, and while crossing the Atchafalaya River at Simmesport on a bridge of boats placed side by side, with planks extending from one to the other, they were attacked by Marmaduke's forces. The Delaware boys had some very active and exciting fighting at Yellow Bayou, a place close by. This battery did very effective work here, and soon silenced the enemy's guns. At this battle Sergeant Vernon's horse was killed by a shell. The Union Army shortly arrived at Morganzia, on the Mississippi. Here the battery remained until December 21, 1864, when they moved to Du Vall's Bluff, Ark. William A. was here promoted to Sergeant and placed in command of a gun. Here the company was discharged, June 25, and were mustered out at Wilmington, Del., July 3, 1865.

This was one of the lucky companies, and although in fifteen engagements, not a man received a scratch from the enemy's guns. Some of the wheels and a few splinters were knocked off some of the caissons, and one horse was killed. Another remarkable fact is that this company traveled, on railroads and on vessels at sea, almost from one end of the country to the other, and not a fatal accident occurred. A terrible catastrophe was averted, however. In 1863 the battery was shipped from Washington to New York by vessels. A part of the men were sent on a dilapidated river ferry-boat. As soon as she struck the surf at the mouth of the Chesapeake Bay the whole forward deck broke loose from the bottom, and all on board seemed destined to a watery grave. Fortunately, the "old tub" struggled back to land, and the soldiers were saved.

On March 27, 1866, being a free man once more, William A. Talley began farming on a small place which he had purchased from William L. Wilson. After a few years this farm was sold, and a larger one purchased, upon which he now resides. He is grateful for his success, and says, "by Divine help and good health I have been successful enough to procure a good home." He has held a few offices, such as School Director for many years and Assessor for four years. He was the Census Enumerator in East Brandywine Hundred for 1890, was Manager for the Mill Creek Mutual Fire Insurance Company for his hundred for a number of years, and is also Master of the Pomona Grange of New Castle County, Del. He joined the Bethel M. E. Church, under the ministry of Henry R. Calloway, in 1855, and aids the church in a substantial manner, being one of the large contributors to the fund for the building of the new church. He leads the choir, and engages in other departments of church work, and has been a part of the official board of this church for twenty years. He feels that he has been successful in his business life, and attributes this result to a wise and kind Providence that rules over all. He has been taught this doctrine for years in the church, and this is his faith and his hope.

CHARLES W. TALLEY (469) was born on his father's farm, one mile from Wilmington, in Brandywine Hundred, on September 25, 1842. He was educated at the District School, and at the Normal School at Millersville, Pa. He married Sarah Jane Perkins, daughter of Christine and Julia Ann (Pierce) Perkins, of Holly Oak, Del. In 1862 he joined the First Delaware Light Artillery, in company with his brother, John Smith Talley, and William A. Talley. He became Corporal, but after his brother's promotion to Orderly Sergeant he stepped to the position of Sergeant, in charge of a gun. He went with his company through to the finish in June, 1865, and was honorably discharged. He was in every engagement with his comrades, and did his duty faithfully. The services of this battery are fully detailed in the sketch of William A. Talley's life, given on another page.

When the war closed he became Superintendent of the Wilmington City Railway, which was then in its infancy and under the management of Joshua T. Heald. He was very successful in this line, and voluntarily resigned his position, and engaged in the saw-mill business. He was elected to the Wilmington City Council, and was a valuable member in that body. In 1883 he became Manager of the Diamond Match Company's immense lumbering plant at Ontonagon, on the Upper Michigan Peninsula, and remained there for several years. In 1890 he returned to Wilmington, and with Alvin R. Morrison formed the Delaware Construction Company; he and Mr. Morrison owning the stock of the company.

The Delaware Construction Company at this time did considerable important work, including the erection of bridges, among which were the Seventh Street Bridge, which crosses the Brandywine Creek near its mouth, and the fine Washington Street Iron Bridge, leading from Wilmington into Brandywine Hundred.

Under most severe affliction of himself and two other members of his family, he was compelled in 1898 to retire from business and spend the winter in Denver. The surviving children of the family are Ella M., Charles P. and Herbert. Charles W. Talley now resides at Terre Haute, Ind., leading a quiet life.

WILLIAM TATNALL TALLEY (180), son of Harman and Rebecca (Grubb) Talley, was born May 7, 1808, in Brandywine Hundred, Del. He was married December 23, 1835, at Philadelphia, to Anna Mary Elliott, the daughter of J. Cloud Elliott, of Elliott's Hill, in the same hundred. In May, 1836, they, with others of his father's family, moved to Ohio. William Tatnall Talley and his young wife settled on a farm eighteen miles south of Zanesville, in Muskingum County. Here they lived for almost fifty years. Five children were born of this marriage, four sons and a daughter. Two sons died in infancy, and on March 4, 1857, William Cloud Talley, a son 18 years of age, also passed away. He was a youth of remarkable literary tendencies. It is said that his writings, when a mere boy, were noted for their depth of thought and beauty of expression.

In 1861 the only remaining and eldest son, E. Hillis Talley, under a commission from the Governor of Ohio, raised a company, which became Company "D" of the 78th Ohio Volunteer Infantry. They encamped near Zanesville in the fall of that year, and in February, 1862, they were ordered to active service in the direction of Fort Donaldson. It is said that they arrived, not in time for the battle, but to take part in the rejoicing over the victory just won. Young Captain Talley had been tenderly reared, and the hardships of soldier life soon made inroads on his delicate constitution. Just before the battle of Pittsburg Landing he was stricken with fever. It was difficult at that time to get a furlough, and his Colonel advised him to go home without one; but he responded that he would sooner stay and take the chance of recovery than to violate a law to insure it. He remained, and passed away in the hospital at Savannah, Tenn., April 4, 1862. He was a favorite with both officers and men. His remains were brought North and laid at rest beside his brother, William Cloud Talley, in the county of his birth, and within sight of his once happy home. The only surviving child, E. Jennie E. Talley, was married October 11, 1876, to Samuel M. Rutledge, and moved to his beautiful home on the Muskingum River, nine miles from Zanesville. They have two children, William Cloud and George Armstrong Rutledge.

William Tatnall Talley was a remarkably large and fine-looking man. He was successful in life, and not only acquired a competency in worldly effects, but had some to spare in entertainment of friends and prominent men of his vicinity. He was very highly respected, and exerted considerable influence in State and County affairs. He was hospitable to the itinerant minister, and many found shelter and comfort under his roof. He and his wife were life-long members of the M. E. Church, and died in the faith; he on May 15, 1885, and she on July 20, 1886. After her decease a very touching poem, bearing date November 15, 1885, was discovered in her album. It was in her handwriting, and was supposed to have been composed by her, expressing her grief at the sad loss of her husband. A few stanzas are here given :—

* * * * *

“Oh! how he soothed my saddened heart,
 And calmly lulled my fears;
 Well may I say we shared our joys,
 And wept each other's tears.
 Thus do I sit and feed my grief
 With memories of the past,
 'Till naught in earth can give relief,
 And tears are falling fast.

I cannot fully understand
 Why thus my tears should flow,
 But what I know not here on earth,
 I shall hereafter know.
 Oh, what is all this world to me!
 'Tis filled with sin and care;
 Now all my treasures are in heaven,
 O! I would fain be there.

Yet, would I wait thy bidding, Lord,
 To leave this house of clay,
 And calmly resting on thy word,
 Pursue my lonely way.

Trusting that when life's work is done,
With him I'll join to swell
That glorious, that triumphant song,
Which echoes no farewell."

JACOB ATWOOD WELDIN (486) is the son of Jacob R. and Hannah (Talley) Weldin. He was born on his father's farm in Brandywine Hundred, Del., on January 31, 1855. He married Clara V. Talley, daughter of Lewis and Elizabeth (Zebbley) Talley, in 1879. Clara was born on February 12, 1858, and died August 3, 1895. She was quite musical and was an excellent singer.

J. Atwood Weldin attended the public schools in Brandywine Hundred, and finished his education at Professor Reynolds' Academy, at Wilmington, Del. He remained with his father on the extensive farm called "Chestnut Hill," near the Blue Ball Hotel, on the Concord Turnpike, until he married, in 1879. He then moved to the smaller farm formerly the homestead of his father, and which adjoined the larger place. Here he was convenient to aid his father in operating his farm, either with advice or labor, as circumstances demanded.

Upon the death of his parents, about seven years ago, he moved to his father's late residence. Here he has since resided, as successor to a most worthy sire. Upon the division of his father's estate he procured the fine, old and commodious mansion, with all the surrounding barns and outbuildings, together with 100 acres of the land adjoining. These buildings and this land constitute one of the excellent farming plants of Brandywine Hundred. Ever since this farm was purchased, about 1861, by Jacob R. Weldin, it has been a home of thrift and prosperity.

J. Atwood Weldin has inherited a large and finely developed physical form, the natural result of being the child of Jacob R. and Hannah Weldin. He uses his powers for the good of himself and others of his community, and belongs to and holds official position in all such beneficial societies as The Grange, the Order of United Workmen, and Knights of Pythias. He has been for years a Director of the Cherry Island Marsh Company. He is Treasurer of the Board of Trustees of the Mt. Pleasant M. E. Church of his hundred, having succeeded his father in this position of trust. He liberally supports the church, and is regular in his attendance at service. Owning a tract of land along the Delaware River, in Cherry Island, he much desires to see the city of Wilmington doing business on its true and natural "River Front." He has imbibed the spirit of public improvement, and is proud to see the developments around and about him of steam and trolley railroads, of good highways, and similar beneficial institutions. He is always ready and willing to perform his part in all efforts which tend to the betterment of the great world about him, and is a good and useful citizen.

CURTIS M. TALLEY (523) was born February 17, 1843, near Talley's Corner, on the Foulk Road. He married Anna Mary Miller, daughter of Martin and Ann Miller, on March 7, 1867.

In 1860 Peter Talley, his father, then owning a homestead of 30 acres near Forwood's School House, purchased of Lewis Weldin, the farm, now the home of Curtis M., consisting of 60 acres. Mr. Weldin bought this place at Sheriff's sale, it being sold as the land of Henry Frank. The fences and buildings thereon were in a ruinous state. Curtis and his father built, substantially, all of the buildings now on the farm. Curtis, when married, moved to this place. Then the uprooting business began in earnest. Fields were cleared, orchards and small fruit were set out.

He is an expert in fruit growing. His orchard near his home is a leafy bower, an overhanging mass of plum, pear and apple trees, amidst which are strawberries, raspberries and blackberries; everything in luxuriance. Here are also to be found the quince, the peach, and the cherry.

In this year of 1899, his row of smokehouse apple trees are a remarkable sight. Each one is almost a perfect dome in shape, with the fruit as evenly and regularly set on the branches as if placed there by human hands. These thrifty orchards are not a matter of mere chance. The spraying machine has performed an important part here; and booklearning has supplemented active experience. Science is important even in farming.

Fully understanding the grafting of trees, he has successfully grafted an apple branch into a pear stock. He failed in grafting a pear branch into the shade maple, as the sap of the maple overflowed and drowned the graft.

In addition to fruit, he raises general crops of farm products; and old corn is always to be found in his crib. He has occupied a stall in the Eighth Street Market, at Wilmington, for over twenty years, and raises for this trade the finest and newest sorts of vegetables, and has them in perfection. He is the cider-maker of Brandywine Hundred, having purchased a very modern press, which has a capacity of thirty-five bushels of apples at one press. He has made as many as one hundred and fifty barrels of cider in one year, and always has vinegar in his storehouse; one barrel contains vinegar twenty years old.

He supports the church, and has served fifteen years on the official board of the Forwood School District. It is said that the Tax Collector never came twice for his tax. He inherited a strong constitution, and uses it most industriously. He owns 90 acres of land in two farms. These he acquired and holds largely through his progressive industry, his integrity and fair dealing.

ISAAC N. GRUBB (634) is the son of Adam and Julian (Talley) Grubb. His mother was a daughter of Harman and Priscilla (Foulk) Talley. Harman married, as his second wife, Rebecca Grubb, a sister to Adam above named. By this arrangement Isaac N. Grubb's grandfather became his uncle by marrying his aunt Rebecca, and Adam Grubb's father-in-law (Harman Talley) became his brother-in-law.

Samuel Grubb, Isaac N. Grubb's*grandfather, was a first-cousin to Hannah Grubb, who married William Talley, the grandfather of Harman Talley. Hannah (Grubb) Talley then was the great-grandmother of Julian (Talley) Grubb. From this we deduce the fact that Adam Grubb and his wife Julian were third-cousins once removed; and that Harman Talley and his wife Rebecca were full third-cousins. We need, then, no apology for inserting a sketch of Isaac N. Grubb in this Talley Record.

Isaac N. Grubb's ancestry in America runs in this way: John first was the father of John second, John second was the father of Samuel, Samuel was the father of Isaac, Isaac was the father of Adam, and the latter was the father of Isaac N. Grubb. The subject of this sketch resides on the farm which was first owned by his great-great-grandfather, John second. His great-grandfather Samuel, his grandfather Isaac, and his father Adam, were all born on this spot. On this farm he was also born. It is said that it never has passed by deed since the patent from Penn, but has continuously passed from father to son by will. The old stone colonial mansion (the Grubb home), it is stated, was built in 1787, and is finished inside with fine paneled work. This house shows very little injury from age or from the elements. Three different shingle roofs have been placed upon it. The first roof was put on with nails made by hand at the smith-shop.

His grandfather Isaac, on September 11, 1777, the day of the battle of Brandywine, set out at the easterly corner of the house a catalpa tree. It is still living, although the wind has taken away its top. This tree measures eighteen and a half feet in girth, two feet above the ground. Another tree, remarkable, not for its girth, but for its shapely top and over-towering and beautifully spreading branches, is an English walnut, fully seventy-five years old. This tree in one year has produced thirteen bushels of nuts.

Mr. Grubb has in his possession two heirlooms which he justly prizes highly. One is his "grandfather's clock," a tall eight-day clock, purchased by Isaac Grubb, his grandfather, in 1778. It cost £14, as is shown on the old account book. This is a remarkable clock. It tells the day of the month, and to all appearances it is as good as the day it was made. It keeps time accurately at the present date. The other heirloom is a very old Bible, which was printed in London in 1738 by John Baskett, Printer to the King. It is stated on the title page that it is the New Testament of our Lord, translated from the Greek, and diligently compared with former translations, and commanded to be read in the churches. There is in this Bible a very valuable register of deaths and important events happening in the neighborhood about one hundred years ago.

Mr. Grubb has filled many important offices. He was elected to the Levy Court of his county in 1884. He was chosen President of the Board in 1886, and acted as presiding officer until 1890. His office of Commissioner expired 1892. During his eight years of service in the court many important bridges were constructed, in all of which matters he took very active part. The Market Street Bridge over the Brandywine was rebuilt; the Third Street Bridge over the Christiana was rebuilt, and was the second drawbridge in the United States to be operated by electricity. Then came, in regular order, the acceptance of the donation to the county of the Seventh Street Bridge across the Brandywine, and lastly, the procuring of the erection of the Washington Street Bridge, which has become the great viaduct leading from Wilmington into Brandywine Hundred. Mr. Grubb was quick to perceive what his constituents needed, and took most energetic steps to procure it for them.

Isaac N. Grubb is living a quiet life on his farm of 100 acres on the old Grubb Road. He is genial and hospitable, and enjoys the entertaining of his friends and neighbors. Like his ancestors of old, he is a man of strong character and of great influence in his neighborhood.

WILLIAM W. TALLEY (576) is the son of Thomas Lea and Mary Ann (Hanby) Talley. He was born in Brandywine Hundred, not far from the "Old Talley School House," on October 5, 1845. He married R. Emma Baker, daughter of Dilworth and Hannah Baker, of Chester County, Pa., on April 26, 1870. In the spring of 1871, just one year after his marriage, he moved to his father's home farm of 135 acres, along the Naaman's Creek Road. He purchased this farm in 1880, and for several years he and his energetic companion carried on business here with industry, economy and great success. The work of the farm becoming too severe for them, they concluded to rent it and to take life more easily. He purchased the very nice, new home, late of William Talley, son of Eli B. Talley, located on the Concord Turnpike at Talleyville, Brandywine Hundred, and moved there a few years ago.

William's industrious habits would not permit him to live in idleness, so he continued his milk business in the city of Wilmington, which he had carried on for many years while on the farm. He is strictly a business man and a home man. These qualities usually bring success, and Mr. Talley's good judgment led him to adopt this course in life.

He is of a genial disposition and is respected by those whom he meets in business or otherwise. He is not a church member, yet he inclines to the Methodist Church. Although now fifty-four years old, he is very youthful in appearance. It has been well said of him that he never "engages in any political schemes." He, however, votes at important elections, and has the interests of his country at heart. He has shown a kindly interest in our efforts to preserve our family's ancestry. He is, all in all, one of our very excellent citizens.

BENJAMIN F. TALLEY (409), son of Adam G. and Sarah (Aldred) Talley, was born in Delaware, and now resides at Mt. Ayr, Ringgold County, Iowa. He taught school for sixteen winters in Iowa, working on his farm in summer. In 1888 he was elected Recorder of Deeds for his county, and served in this capacity for three terms. Having gained a large amount of valuable information while Recorder, he concluded to open an abstract and real estate office at Mt. Ayr, the place of his residence. In 1895 he and his sons, Lloyd and Adam C. Talley, purchased the abstract books and business of an old firm at Mt. Ayr, and put out the sign, "B. F. Talley & Sons." They do a general Real Estate and Abstract business, and stand high in the business world of Ringgold County. Their abstract work is well known for its neatness, accuracy and completeness.

Lloyd Talley, the son, is County Surveyor of his county, while his brother, Adam C. Talley, is editor of The Southwest News, at Greenfield, Mo., being an experienced newspaper man. Another son, Ambrose E. Talley, is a minister of the Methodist Church, in the Des Moines Conference.

Still another son, Gilbert H. Talley, is City Editor of The Ringgold County Record, at Mt. Ayr.

Many of the descendants of Adam G. Talley are holding positions of prominence in the educational, religious and business world. In addition to those above noticed of Benjamin F. Talley's family, we may mention: Martha A. Stahl, Professor of Latin and History, Simpson College, Indianola, Iowa; W. Sherman Stahl, Attorney-at-Law, Chicago, Ill.; and Catharine J. Stahl, a Missionary in India. The latter is the heroine, who, during an earthquake at Darjeeling, India, in October, 1899, saved many of the Mission children by her coolness and bravery, announcement of the fact being made at the time through the public press of our country.

Adam G. Talley moved with his family from Delaware to Thornsville, Perry County, Ohio, April 1842; from Ohio to Hamilton County, Indiana, October, 1850; and from Indiana to Ringgold County, Iowa, June, 1856. He took with him to Iowa all of his children except Catharine R. Ford, who continued to reside in Indiana with her family until her decease. The family, with the exceptions mentioned above, are engaged in agricultural pursuits, and are distinctively religious, almost all being members of the Methodist Church. This is a remarkably large family, and have furnished the only representatives of the tenth generation. They may well feel proud of their numbers, their high position in life, and their influence for good.

But...
WILLIAM TWADDELL TALLEY (185) was born May 6, 1817, on his father's farm, and on which he has ever since resided. This spot is in full view of the historic Brandywine Creek, and is in the extreme western corner of Brandywine Hundred, close against the Pennsylvania line. William Talley, his grandfather, bought this land in 1807, and upon his death it passed to Elihu Talley, father of William T. Talley. The latter inherited this and other lands from his father, but by his thrift he has been able to add acres to his estate, so that it now runs well up to 300 acres.

The subject of this sketch, having inherited a vigorous constitution, has been one of the workingmen of our family.

Now, at the ripe age of 82 years, he is active, and moves about almost as in youth. He aids in the work, and advises about all matters connected with the management of the farm. He has had little time to gossip about hotels or smithshops, but always finds something useful for his mind and hands to engage in.

We are told that years ago he made a large amount of money in the timber and wood trade, selling these products in Wilmington, Chester and West Chester. He has even hauled timber and lumber with team to Philadelphia. For years he was Manager of the Mill Creek Fire Insurance Company for his hundred. He was elected Road Commissioner for one term, but has had very slight ambition to occupy places of public trust. Although generally voting at elections, he does not care to linger about the polls.

He and his wife, for a number of years, have been members of the Brandywine Baptist Church, and are very much attached to the church of their choice. In order to encourage the building of a chapel near his home, he donated an acre of ground for this worthy purpose, and aided in other ways, to the end that there has been erected on the edge of his farm, close by the State line, a cozy little church, with a seating capacity for about two hundred persons. This, in honor of its most generous benefactor, has been named the "Talley Chapel."

William T. Talley, on November 16, 1843, married Elizabeth Heyburn, of Birmingham Township, Delaware County, Pa. The children of this marriage are, Elihu Dallas, Sarah Ann, John Heyburn and Letitia B. They all reside at home except John Heyburn Talley, who resides near Perry's Hotel, on the Concord Turnpike, where he conducts a farm, keeps a store, and performs the duties of Postmaster.

William T. Talley received his education at the District School, but he has been able to do much better by his children, and has educated them at the Boarding or Select Schools of Chester County, Pa. Elihu, the son, has been for several years Treasurer of Pomona Grange, of New Castle County, and was a charter member of the West Brandywine Grange. The whole family are courteous, intelligent and very much respected. They are willing to devote time and money to religious work, or to any commendable, social or charitable enterprise. They therefore stand high in the estimation of those residing in their vicinity.

SALLIE EDNA DOWLIN (1447), a grand-daughter of J. Henderson Talley, married Rev. Joseph Lawton Guernsey, June 21, 1899. He is the only son of Elizabeth W. and Prof. A. B. Guernsey, and was born at the Fort Edward Institute, N. Y., January 31, 1874. He joined the Methodist Church at the age of fourteen years, and decided to enter the ministry. He was educated at the public schools of Bridgeport, Conn., and at Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa. The year before entering college he was pastor of the M. E. Church at South Wilton, Conn.; and at the present time is pastor of the M. E. Church at Long Hill, in the same State.

JOHN BOOTH (511) was born on the original Talley tract, July 15, 1843. He married Margaret A. Phillips, December 20, 1866. This family has preserved several valuable historic deeds and other important data. They hold in their possession the oldest Talley deed known to be in existence.

John Booth, on August 31, 1864, enlisted in Company B, of the 203d Pa. Vol. Infantry. The regiment was organized in the early part of September, 1864, and on the 22d of that month started for the front, and were before Petersburg on September 27. They were attached to the Second Division of the Tenth Corps, and were engaged at the battle of Chapin's Farm the day they landed, and here had one killed and six wounded. On December 7 they shipped under General Butler for Fort Fisher, on the Cape Fear River, in North Carolina. They landed on December 25, with a view of attacking the fort. The attack was not made, and the troops were by General Butler ordered back to the James River, in Virginia.

On January 2, 1865, General Terry was placed in command of a second expedition. It was only a few days until they were again in front of the fort. They landed January 14, and, in conjunction with the fleet, began an attack upon the stronghold. The 203d Pennsylvania Regiment was attached to Ames' Division, and this division was selected to make the assault. This Regiment made the attack in the face of bullets and grape-shot, and was fearfully cut up. It was one of the first to enter the fortification, and fought hand to hand with the enemy, nearly all of its officers being either killed or wounded. In this fearful struggle the regiment lost forty-six men killed and one hundred and forty-five wounded. Inside the fort were nine different traverses to be taken. The fighting continued from three o'clock in the afternoon until midnight, when the last traverse was taken, and the Stars and Stripes were thrown to the breeze.

John Booth and Theodore Smith (another descendant of the Talley family) rushed with their comrades over the numerous breastworks, and aided in gaining this glorious victory. The action of this raw regiment, recruited in September, 1864, and in January, 1865, found charging with all the vigor and coolness of veterans, is a glorious record for the American Volunteer. The regiment rested until February 21, when they aided in taking Wilmington, N. C. They then marched to the interior, and made a junction with General Sherman's Army. They were afterwards detailed for guard duty at Raleigh, and were discharged at that place, June 22, 1865.

JOHN THOMAS TALLEY (481) is the son of John and Sarah A. (Stidham) Talley, and was born January 10, 1862. On November 21, 1891, he married Lillie O. Mayne, a daughter of William and Rebecca Ann Mayne, who reside in Wilmington, Del. Upon his marriage he built a comfortable brick residence in East Lake Park, Wilmington, and there began housekeeping. His mother dying in 1893, the next year he sold his home in Wilmington and moved to his father's homestead in Brandywine Hundred. At his father's request he took charge of the farm, and managed the same on his own account. He has conducted this farm in a very orderly and successful manner ever since. He attends strictly to business, and is very honorable in his dealings.

For about five years he has been Treasurer of the Cherry Island Marsh Company, and performs his work in this line with satisfaction to all concerned. He is a young man, yet he is painstaking, conscientious, genial, and of excellent habits. Having made a proper start in life, he may well hope for success and prosperity all along the way.

JOSEPH M. PIERCE (513) married Susanna T. Barlow, daughter of Malachi Barlow. Mr. Pierce is the son of Joseph and Sarah (Talley) Pierce. His mother was born January 27, 1809, and was twenty-seven years old on January 27, 1836; on this day Joseph M., her son, was born. Joseph, the son, was not only born on January 27, but he was married on January 27, 1863, when he was twenty-seven years old.

He learned the carpenter's trade in Wilmington. The first work done by him as a contracting carpenter, was the building of a barn for his uncle, Penrose R. Talley, of Talley's Corner. The barn now stands on the farm of the late Charles Talley, son of Penrose. Mr. Pierce being accustomed to fine work in the city, worked out the lumber for this barn almost as smoothly and exactly as if it were a city mansion. Both he and his uncle were proud when the barn was raised and everything matched so nicely.

Mr. Pierce served as Tax Collector of his hundred for two years, also for a like term as Trustee of the Poor, and is a member of the Grange. He has been a member of Bethel M. E. Church for thirty-five years, and was a Trustee and a member of the building committee when the new church was erected, and was the contractor for the carpenter work on this fine edifice. He has been a class leader in this church, and cheerfully aids it in a financial way.

regular B.
ABNER P. TALLEY (574) married first, Sarah J. Graves; and second, Hannah Mary Harkins. This family is remarkable on account of the number of its children. There were twenty-five children born of this father by virtue of the two marriages; eleven by the first, and fourteen by the second. We often read in the newspapers of prolific families, not knowing whether it be truth or fiction. Here we have the facts, and anyone may read the name of each child in its proper place in the list. Two of the first eleven died in infancy, and the remaining nine all married. Abner P., Jr., and Hannah B., of the second line, have followed the example set by their older brothers and sisters, and are each now the head of a family.

The descendants of this father are not only numerous, but active and prosperous. Those who have married have made a good start in life, each launching into business with independence and a determination to succeed. This family has shown its loyalty to the Talley cause, and have subscribed for ten books. What other family can excel this one in the number of books taken?

If there is strength in union, there surely must be great power in numbers working in unison. Who, then, can forecast the power of this great family for good in the years that lie before them? We no doubt speak the sentiment of all of the Talleys when we wish the parents and this extensive family prosperity, harmony and happiness far into the future.

JOSEPH BEESON TALLEY (475) was born and reared on his father's farm in Brandywine Hundred, near Wilmington. He was the ninth child of a family of ten children. After attending the District School, he completed his education at Professor Reynolds' Academy in Wilmington. On January 28, 1877, he married Hannah Mary Blackwell, and began farming on one of his father's places, and resided in the old mansion on the Philadelphia Turnpike at Maplewood, close by the Riverview Cemetery. He continued farming until a few years after his wife's death, in 1882. His health not being good, he visited relatives at Chicago and Terre Haute. After his return from the West, he assisted his father in managing his business until the latter's decease, in 1888.

He married as his second wife Sarah J. Lodge, April 4, 1889. She is the daughter and only child of Isaac W. and Mary Jane (Hanby) Lodge, of Holly Oak, Del. In 1890 he moved to the farm of his father-in-law, and continued there until 1894. His health again failing, he quit farming, and built a store and residence on the Philadelphia Turnpike, at Holly Oak. Here he began the developing of the business of a general store, being greatly aided by his active and energetic wife. He at once became Postmaster, for a post office is an inseparable adjunct to the rural store. Mr. Talley has been very obliging, always bringing into his store such a selected line of goods as is demanded by his many customers.

The steam railroad accommodations were excellent at Holly Oak, but in 1899 the great Wilmington, Chester and Philadelphia Trolley line was put into operation, and gave fresh impetus to the already very thriving suburban river town. The building of many handsome residences on the beautiful hill slopes all reflect rays of prosperity in the direction of the store. Joseph B. does not object either to the building up of the town or the extending of his business.

He is a property owner with others of his name in Cherry Island Marsh, and was for some years the Treasurer of the corporation. He is a member and a supporter of the Mt. Pleasant M. E. Church, being a member of the Board of Trustees, also of the Board of Stewards. He is conscientious and prompt in his dealings, and is deserving of the success he has attained.

HENRY IRVING TALLEY (814) was born at Philadelphia in 1854. In the year 1869, and when fifteen years of age, he entered the Railroad and Telegraph service, and has been connected with different companies in the East, West, South, Southwest and Northwest, sometimes as operator and at other times as manager of office, until the year 1887. At this date he engaged in the typewriter business, and is still occupied in this line. During the year 1896 he traveled in Europe, visiting the following countries: England, Ireland, Wales, Scotland, Belgium, Switzerland, Austria, Bavaria, and Northern and Southern Germany.

In June, 1898, he designed a six-turreted Monitor of twenty-two guns—twelve in the main battery and ten in the secondary battery. The Monitor is of an entirely original pattern. The design was sent to the Government at Washington, he receiving in reply several letters of acknowledgment, signed by the highest officials in the Navy Department. His plans have been filed by the officials for future reference.

He is one of the vigorous helpers in getting data and subscribers for our Talley History, and is solicitous to know all about the Talley family of old.

CURTIS TALLEY (554), son of Eli Baldwin Talley, died September 18, 1851, aged 22 years and 10 months. He was a member of Star of Bethel Lodge of I. O. of O. F., of Delaware. Upon his decease a beautiful poem was composed by Milton S. Barlow. Two stanzas are given below :—

Friendships throne! how pure and fervent
 Was thy worship at her shrine,
 Friend of man!—of God the servant,
 Love and truth in thee did shine:
 Loved by thee our faithful Brother
 We have been and hope to be—
 Vain the wish, for soon another
 Quenched thy light—'tis dark with thee,

Dark with thee?—no: thy Creator,
 All whose creatures and whose laws
 Thou didst love, will give thee greater
 Light than earth's, as earth withdraws
 To thy God thy immortal spirit
 Back, we give in filial trust
 Thy cold clay—we grieve to bear it
 To its chamber—"dust to dust."

THOMAS TALLEY WELDIN (487), son of Jacob R. and Hannah (Talley) Weldin, married Emma M. Naylor, daughter of Isaac and Phebe Naylor, late of Brandywine Hundred, Del. Thomas T. Weldin attended the District School, and Reynolds' Select School in Wilmington, and finished his education with a six-months' term at the Millersville State Normal School in Pennsylvania. He made his home with his parents until after his marriage. Soon after this event he moved to his new home at the intersection of the Foulk Road and the Concord Turnpike. He thus remained close to his parents, assisting them in conducting matters about the farm until their decease, about seven years ago.

Upon a division of his father's estate he received about 100 acres of the fine Chestnut Hill farm, and several acres of the River Front land in Cherry Island Marsh. There are also included in his property list several brick houses in Wilmington. After acquiring his land, he immediately erected near his house an excellent barn, with all necessary appliances. He thus placed himself in a way to do business, and has succeeded finely in his undertaking. He finds some spare time to devote to the public affairs of his hundred, and has satisfactorily filled the office of Trustee of the Poor for several years. He is a member of the Order of United Workmen, and a member of Dupont Lodge, No. 29, A. F. A. M. He, like his brother, J. Atwood Weldin, has inherited a fine physique, and is able to carry out what he undertakes. He is liberal in donations to worthy objects, and does not fail when the church calls for aid. The family attends the Mt. Pleasant M. E. Church, Mrs. Weldin taking an active part in the singing.

Thomas T. Weldin favors public improvement, and is quick to see the value of his land for farm use and its value for building purposes. The city of Wilmington is reaching out in his direction, and he needs no one to notify him of the fact. He is a man of integrity and good business judgment.

JULIA L. and PAUL TALLEY, children of Charles W. and Sarah Jane Talley, died within two weeks of each other at Denver, Colo., and as a small tribute to their memory this sketch is prepared.

The daughter, Julia L., was an earnest and devoted member of Trinity P. E. Church in Wilmington, to become later, when the family removed to Philadelphia, a member of St. Matthias' Church. Not ever strong, she was debarred from doing as much charitable and church work as was always her desire; but she was ever a faithful attendant at both church and Sunday school. It is not vouchsafed to every one to do great and noble deeds, but those who are faithful to the little duties of life, who make the world brighter for their having lived in it, and to whom can be applied the words, "She hath done what she could," have neither lived nor died in vain.

Paul Talley was a young man of brilliant attainments and of much promise. He was graduated at the Wilmington High School, class of 1894, and on this occasion received the Latin Prize. Having decided artistic talent, he turned to architecture as being a most congenial occupation, and in the fall of 1894 he entered the University of Pennsylvania, taking up the four-years' course in Architecture. At the end of two years he was, on account of ill-health, advised not to prosecute his studies longer. In the autumn of 1898 the family left Philadelphia for Denver, in search of health. Paul and Julia did not long survive, both dying in June, 1899. Their remains were brought from Denver to Wilmington, and were, in sadness, buried June 23rd beside their brother, Stillman J. Talley, in the family lot in the Wilmington and Brandywine Cemetery. 'Gone not into darkness, but into a clearer day than our poor twilight-dawn on earth.'

NATHANIEL BOOTH (509) is the son of Nathaniel and Charity (Talley) Booth. In August, 1855, Nathaniel, Jr., sixteen years of age, and his brother, Enoch, twenty-four, shipped from New Bedford, Mass., on a full rigged ship called the "Navy," on a whaling voyage around the world. They sailed across the Atlantic, and when leaving the Cape Verde Islands, Enoch was stricken with yellow fever; and, within a few days he died, and was buried at sea off the west coast of Africa. The vessel sailed around Good Hope, and turning north visited New Zealand, Van Dieman's Land, Australia, most of the Polynesian Islands, the Philippines, and the Japan Islands. In June, 1856, they passed through Behring Strait into the Arctic Ocean, and spent the summer in whaling, north of Siberia. Nathaniel and five others got lost in a fog while away from the ship. They had to spend some time with the Esquimaux before they could find their way back.

At the farthest point reached by the ship there were but two hours of night in summer. Here, for the first time, Nathaniel says, he saw the phenomenon of the "Mock Sun." He says he could see two distinct suns, one above the other. This was not visible below the 68th degree of north latitude. The vessel could not remain in this Northern Ocean longer than the first of October, or it would be frozen up fast until spring. They always journeyed southward for the winter. Once, as they sailed south through the straits, the wind being ahead, they had to tack ; and as they " beat " to the westward they could hear the roaring of the surf on the Siberian coast. When they " went about " and sailed to the eastward they could hear the dashing of the waves on the Alaskan coast. They thus visited both continents in a comparatively short space of time.

While in the Esquimaux country, and having a craving for fresh meat, they traded a piece of calico to the natives for a scrub bullock, which had hair on it several inches long. These hardy whalers knew well how to prepare it for the culinary department. It made an exceedingly palatable stew, and was a welcome treat to those who had so long subsisted on fish and salt provisions.

Nathaniel informs us that the largest whales inhabit the Arctic regions ; one very large species, called the Bow Head whale, is found only in the North. The latter are so very large that one will often produce as many as sixty barrels of oil. Nathaniel being young when on this trip, his eyes were wide open to everything new and exciting. He still keeps his whaling voyage fresh in memory. He changed ships at Honolulu, and returned home by way of Cape Horn, and landed on Long Island, New York, in 1858, having experienced three years of dangerous and exciting life on all of the oceans of the world. Here ends the first important period of Nathaniel's life.

The second period began when, on October 1, 1861, he enlisted in Company " F " of the 97th Reg., Pa. Vol., Colonel Guss commanding. This regiment was recruited in Chester and Delaware Counties. They camped at West Chester November 12, 1861, went to Washington, and passed down to Fortress Monroe. They joined the Tenth Corps, and went to Port Royal, S. C., and then to Florida. They afterward moved to Charleston, S. C., and joined in the attack there. This expedition did not succeed. A second attempt was made in April, 1863, with Gillmore commanding. The 97th Regiment landed on Folly Island, marched up and passed over to Morris Island. This regiment had plenty of fighting about Charleston, and lost several men there. They assisted in the capture of Fort Wagner.

A large Parrot gun was placed on logs in a marsh several miles from Charleston, for the purpose of shelling the city. This gun was called the "Swamp Angel," but by the men it was dubbed the "Marsh Hen." Nathaniel was detailed to help take ammunition to this monster in the swamp. The gunner in charge was a German. He said to Nathaniel that, "ven dish old hen cackles, she vill lay an egg in Charleston." She did not stop with laying one egg, but kept on until several were laid in one day.

The regiment, after some other work in the South, returned to Virginia and rejoined the Tenth Corps, under General Butler. They moved up to Bermuda Hundred, and had continuous service in that vicinity. The regiment made a dashing charge, May 18, 1864, and gained some lost ground, but lost nineteen killed and thirty-eight wounded. In a desperate charge on May 19th, they had three officers and forty-four men killed, and eight officers and one hundred and twenty-one men wounded. They were present before Petersburg at the time of the famous mine explosion. They were engaged about Petersburg from May, 1864, until their discharge in October following. This was a crack regiment, and went into service fifteen hundred strong, and had a band of twenty pieces. Only a few stood in line to be mustered out at the end of their three-years' term.

An interesting episode occurred as the men lay in trenches about Petersburg. Men, by turns, were detailed to carry soup from camp to the men at the front. Nathaniel was detailed for this work on September 3, 1864, the day of the celebration of the fall of Atlanta. As he came across the open country with a huge bucket of soup in each hand, cannonading began everywhere along the Union lines. He, having no knowledge of the order, concluded that a terrific battle was raging along the whole front. This was the only time that Nathaniel was frightened during the three years of active service. He felt strong when with his comrades and armed with his gun, but trembled when he found himself alone and armed only with soup. He fully realized that soup might be a fair diet to "fight on," yet it was a very inferior weapon to fight with. Fortune smiled on the brave, and Nathaniel passed through the whole three-years' term of continuous conflict without a scar and with only one fright.

THOMAS TALLEY (152) was born November 11, 1810, and died August 13, 1899, in his 89th year. He married Elizabeth Bird, May 31, 1849, she being a daughter of Joseph and Rebecca Bird. Thomas Talley owned at his death 100 acres of land at Talley's Corner, on the Foulk Road, in Brandywine Hundred. His constitution was remarkably strong, never having failed him, until he approached the four-score mile-stone of life. When a young man he visited Ohio, but did not remain long, concluding to settle near his birth-place, in Delaware.

His only surviving daughter, Leah, married Thomas Booth, of Booth's Corner, Delaware County, Pa. Their two children are Thomas A. and Laura E. The latter is a school teacher in her home county, and the former is a student in the Medical Department of the University of Virginia.

WESLEY TALLEY (174) was born January 12, 1812. He taught school for many years at the Rockland School on the Brandywine. In later life he removed to Wilmington, and became identified with the business men of that city. Here he was respected for his promptness and correct business habits. He held many positions of trust, and at his decease was the Treasurer of the School Board. He was most abstemious and correct in his daily life, and was, above all, gentlemanly and urbane to those with whom he had intercourse. It is said of him that in whatever position placed, he was always worthy of the confidence reposed in him.

Wesley Talley had natural mental endowments, which were cultivated by study and application, and all of which were ever nourished by elevated moral principles. He passed from life with the respect of all, and will be kindly remembered by those who knew him.

MABEL TALLEY (1116) is the daughter of George A. and Julia Emma (Perkins) Talley, and was born in Chicago, Ill., June 20, 1879. She has a literary turn of mind, and has written many short stories, some of which have found their way into public print. She has aided much in collecting material for the Talley Book, and for this purpose has accompanied her father in almost numberless trips with horse and buggy through Brandywine Hundred, and many parts of Delaware County, Pa. Page after page of manuscript has been copied by her and her mother, and they have acted as audience when the copy was being rehearsed, before forwarding it to the printer. All of the members of this family of three have performed important work on this family book.

ISAAC JONES TALLEY (237) married Eliza Grubb, of the Grubb family of Brandywine Hundred. He was born in 1814, near the Foulk Road, in Delaware, his parents being Mary and Harman Talley. He went West many years ago, and was a prominent man at Madison, Ind. He engaged in "steamboating" on the Ohio and other Western rivers, and became quite wealthy, in one instance making a large sum by the rise in the price of wheat, which he had fortunately purchased. His business being largely on the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers, and the war coming on, he was thrown into the midst of its activities. He used his boats in the Government service, and made many hairbreadth escapes.

During the Red River campaign he owned one-third interest in the City Belle, a large steamer, and was her captain. The boat was employed as a transport to carry troops and supplies up the Red River to relieve Banks' Army. When about twenty-two miles below Alexandria, the City Belle was fired on by the Confederates, who were concealed on the shore. Many soldiers and officers on board were killed, being at the time unarmed and with nothing to protect themselves. The vessel was burned, and Captain Isaac Jones Talley was made prisoner, and carried to a Texas prison, where he was held until the close of the war. Here he suffered starvation to such an extent that he was reduced to a mere skeleton, although a very robust man when taken prisoner. His emaciated condition is shown by a photograph taken after his release. His sister, Mrs. Mary Jane Pyle, of Booth's Corner, Delaware County, Pa., is in possession of letters written by him to his mother in 1865, which very graphically describe the destruction of the City Belle, and the hardships in the Texas prison.

Although everything had been lost by the war, he, at the age of fifty-one years, with true Talley courage and energy, was soon engaged at his old business on the river and nobly battling to retrieve his fortune. He again succeeded, and left at his death, in 1873, several thousands of dollars to his family. Very few of the numerous Talley family were aware of the existence of this plucky Delaware Talley, when he was steaming his boat into the jaws of death on the Red River, or when, after the war, he, alone and single handed, was fighting the battles of life all over again, and was wooing Dame Fortune, up and down and over the shoals of the winding Western rivers. A new and glorious page is here added to the Talley History, and Isaac Jones Talley is the hero.

MISCELLANY.

SOUTHERN TALLEYS.

We have been able to get a few disconnected names of the Talleys in Virginia. They are here given for the assistance of those who may be willing to take up the task of connecting the two families of the North and the South. We believe that the Talley family of the South have had persons of decided ability in their ranks. Several of the older members of the Virginia line resided in Hanover County, one of the great battles of the Civil War in that section having been fought on "Talley's Farm." Obadiah Talley was one of the very early Talleys in Virginia, although he may not have been the emigrant Talley in that State. We find that Alexander, Elkanah, Thomas, William and Ezekiel Talley lived at some period in this county. Alexander Washington Talley and Herbert Washington, his son, reside at Petersburg, Va., and are dentists. There is also a storekeeper in the same city named Chestine Talley.

The following Talley names were taken from the Richmond Directory for 1898, by Thomas S. Robinson, in the interest of the Talley Book, viz: Alvin, a driver; Ann P., widow of Zackariah; Charles H., a policeman; Daniel D., secretary to the Dean of the Medical College; Edward, a locomotive engineer; Elizabeth M., widow of Nathaniel; Ezekiel S., a carpenter; Frank, a hoseman; Gatewood, Jr., a blacksmith; George S., a stenographer; George T., a farmer; James A., a salesman; John F., a book-keeper; John L., a tipstave for the Supreme Court; John W., an engineer; Malinda; Mary E., a dressmaker; Mollie J.; Nathaniel; Nathaniel, Jr.; Richard A., a book-keeper; Robert B.; Robert H., stenographer; Robert W.; Waddey W.; Walker R.; William T.; and Williamson, an insurance agent.

Sarah Archer Talley published a book of poems. She resided at Richmond, and died there about 1859. Allen W. Talley is cashier of a bank at Lynchburg, Va. Rev. Nicholas Talley was a minister of the M. E. Church, South. He was born in Richmond, Va., May 2, 1791, and died May 10, 1873, at the age of 82 years. For many successive sessions he was a delegate to the General Conference of his church.

We take the following from a Genealogy entitled "The Cabells and Their Kindred" :

Pauline Preston married Dr. William Talley, who went from Cumberland County, Va., to Wentzville, Mo. He was a son of William Talley by his wife Fannie Daniels, a sister of Judge William Daniels the elder, and daughter of William Daniels, an ensign in the Revolutionary War. Dr. William and Pauline Talley had two sons—Dr. William Talley, Jr., who married his first-cousin, Lucy Talley; and Joseph Talley. Aurinthia Preston married Joseph A. Talley, brother of Dr. William Talley. He lived at Wentzville also, and had one child, Lucy Talley, who married Dr. William Talley, Jr.

There are, it is stated, a great number of Talleys in Tennessee, and in Mississippi. South Carolina was also, in the early day, a home of the Talleys. It has been stated to us that recently a monument was unveiled at Columbia, S. C., which had been erected in memory of a Doctor Talley, a man of great prominence.

In a book of the Grant family, just issued, it is stated that William Nathaniel Talley, born at Fredericks Hall, Va., August 4, 1857, married, on January 20, 1880, Caroline H. Tompkins, who is a grand-daughter of Rachel Maria Grant, who descended with General U. S. Grant from Noah Grant, their common ancestor. It is said that Rachel Maria Grant taught the future President his alphabet. William Nathaniel Talley is the son of Samuel Cole Talley and Emma Cole Talley, of Virginia. He is Superintendent of the K. and C. R. R. R., of West Virginia, and resides at Montrose, in that State.

It has been found in the records at Washington, that John Talley was a member of Washington's Dragoons in the Revolutionary War.

A LETTER.

The following is an extract from a letter written by Isaac Jones Talley to his mother, dated "Madison, (Ind.), July 31, 1865":

"DEAR MOTHER:

"It has been a long time since you heard from me. I have got home again. I suppose you heard of my capture on Red River, on the 3d of May, 1864. I was a prisoner of war for thirteen months. I was at Camp Ford, Texas, Smith County.

"Mother, I tell you what we had to eat: One pint of corn, or corn meal, per day, three quarters of a pound of beef per day and salt, and that was for eight long months; and in winter time one pint of corn or meal and one pound of bacon for six of us a day. Only think, the one-sixth of a pound of bacon and a pint of meal, or corn in its place. I lost forty-three pounds of flesh while in prison. When captured I owned one-third of the steamer "City Belle," and had on board the 120th Ohio Volunteers, commanded by Colonel Spegal. He was killed. Colonel Mudd, of the 3d Illinois Cavalry, and Colonel Basnett, of the colored regiment, were killed; and there were only about thirty-five colored troops on board, and some of the 19th Kentucky Volunteers, making in all 900. There were a great many killed on board. Mother, I was captured twenty-two miles below Alexandria, Louisiana. The rebels burned the boat and all we had, which cost us nearly $24,000. I owned one-third of it." * * * * "I carried the musket a short time, and then took charge of the steamer "Caroline," which I built in 1862, and sold her in 1863, and bought the "City Belle," which I was captured on." * * *

"Remember me to Aunt Hannah and her family; also excuse me for being so neglectful and disobedient. May health be your lot in your old age! and write to me at Madison, Indiana."

THE FOURTH STREET BRIDGE.

This drawbridge spans the Brandywine River near its mouth, at the westerly end of Fourth Street, in Cherry Island Marsh, Wilmington. It was largely through the instigation of the Talley family that this bridge was constructed. They owned land in Cherry Island, between the city proper and the Delaware River. The city also, through the generosity of George W. Talley and Isaac S. Elliott, was the owner of Fourth Street, one hundred feet wide, extending from the Brandywine River eastward to the Delaware. The citizens of Wilmington were careless as to whether this street was brought into use or not; also as to whether or not this river front property should remain an undeveloped and foreign district of the city. The marsh owners reasoned thus: We are in the city, yet not in. If in, let us prepare a way to go in and out at pleasure.

An act authorizing the Directors of the Cherry Island Marsh Company to erect a bridge across the Brandywine River, at the point mentioned above, was prepared by George A. Talley, and its passage by the Legislature of the State of Delaware was secured on April 27, 1891. The act authorized the building of the bridge by private subscriptions. It provided that the bridge, when it was completed for public travel, should be conveyed and donated to the County of New Castle by the Marsh Directors, and should thereafter be taken charge of as a county bridge by the Levy Court of the county.

The Marsh Directors by formal power of attorney, authorized and empowered George A. Talley to procure the donations of money for the purpose mentioned in the act, and to contract with the Delaware Construction Company for the erection of the bridge. Every dollar of the money used in the erection of this bridge was obtained by private donations, the public having no part in the matter until the bridge was turned over to the county as a completed structure. The attorney above named procured all of the subscriptions, and the Marsh Directors, viz: Jacob R. Weldin, Charles W. Talley, William Sellers, Isaac S. Elliott and Thomas J. Talley, met and adopted the plans for the bridge, and approved of the site selected for the same.

A contract was made by the attorney with Charles W. Talley and Alvin R. Morrison (the members of the Delaware Construction Company) for the building of the bridge. The bridge was completed, according to contract, on April 23, 1892, and was, by two separate deeds, made under the hands and seals of the Directors of the Marsh Company, conveyed and donated to the County of New Castle as and for a public bridge forever. The following members of the Talley family were subscribers to the fund, viz: John Smith Talley, Charles W. Talley, George A. Talley, Thomas J. Talley, Joseph B. Talley, Jacob R. Weldin and John Talley, Sr.

The bridge was thrown open to public travel on April 26, 1892, this being the time of its acceptance by the Levy Court. The bridge was a substantial wooden structure, and has served its purpose from 1892 until the present time. It is the connecting link which unites the Fourth Street of the meadow with a street on the westerly side of the Brandywine. It has served a dual purpose: it has let the City people out, and, at the same time, has let these Marsh people in.

A most terrific onslaught was made by a few prominent citizens of Wilmington against the acceptance of the bridge by the Levy Court. The battle waged furiously, both outside and inside of the court room. The right, however, at last prevailed, and the bridge earned its well-deserved victory. The Talley Marsh owners were in the forefront of this contest, and were aided by the influence of their Talley friends, and many others in the "Old Hundred," as well as in the city of Wilmington: petitions by the yard being signed by these friends. Many men of prominence gave friendly aid, among them being Hon. Thos. F. Bayard. The much-abused bridge at last caught the popular ear, and almost every one was happy to join the River-Front Army. The day of conflict has ended, and all now tread in harmony the great road to the River.

This bridge has opened up the vast tract of one thousand acres of land, which lies within the city, and occupies, substantially, the whole Delaware River frontage of the city. Many acres of this meadow have been filled by pumping in mud from the rivers. A project is now on foot for the filling of larger tracts with mud from the Delaware channel. This tract is destined, in the near future, to become the dock yards and wharfing front of Wilmington.

THE CHURCH.

The Talley family, so far as we have found, have been friendly to the church, and largely are members and supporters of it. We find the early ones in America attending the

BETHEL M. E. CHURCH.

St. Martin's P. E. Church at Marcus Hook, and the St. John's at Concord, both in Delaware County, Pa. Their church affiliations may have much to do in demonstrating their nationality. They being so distinctively Protestant, one may well conclude that they were either French Huguenots, or were reared in the free and Protestant atmosphere of romantic Wales. The family of the present day (and those before us) have believed in a church free from the restraints and dominations of worldly powers, and in which the Divine power alone was supposed to rule. They, in colonial days, worshiped with the Episcopal Church, but when Methodism came into the "Old Hundred" they allied themselves with that denomination. The Bethel Church was the first Methodist Church in the northern part of Delaware, and was established somewhere near the site of the present church. Robert Cloud donated the land in 1780, and his sons, Robert and Adam, became the first Methodist ministers in that section. The pioneer church was built of logs; the second was of stone; and the third, and last, of serpentine stone and of brick.

The picture on another page represents the present edifice, which was kindly photographed by Leonard C. Talley; the photo-engraved plate being furnished by other descendants of Lewis Talley, the singer. The picture has been inserted not as a claim that the Church belongs to the Talley family, but merely to present the home church of the upper Brandywine Hundred Talleys, to the view of others of our name residing in distant parts of the country. This church to-day stands as the representative of the early log church, and thus represents the birth-place of Talley Methodism. Our whole family, from East to West, should ever remember with pride and affection this rural sanctuary, and the sacred home of the departed which adjoins it.

AN ANECDOTE.

We have the following, reported by O. B. Talley, of Sioux City, Iowa: His uncle, Henry N. Talley, of Batavia, Ohio, was in 1848 on a visit to his relatives at Hagerstown, Md., he then being a young man. While on this visit he received a letter, dated June 8, 1848, from his young friend, P. B. Swing, of Batavia, and who in later life was Judge of the United States Court in Ohio. This letter is now in the possession of Frank F. Talley, of New Richmond, Ohio, who is a son of Henry N. Talley. It contains the following: "We have an officer of the army here who has taken a fancy to all the girls in town, and is towing them on all occasions. I think if you were here you might clip his feathers, but the rest of us boys are all afraid of him and dare not interfere." The officer referred to was Lieutenant U. S. Grant, who was born in Cleremont County, Ohio, not many miles from Batavia. He was fresh from the fields of glory in Mexico, being home on a leave of absence. The troubles of the Batavia boys were, however, but for a moment, for Lieutenant Grant married Julia B. Dent, on August 22d of the same year.

A CORRECTION.

Since writing Chapters VIII and IX, at pages 36, 37, ante, some additional information has been obtained. It appears in the Swedes' record at Wilmington, that a William Talley married Judith Fitzsimmons, November 4, 1768, one day before William Talley, on the Brandywine, married Dinah Stilley. We now, by a deed in the possession of Elihu Talley, son of Eli B. Talley, find that William and Judith Talley conveyed to Eli Baldwin 50 acres of the 175 acres of land bought by Samuel Talley first, from the Pennsylvania Land Company; and by another deed it is shown that this William purchased these 50 acres from Samuel Talley first, and that William was the nephew of Samuel. William, who married Dinah Stilley, was also a nephew. Samuel having two nephews named William, one would of necessity be the son of David Talley. We conclude then that William, who married Judith Fitzsimmons, was the son of David Talley, one of the three sons of Thomas of old.

THE ISAAC JONES TALLEY FAMILY.

marriage, but lived only a short time. The mother only survived her marriage about two years. George L. Talley married as his second wife, Dora Rebecca Donham, January 17, 1883. She is of Scotch-Irish lineage. It is said that some of her ancestors, at one time, were usurpers of the throne of England. They fled to Spain for safety. The children of this marriage are ; Lulu Ethel, born Jan'y 15, 1884 ; Clyde Edgar, born Sept. 12, 1885, died in 1887 ; Charles Maurice, born July 9, 1891 ; and Norman Donham, born Aug. 31, 1893. George L. Talley is a member of various secret and other societies, is an ardent Republican in politics, and has been connected with the Post Office Department at Cincinnati, Ohio, for about twelve years. He was born June 6, 1850 ; his brother, Isaac Elbie Talley, was born March 28, 1856 ; and his sister, Emma J. Talley, was born July 3, 1847.

Emma J. Talley (797) married Watson N. Brown. They reside at Steubenville, Ohio. Their children were : A daughter who died at the age of 2 years, and George E., a son, died at the age of 13 years.

Captain E. Hillis Talley died in the hospital from typhoid fever at Savannah, Tenn. Wellington G. Lloyd was wounded at the battle of Gettysburg, July 2, 1863, and lay on the field for several days without the proper attendance. He was removed to Tilton Hospital at Wilmington, Del., and there expired on July 29, 1864, and was buried at the Mt. Pleasant M. E. burying-ground in Brandywine Hundred.

Edward Talley was wounded at the battle of Petersburg, on July 11, 1864, and died on July 21 of the same year. He was also interred at the Mt. Pleasant burying-ground.

Adam Clark Talley died from fever in a hospital in Virginia.

George L. Lloyd served in several battles with his regiment, but being a seaman by occupation, he was transferred to the navy. While in the land service, it is said that he had a very lucky escape. A ball passed through his coat sleeve, one passed through his canteen, and still another passed through his hat. Escaping the dangers of the war, he engaged as captain of a vessel on the great lakes, and was lost in a storm, with his crew, on Lake Superior, Nov. 19, 1886.

INCIDENTS.

It may be that William Talley the emigrant landed at Upland (Chester), Pa., at or near where the Penn Landing Stone is now located. From here he took a westward course, stopping for a time on the east bank of Chichester Creek, Delaware County, then known as Chester County, Pa. Here he wooed and married Mrs. Elinor Johnson (Jansen), the widow of Jan Jansen, who, it has been claimed, was Vice-Governor Jan Jansen of the Dutch Colony on the Delaware.

William, after spending his honeymoon, passed on to Foulk's Corner, in Rockland Manor, and there located. His descendants moved on gradually westward, until one, William Talley, a great-grandson, met the Brandywine torrents; here he stopped. This William had a son, Rev. John Talley, and John had a son, James Zebbley Talley. The latter, in early manhood, gravitated back to Chester, Pa., and for many years resided within two hundred feet of this historic landing-place, and here he passed away.

William Talley the Great had a son Thomas, Thomas had a son Adam, and Adam had a son William D. Talley. William D. resided, after marriage, at Talley's Corner, in Brandywine Hundred; later he moved to Maryland; still later he moved to Delaware County, Pa., and for years lived east of Chichester Creek, on the same tract that Elinor Jansen resided on at the time of her marriage to William Talley the emigrant. William D. Talley died at this place.

William Talley the Great was a member of the St. Martin's Church at Marcus Hook, in Delaware County, Pa.; so were his sons Thomas and William, and his brother Samuel, members there. The only discovered record that shows their relation to this church was found at the home of Benjamin Johnson, who now occupies almost the identical spot on which stood the residence of Jan Jansen of old.

These are merely incidents, and perhaps of some interest as matters of history.

SCHOOLS.

The Talley School House is located on the Naaman's Creek Road, a short distance east of Perry's Hotel, in Brandywine Hundred. The land on which it stands was donated by Curtis Talley by deed dated in 1806, and recorded in Book H³, page 81, at Wilmington. The deed recites that Curtis and Mary Talley his wife, 'In consideration of the esteem which they bear to their neighbors and in regard for the education of children and also in consideration of fifty cents,' etc., sold and conveyed (the tract of land on which the school house was afterwards erected) to Amer Talley, Jesse Plankenton and Joseph Talley, as trustees, for school purposes, and upon which a school house was thereafter to be erected. This deed provides that in case a dispute arises as to the use of the property, it shall be decided by the Legislature of Delaware. Many of the early Talleys were educated at this place. Rev. John Talley and Rev. Curtis Talley both taught at this school. It was used for church purposes for many years after it ceased to be used as a school. This time-honored building is almost a total wreck, as can be seen by the cut on another page.

The Talleys, although not all possessed of a collegiate education, are and have been much interested in educational matters. It is exceedingly rare to find a family with a list of teachers equal to the one here given. This is only a partial list, as no doubt many belong herein of whom the proper information has not been obtained. The known list is as follows:—

53.	Rev. John Talley.	174.	Wesley Talley.
165.	Rev. Curtis Talley.	971.	Ida Green.
205.	J. Henderson Talley.	805.	J. Jackson Peirce.
409.	Benjamin F. Talley,	868.	George W. Phillips.
1004.	Martha Stahl.	1181.	Winifred F. Weldin.
1003.	Catharine J. Stahl.	1382.	Mattie W. Johnson.
468.	J. Smith Talley.	1376.	Harriet E. Johnson.
470.	George A. Talley.	1375.	Mary Eva Johnson.
473.	Ella Talley.	1378.	Maggie A. Johnson.
1121.	Mary L. Robinson.	1380.	Sallie E. Johnson.
777.	Henry Grubb.	1377.	Lottie T. Johnson.
624.	William W. Johnson.	1383.	Thos. W. Johnson, Jr.
613.	Thos. W. Johnson.	761.	Matilda B. Walter.
456.	Elizabeth J. Talley.	918.	Hanna R. Lenderman.
132.	Samuel M. Talley.	1198.	Laura E. Booth.
1161.	Penrose R. Talley.	370.	Harman H. Talley.

We gather from this record of teachers that the Talleys were an intelligent class, and did not hide their light under a bushel, but were willing to impart what information they had obtained, to others of their neighborhood. The Church and the Public School are all-important factors in the processes of building up a community and of introducing civilization. In this way are the germs of morality and enlightenment implanted in the home, and the seeds of good government sown in the nation.

CONCLUSION.

The allotted space having been more than filled, our work in this behalf must of necessity come to a close. The searching for our ancestry and genealogy at the early stages brought pleasure and created enthusiasm. As the months passed, the enthusiasm increased instead of diminishing. In pursuing our labors we have passed over all of the hills and through all of the valleys that were along the way. Our work being one largely of friendship, we have no disposition to indulge in odious comparisons of the merits of our family with others. Some may believe it presumptuous for us to issue this book ; but after months of careful application and study, we are wholly unable to find in ethical culture or from the Science of Propriety the true line of greatness at which the historian's pen may begin, or the exact point below at which it must be dried and laid aside. Must a subject rise to the eminence of a Napoleon, a Washington, or a Lincoln, before his virtues may be recorded even in a family history? Should not this delicate question be left to the decision of those who choose to preserve their history in this way?

Having begun this labor with nothing but the best of motives, we have pursued it earnestly and faithfully to the end. The work having passed our scrutiny and judgment, it must now be handed over to the final arbiters—our many kind and indulgent friends—and later, may we hope, to a charitable and generous posterity.

November 15, 1899.
